INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY REACHES NEW PEAK FOR YEAR

UNITED STATES MAY ADOPT VAST 2-FLEET POLICY

Force Sufficient To Cope With Three Nations Under Consideration

CANAL'S VULNERABILITY TO AIR ATTACK STUDIED

Construction Of Another Waterway Via Nicaraguan Route Proposed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The vital importance of the Panama canal in American naval policy and its vulnerability to air attack are prime considerations in the re-study of national defense needs which President Roosevelt announced recently.

Two solutions of the problem have been proposed. One is the construction of a less vulnerable sea-level canal via the Nicaraguan route; the other is the building of a separate fleet to remain in the Atlantic.

There has been no word from the president or any other administration spokesman as yet to hint at an impending change in the basic idea of American naval policy—a single fleet.

Such a fleet must be able to shuttle from ocean to ocean via the Panama canal to meet any threat of attack either directly upon the United States or upon her South American neighbors, whom this country has long been pledged under the Monroe doctrine to shield from European aggression. The Panama canal was built primarily for that purpose. Until post-World war developments in the air changed the situation, it was the foundation stone of naval policy in this country.

Naval experts who were questioned about the cost of providing a separate fleet for the Atlantic of sufficient size to insure the security of national interests and policies in that ocean placed the figure at around $3,000,000,000. The cost of the Panama canal, as computed at the date of its official completion in 1921, was $525,000,000.

Army engineers have estimated the cost of a Nicaraguan canal would be $722,000,000, and the time required to build it ten years.

A third proposal is to construct new and larger locks on the Panama route

PESSIMISM HITS BRITISH PEOPLE

Chamberlain Faces Task Of Rearming And Keeping Peace With Germany

(By Associated Press)

Both England and France, parties to the "Munich peace" which pared the Sudetenland from Czechoslovakia, today faced the problem of quicker rearmament in an atmosphere of pessimism over the future of relations with Germany and Italy.

Unless Britain's armed strength is sufficient to match Germany's, many British quarters believe, surrender instead of compromise will be inevitable when Chancellor Hitler raises the question of returning pre-war colonies, the next item on his agenda.

Its rearmament program slowed for months, the French government made it plain yesterday that it had committed itself to heavy purchases of war material unless an agreement could be obtained to minimize Europe's dangers of conflict.

Spanish insurgent air attacks on government-held Mediterranean ports veered from Barcelona to Valencia, their intensity presaging possible new offensives.

On a potential war front, the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border, more

JAPS VOW FULL CHINA CONQUEST

Plan To Keep War Going Until All Resistance Stamped Out

WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY BEFORE HANKOW, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The commander of the forces pressing on Hankow, General Shunroku Hata, declared today that Japan would continue her war until all anti-Japanese resistance ended.

He said the Japanese would chase Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek into extreme southwestern China, if necessary, and were prepared as a last resort to fight any nation challenging what he called Japanese national rights and interests in China.

He predicted early capture of Hankow and the "smashing of organized, large scale Chinese resistance."

Japanese staff officers, jubilant over the capture of Canton yesterday and the now faster approach of their own forces on the Hankow front, asserted they would be in Hankow within two weeks.

They said Hankow's defenders were disheartened and were virtually collapsing in all sectors.

While Hata was being interviewed at his field headquarters, Japanese naval

ADVANCES SHOWN IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Against a background of rising industrial activity, the stock market today pushed ahead $1 to more than $3 a share for many trading leaders in unusually brisk week-end dealings.

Aviation issues, helped along by the declaration late yesterday of a $3 dividend by Douglas Aircraft, headed the advance. Steel issues, motors and a wide variety of manufacturing stocks participated in the advance which left the ticker behind the market at times.

The forward move appeared an extension of the general advance which has been under way since the signing of the Munich European appeasement pact and analysts generally agreed it was based on prospects for a further business expansion.

The Associated Press index of industrial production this week was at the highest level since last November.

Some of the best gainers in the final hour of the short session were Bethlehem Steel, United States Steel, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn L. Martin, Westinghouse Electric, du Pont, Santa Fe, Kennecott, American Can, United States Rubber, Sears, Roebuck, and Montgomery Ward.

U. S. MAY OPPOSE OR COLLABORATE WITH GERMANY

Two Schools Of Thought Develop On Dealings With Dictator Nations

BOTH SIDES AGREE ARMS MUST BE MADE STRONGER

Oppositionists Say America Should Be Ready To Hold Back Nazis

By Andrue Berding

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The United States government appeared today to be approaching a choice between opposition to or limited collaboration with the dictator states.

Out of the "peace of Munich," two schools of thought have developed at the state department.

One says: "Germany's recent aggrandizement in central Europe produces stabilization. Germany's energies will be spent in economic development, especially in central Europe. Her thoughts will be more on commerce than cannon, more on money than machine guns. We can therefore afford to collaborate with her."

The other says: "Germany will, it is true, devote every energy to the development of central Europe. But she will develop herself militarily as well. And she will go out for other markets, too, particularly in South America. We must oppose her, not work with her."

In the opinion of some diplomats here, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy advanced the collaboration idea in his navy league speech in London this week.

"We have to live together in the same world," he said, "whether we like it or not."

But some experts interpret Secretary of State Hull's public utterances as indicating he holds the second view. After Kennedy's speech, Hull stated that America's foreign policy still rested on his and the president's previous declarations. Some of these abounded with criticism of the aggressions of the dictator nations. Hull also said Kennedy's utterances were his personal opinions.

The seven-point program for peace which the secretary outlined in his last radio address conflicts on several important points with Germany's policies.

Both schools of thought in the state department agree that: "Our rearmament program must continue, on sea, land and air."

For the "collaborationists" this means, in effect:

"It is better to collaborate, but we never know what will happen with Hitler in power."

For the "oppositionists" it means: "We have got to be ready for the time when the greater Germany, backed by the resources of all central Europe,

OLD FRAME LIGHTHOUSE COLLAPSES IN WISCONSIN

Many High School Football Games Cancelled Because Of Bad Weather

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Winter staged a chilling preview in parts of the middle west today.

A snow and sleet storm, descending suddenly on a northeast wind, swept across northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Power lines were snapped. Communication and electric light services were disrupted, and highway traffic impeded. Gales in upper Michigan halted ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac. Storm warnings were ordered posted for the Great Lakes.

Ishpeming, Mich., reported eight inches of snow. Iron Mountain, Mich., had six. Snow plows were busy throughout the area. Many high school football games were cancelled.

One hospital at Red Wing, Minn., was without heat as its oil and stoker plant failed. Others were without lights. Temperature readings of freezing or below predominated.

A 60-year-old frame lighthouse marking the pierhead at Manitowoc, Wis., harbor toppled into shallow water of Lake Michigan after high waves undermined its stone foundation.

The Chicago weather bureau predicted the storm probably would continue tomorrow in upper Michigan, with rain or more snow. Sagging temperatures were forecast for lower Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Warmer weather was looked for in Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Kansas and in parts of Iowa and Missouri.

BISHOP ASSAILS BAD LITERATURE

Tells Catholic Women To Work To Have 'Salacious' Matter Barred

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Bishop John F. Noll of Fort Wayne, Ind., in an address prepared for delivery here today before the opening afternoon session of the National Council of Catholic Women, urged enforcement of the laws against "salacious literature."

The paper was read, in the absence of Bishop Noll, by the Most Rev. Emmet M. Walsh, bishop of Charleston, before 250 Catholic women members of the council.

Attacking the publication and sale of "salacious" magazines, Bishop Noll called upon adherents of all religious faiths to oppose their distribution.

"It is easy," he said, "to arouse public opinion in which Jews, Protestants and Catholics work as one and where often it is found that the merchant is willing to cooperate with the general public.

"The main motive for the publication of these magazines is profit on the part of the producer. These cater to the animal instinct in the millions and to the curiosity of the unmarried.

50,000 PRIVATE PLANES SOUGHT

Enthusiasts Plan To Ask Congress To Help Build Up Fleet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Organized aviation enthusiasts intend asking congress to help build up a fleet of 50,000 private planes to reinforce the administration's prospective new defense measures.

Officials of the National Aeronautic association, as spokesmen for several groups of fliers, already have requested army and navy support for the training of civilian pilots, reduced insurance rates and other proposals.

They argued that a fleet such as they have in mind, representing a five-fold increase of the existing 10,000 private planes, would make available upwards of 100,000 trained fliers for military service in the event of war.

Building the planes would so expand the aviation industry that it could meet quickly any war-time orders for military craft, they asserted.

"It's the cheapest form of national defense," William R. Enyart, association secretary, said today.

"The European crisis brought out clearly that aviation is the key to military power. Germany and Italy train youths as future fliers almost from the cradle. In this country only military and commercial transport flying has been given direct encouragement by the federal government.

"It is obvious that the army's present fighting plane quota of 2,320 will have to be increased materially soon, but this will far from meet our needs. This country has never gone in for big, standing military forces. Civilian flying is the answer."

NEWSPAPERS WIELD STRONG INFLUENCE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Movies, newspapers and radio combine to command a tremendous educational power over school children.

This was the opinion expressed today by Dr. Edgar Dale, professor of education at Ohio State university, who said these agencies obviously have great responsibilities.

Dr. Hale was the principal speaker at the closing sessions of the fifth annual education conference at Louisiana State university.

Surveys show, he said, that the average high school student hears a radio about two hours every day, reads his daily paper from 25 to 35 minutes and attends a movie at least once a week.

The educator suggested teachers "review" movies, radio programs, newspapers and periodicals and recommend to their students which of them to patronize.

'Pep' Meeting Planned At Hotel Frances; First Check Already Received

The opening gun of the biggest single campaign in the history of Monroe and West Monroe will be fired tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock when more than 200 workers will gather for a "pep" meeting at Hotel Frances to launch the Twin City Community Chest's drive to obtain $20,000.

All preliminary plans are complete. Four huge barometers were erected in downtown Monroe and West Monroe Friday. On Thursday the initial talks were made on the air and in theaters and all dinner clubs the past week heard the appeal for support of the campaign.

The first check was received by the chest on Friday. The honor of being first to rally to the support of this great movement on which will be based financial support for the coming year of nine local agencies, went to the Interstate Natural Gas company, of which John Gordon is general superintendent and A. H. Salisbury is assistant treasurer. The amount contributed was $225. This generous contribution is expected to be duplicated

LABOR WAITS FOR WHITE HOUSE MOVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Labor looked to the White House today for the next move ending the civil war of the unions.

The active personal intervention of President Roosevelt was seen by several of the best informed impartial observers as virtually the only hope of peace between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization in the present deadlock.

To be effective, these observers hold, the intervention would have to take the form of a direct round-table meeting between the president and the leaders of the embattled factions—the strategy used to settle the TVA dispute.

Action of this sort has been requested by the one union which still has a foot in both labor camps: the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, headed by David Dubinsky.

Hopes that the request may be answered have been raised by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' proposal last week that the war be settled by a mediation commission, and her statement of yesterday that there was a "concrete" basis for peace overtures.

From the standpoint of political consequences, however, it is generally agreed there is less reason for presidential action now than there was before the A. F. of L. convention at Houston, Tex.

Chrysler Puts 34,000 Back To Work; General Motors To Re-Employ 35,000

By Thomas F. Flanagan
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The motor industry put a heavy foot on the nation's business accelerator this week.

During the three months ended with September, industrial production had shot ahead at unusual speed. Business experts said the pace was all the more remarkable in that it had the benefit of relatively little impetus from the automobile makers.

With this in mind, analysts looked this week to the motor division for a cue to fall and winter trends. They found:

1. Automobile productions spurted to 68,360 units for a new 1938 high. This, according to the estimate of Ward's automobile reports, was an increase of about 18,000 over the previous week.

2. Riding the crest of swelling output, General Motors corporation announced 35,000 workers would be called back to jobs within the next two weeks and that pay cuts would be restored.

3. Chrysler corporation stepped up production 20 per cent. It disclosed that since August 1, it had recalled 34,000 employes. It also announced pay raises.

Business observers found it significant that electric power output and freight carloadings moved forward

WAGE AND HOUR DATA REQUIRED

Employers Must Keep Records Of Some Sort On 11,000,000 Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The wage and hour administration disclosed tonight that employers would have to keep records of some sort for 11,000,000 workers under the labor standards act going into effect at midnight Sunday.

Officials estimated that the law would result in wage raises for 750,000 persons and shorten working hours for 1,500,000. They said records would have to be kept also for the other millions of employes in interstate commerce whose wages and working conditions already exceed the standards of the statute, or whose occupations exempt them from the law.

However, in the case of many exempt groups, such as professional workers and administrative employes, only the worker's name, address and occupation must be recorded.

Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator, disclosed in regulations that no specific form would be required for the records, as long as the data kept included all the desired information and was accessible to the administrator and his representatives.

To make the task of employers as simple as possible, he said, he had tried to coordinate the record-keeping requirements under this law with those under the social security act,

Two Schools Of Thought Develop On Dealings With Dictator Nations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The United States government appeared today to be approaching a choice between opposition to or limited collaboration with the dictator states.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Organized aviation enthusiasts intend asking congress to help build up a fleet of 50,000 private planes to reinforce the administration's prospective new defense measures.

Officials of the National Aeronautic association, as spokesmen for several groups of fliers, already have requested army and navy support for the training of civilian pilots, reduced insurance rates and other proposals.

They argued that a fleet such as they have in mind, representing a five-fold increase of the existing 10,000 private planes, would make available upwards of 100,000 trained fliers for military service in the event of war.

Building the planes would so expand the aviation industry that it could meet quickly any war-time orders for military craft, they asserted.

"It's the cheapest form of national defense," William R. Enyart, association secretary, said today.

"The European crisis brought out clearly that aviation is the key to military power. Germany and Italy train youths as future fliers almost from the cradle. In this country only military and commercial transport flying has been given direct encouragement by the federal government.

"It is obvious that the army's present fighting plane quota of 2,320 will have to be increased materially soon, but this will far from meet our needs. This country has never gone in for big, standing military forces. Civilian flying is the answer."

NEWSPAPERS WIELD STRONG INFLUENCE

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Movies, newspapers and radio combine to command a tremendous educational power over school children.

This was the opinion expressed today by Dr. Edgar Dale, professor of education at Ohio State university, who said these agencies obviously have great responsibilities.

Dr. Hale was the principal speaker at the closing sessions of the fifth annual education conference at Louisiana State university.

Surveys show, he said, that the average high school student hears a radio about two hours every day, reads his daily paper from 25 to 35 minutes and attends a movie at least once a week.

The educator suggested teachers "review" movies, radio programs, newspapers and periodicals and recommend to their students which of them to patronize.

WEDDING MAPPED BY SALLY CLARK

Groom To Have His Way On Honeymoon And She After They Return

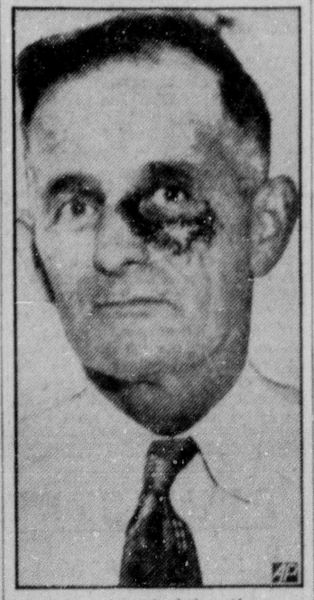

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Sally Clark sang soft music tonight and prepared to abandon, temporarily only, her floor show career after Monday night to get married.

On December 3 the night club singer will follow in the footsteps of her sister, Anne, who married John Roosevelt. In the Emmanuel church at Boston, where her mother was married, she will become the wife of George X. McLanahan of New York.

"It will be a gay and nice wedding, I hope," Miss Clark said as she gazed

LAMP SHADED

Diked out in makeshift uniforms resembling those of Nazi storm troopers, editors and staff men of the Harvard "Lampoon," campus humor publication, paraded and shouted, "Hail, Prexy! We demand a separate city of Lampoon!" Councillor Michael Sullivan halted them and demanded to see their permit to parade. Here Sullivan is shown with the "shiner" he said he got when he was "rushed."

'Pep' Meeting Planned At Hotel Frances; First Check Already Received

The opening gun of the biggest single campaign in the history of Monroe and West Monroe will be fired tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock when more than 200 workers will gather for a "pep" meeting at Hotel Frances to launch the Twin City Community Chest's drive to obtain $20,000.

All preliminary plans are complete. Four huge barometers were erected in downtown Monroe and West Monroe Friday. On Thursday the initial talks were made on the air and in theaters and all dinner clubs the past week heard the appeal for support of the campaign.

The first check was received by the chest on Friday. The honor of being first to rally to the support of this great movement on which will be based financial support for the coming year of nine local agencies, went to the Interstate Natural Gas company, of which John Gordon is general superintendent and A. H. Salisbury is assistant treasurer. The amount contributed was $225. This generous contribution is expected to be duplicated

LABOR WAITS FOR WHITE HOUSE MOVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Labor looked to the White House today for the next move ending the civil war of the unions.

The active personal intervention of President Roosevelt was seen by several of the best informed impartial observers as virtually the only hope of peace between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization in the present deadlock.

To be effective, these observers hold, the intervention would have to take the form of a direct round-table meeting between the president and the leaders of the embattled factions—the strategy used to settle the TVA dispute.

Action of this sort has been requested by the one union which still has a foot in both labor camps: the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, headed by David Dubinsky.

Hopes that the request may be answered have been raised by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' proposal last week that the war be settled by a mediation commission, and her statement of yesterday that there was a "concrete" basis for peace overtures.

From the standpoint of political consequences, however, it is generally agreed there is less reason for presidential action now than there was before the A. F. of L. convention at Houston, Tex.

LIVELY UPWARD MOVEMENT LED BY AUTOMOBILES

Production Shoots Ahead At Unusual Speed Without Special Effort

MANY WORKERS RE-HIRED AND PAY INCREASES GIVEN

Chrysler Puts 34,000 Back To Work; General Motors To Re-Employ 35,000

By Thomas E. Flanagan
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The motor industry put a heavy foot on the nation's business accelerator this week.

During the three months ended with September, industrial production had shot ahead at unusual speed. Business experts said the pace was all the more remarkable in that it had the benefit of relatively little impetus from the automobile makers.

With this in mind, analysts looked this week to the motor division for a cue to fall and winter trends. They found:

1. Automobile productions spurted to 68,360 units for a new 1938 high. This, according to the estimate of Ward's automobile reports, was an increase of about 18,000 over the previous week.

2. Riding the crest of swelling output, General Motors corporation announced 35,000 workers would be called back to jobs within the next two weeks and that pay cuts would be restored.

3. Chrysler corporation stepped up production 20 per cent. It disclosed that since August 1, it had recalled 34,000 employes. It also announced pay raises.

Business observers found it significant that electric power output and freight carloadings moved forward

WAGE AND HOUR DATA REQUIRED

Employers Must Keep Records Of Some Sort On 11,000,000 Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The wage and hour administration disclosed tonight that employers would have to keep records of some sort for 11,000,000 workers under the labor standards act going into effect at midnight Sunday.

Officials estimated that the law would result in wage raises for 750,000 persons and shorten working hours for 1,500,000. They said records would have to be kept also for the other millions of employes in interstate commerce whose wages and working conditions already exceed the standards of the statute, or whose occupations exempt them from the law.

However, in the case of many exempt groups, such as professional workers and administrative employes, only the worker's name, address and occupation must be recorded.

Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator, disclosed in regulations that no specific form would be required for the records, as long as the data kept included all the desired information and was accessible to the administrator and his representatives.

To make the task of employers as simple as possible, he said, he had tried to coordinate the record-keeping requirements under this law with those under the social security act.

FIVE STUDENTS IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

MINDEN, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Returning home from the Homer-Byrd football game in Homer last night, five students of the Shreveport school figured in an automobile accident 11 miles east of Minden, but escaped with minor injuries after their car turned over and rolled down an eight foot embankment.

Bill Mahan, a passenger, suffered two broken ribs and was given treatment at a Minden hospital after being brought to Minden by W. M. Robinson, also of Shreveport, who happened by the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred.

The car was driven by Harold Sumrell and other passengers included George Logan, John Creed and Camp Flourney, who sustained minor cuts and bruises.

CENTER WILL BE HOST ON NOV. 4

Groups From High Schools Of 17 Parishes Will Be Invited

The faculty and student body of Northeast Center will be hosts to principals, parish superintendents and high school seniors from 17 parishes of northeast Louisiana on November 4, which is the date for the holding of the Southeastern football game here.

Dean C. C. Colvert announced the past week that invitations have been sent to high schools located in the following parishes: East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union, West Carroll, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia and Winn.

This will be the first time that anything of this nature has been attempted by Northeast Center and it will be carried out in elaborate manner. A bulletin showing an interior view of the social room, a cut of the exterior of the student center building, a guest card of admission to the football game and a "Do You Know?" card listing facts about Northeast Center will be sent to each high school senior. The visitor's football ticket will enable him to sit in the west stands next to the Center student body.

The dean stated that he hoped to acquaint northeast Louisiana high school seniors of Northeast Center's advantages as an educational institution with the expectation that thereby next fall's entering class will be greatly increased over the present registration figures.

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 23, 1938.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 20.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' unchanged physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by His exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained His ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave." (p. 46.)

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

We are in the latter part of the Christian year. We have seen that the Creed and the Incarnate Word are the prominent matter in the services for the first half of the year. After that, the Decalogue and the Holy Spirit have predominant place. In the Collect, therefore, for the 19th Sunday after Trinity, we pray for the Holy Spirit, as the director of our consciences, in all duty, acknowledging our natural inability to please God. The Epistle enlarges on the holiness of Christian morals, and warns us against grieving the Holy Ghost, who, as the finger of God, alone is able to "write these laws in our hearts." In the gospel, we learn that this, our natural inability, is a spiritual disease, like the palsy, by which we are rendered powerless to perform what we know to be right. This disease Christ can cure, forgiving our sins, and giving us grace of the Holy Spirit, so that we can please Him both in will and deed.

Services for 19th Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. at which time the children's Eucharist will be celebrated. Morning prayer and sermon at 10:45 a.m.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

Only four more Sundays, including today, in our church year. Only four more Sundays with our present minister, unless the bishop sees fit to return him to us for another year. Let us make these four Sundays the very best of the entire seven years' pastorate. Let every member of the church attend as many services as possible, and let every member do his part in making our report to annual conference one of the best in the history of this church. Services each Sabbath day at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The pastor has chosen for his sermon theme at the morning service, "The Gre:' essential," and for the evening sermon, "Compromise and Consecration."

The Woman's Missonary society will meet in circles Tuesday at 3 p.m. Places of meeting will be found in the calendar of the local paper. The adult council will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Trotter. The Philathea class will entertain with a Halloween party Wednesday evening at the church annex at 7:30. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Julia Reid circle will meet with Mrs. T. A. Pharr, 312 Rochelle avenue.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

You are invited to attend every service in our church and to take part in every phase of our worship program. You will find in the Sunday school a class for every age and a welcome to attend every Sunday. R. M. McClendon is the superintendent and will arrange to care for every one attending Sunday school. There are just three weeks before the annual conference when the Methodist pastors of Louisiana will go to New Orleans for the new assignments and general reports of the work of the year. We are urging our people to attend every one of these last three Sundays and make our report a great one to the conference. Special music at every service under the direction of G. C. Williams assisted at the piano by Miss Maida McClendon.

Preaching services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. by the pastor.

"The church with a welcome."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The revival services which began last Sunday have increased in interest at each succeeding service during the week. The pastor began the meeting with the 11 o'clock hour Sunday, and each night during the week the pulpit has been occupied by visiting ministers of the city, as follows: Rev. Bill Byrd, Monday. Rev. H. L. Johns, the presiding elder, Tuesday; Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of First church, Wednesday; W. E. Akin, pastor of Church of the Nazarene, Thursday, and C. K. Smith of West Monroe, Friday.

The pastor will close the meeting with today's services, preaching at 11 a.m. on the subject: "Our Debt to Christ and the World," and at the evening service, 7:30 p.m., "Retribution." Text: "Be sure your sin will find you out." At the conclusion of this service the names of new members will be announced. The church school exercises will open at 9:15 o'clock with E. K. Reeves in charge, and both leagues will render programs at 6:45 p.m. It is expected that record congregations will attend these closing services of the meeting and all friends as well as the members are cordially invited to come and worship with us.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The day's public worship begins with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. There will be no 11 o'clock service due to the absence of the pastor, who is in attendance at the Louisiana annual conference convening at Grayson, La. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Evening service, which will be evangelistic, at 7:45. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas Avenue At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

Jordon said: "We never the target a man aims at in life. We only see the target he hits." To accomplish, to realize, to achieve, man is required to struggle, fight, endure and put forth great effort "if he would win." The striving process, if faced with the right attitude, is what makes a man what he should be—it develops character, and, as one has said, "Character it seems is everything; and its true worth is tested only in ordeal. Trouble is a refining process."

Jesus, the Friend of all mankind, is "a strong and mighty Helper." He is no respector of persons. "He knows what is in man"—his weakness and his strength, his abilities and his disabilities, his defeats and his victories. Others may fail, but Jesus Christ is able to do the "exceeding," the "abundant." One may rest with assurance "in Him." Man should know Him, love Him, serve Him, worship Him, honor Him, and glorify Him in this life. The church offers to all the best of association, the highest ideals, Christian fellowship, and the gospel in song and sermon.

We extend to you a cordial invitation to worship with us on the Lord's day. Here is the order of service: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Young people's meetings at 6:30 p.m. Preaching by the pastor at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The ladies' missionary society meets Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. Choir practice and prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'cock.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The Rev. Mr. F. B. Gear, D. D., will speak at the morning worship hour. Dr. Gear is professor of Bible, Southwestern, Memphis. He is an able teacher and a splendid preacher.

The Rev. Robert M. McGehee, Alexandria, is the preacher for the evening worship. Mr. McGehee is director of religious education for the Synod of Louisiana. He is earnest, capable and zealous.

The standard training school has its first session this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The courses of study have to do with the psychology of teaching. The general Bible unit is about the Old Testament prophets.

The door of the Presbyterian church is ajar. You are always welcome. Will you worship with us this day that we may worship God in spirit and in truth?

Delinquency Prevention Is Discussed By E. L. Wright

Some highlights of delinquency and crime prevention were discussed by E. L. Wright, juvenile probation officer, at a meeting of the Women's Missionary society held at the First Methodist church Friday afternoon.

He said in part: "If your interest is aroused by the subject of the school child and delinquency and crime prevention so that you would like to see some of the delinquents and criminals, you can do it in two ways: at Sing Sing you can see 2,000; at San Quentin you can see 6,000. But it is not necessary to travel so far. Go to the nearest school building, look into classrooms and you will see, although you cannot identify them, those who will make up the next decade's crop of criminals. Every year about 80,000 persons go to state and federal prisons and reformatories. About 18,000 are sentenced to the institutions of New York City alone. Two-thirds of the prisoners are under 30 and a substantial percentage less than 21 years old.

"In our classrooms now there are those who will be in juvenile court this year, in the reformatory next year, in the state prison in a few more years and perhaps eventually in the death house. Recently there were in the Sing Sing death house 10 boys who were barely out of public school.

"There is no denying that much has been done in the Twin Cities and rural sections to combat conditions and to compensate for other conditions that promote delinquency. Clubs for boys and girls, parks, playgrounds, health clinics, scouts, delinquency prevention and others—all these have been established and proved their worth. If they are to be fully effective, however, it seems certain that some way must be found to bring about full coordination of activities. Some areas are over-serviced and some under-serviced.

"Under federal auspices, a program has been carried out that certainly was not conceived by the government as a crime prevention means but which has so operated. I refer to the CCC. These camps have served as a valuable setup and should be continued far after depressions have passed on.

"But what of the school, which is of major interest to us. Some splendid things have been done to combat maladjustment, to spot, report and treat problem children and in general to bring our schools in curriculum content and method nearer to the needs of the children. But we have far to go. How in the short school hours can one treat an inferiority complex, or over-aggressiveness so effectively that the treatment will work during long hours at home or on the street? Similarly, it is easy to set up special classes for retarded or problem children but how avoid the psychic damage that may be done by putting the label 'retard' or 'problem' on a child? Here is what may be needed: more facilities and personnel for child guidance, more emphasis on conforming the school to children, rather than children to the school; more conscientious efforts to counteract the effects of the homes and neighborhoods in which so many of the children live; recognition of the worth and dignity of vocational education; use of school buildings more in evening hours for young and old; more teachers and better teachers, if possible smaller classes and more classes; visiting teachers; these seem to me to be among the essentials, if the school is to increase it effectiveness. If it does these things, it need never undertake a program of direct delinquency prevention."

CONTRACT LET BY DRAINAGE BOARD

Gravity System No. 1 Will Be Improved At Cost Of $6,434

At a meeting of the board of commissioners of Gravity Drainage district No. 1, of Ouachita parish, held the past week in the office of S. H. Humphries, secretary, in West Monroe, a contract was awarded to H. B. Hornsby, of Bossier City, for $6,434 for deepening, widening and cleaning the system. The bid was the lowest of five received. J. W. Wheelis, president, announced that work will start Monday and will be completed in 60 working days.

All the ditches in the system, which drain an area of about 6,000 acres, and total approximately five miles in length, are to be worked over. Since their construction, almost 10 years ago, the ditches, extending from the levee southwest of the city to McGuire park, have become partly filled and clogged with trash, logs and silt and rapid drainage is impeded. When cleaned out the flow of water from all parts of the district to the pumps at the levee will be rapid, it is assured.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN ELECT DR. POWELL

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Texas division of the American Association of University women elected Dr. Anna Powell, Denton, as president today and chose Brownwood as the next meeting site in the spring of 1941.

"Women's brains are made of no weaker material than those of men, but women have not proved themselves in the field of research chiefly because they have not had the opportunities fellowships would offer," Dr. Rose C. L. Mooney, associate professor of physics at Newcomb college, New Orleans, told the delegates. She urged the endowment of fellowships for women.

HAKIM RETURNS FROM MARKET

York Linen Shop Proprietor Makes Selections Of Fine Merchandise

A. S. Hakim, proprietor of the York Linen shop, 230 DeSiard street, returned here yesterday from a six week tour of eastern markets, where he made extensive purchases of fine linens and hand-made baby wear.

Announcement was made by Mr. Hakim that he was expanding the baby wear department of the York Linen shop to further enhance its popularity with his clientele. In the past this department featured layettes principally, but under the expansion policy will present offerings of baby wear for ages up to and including three years.

The enlarged department will carry the nationally known lines of Vanity and Sanitex, and hand-embroidered goods imported from the Philippine, Madeira islands and other lands where fine work is a highly perfected art.

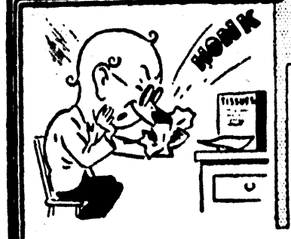

Relative to the entire stock of the York Linen shop, Mr. Hakim said: "I believe we have one of the most outstanding selections of fine table linens in the south. The home makers of Monroe and northeast Louisiana have a keen sense of appreciation for beautiful linens, and with this in mind we have brought to our Monroe store a large and hand-picked stock worthy of being placed on Thanksgiving and Christmas dining tables in the finest of homes, yet priced so low as to be within reach of all. Because we buy large stocks for our several stores, we are able to pass on to our customers the reduction we receive in big-scale purchases."

Proclamation

WHEREAS, the various cities of the United States have, by employing the Community Chest method of financing their public agencies, proven the expediency of a Community Chest, and

WHEREAS, it is believed by our leading citizens in the civic and commercial life of Monroe that the Community Chest method of public agency financing should be employed in Monroe, and

WHEREAS, our public agencies have joined willingly in a mutually beneficial effort to create a Community Chest for Monroe, and

WHEREAS, the Civic Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce having carefully planned and created a Community Chest for Monroe, with the cooperation and sanction of our citizenship, and

WHEREAS, the Community Chest will meet a long felt need in the Twin Cities, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that I, Harvey H. Benoit, Mayor of the City of Monroe, do proclaim that from October 24th until November 5th shall be designated as the TWIN CITY COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN PERIOD in Monroe, and do earnestly bespeak for this meritorious civic effort the wholehearted and sympathetic cooperation of every single citizen of this city, to the end that we may assume the full measure of our opportunities and responsibilities to the programs of our public service agencies included in the Community Chest.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the City of Monroe at the City Hall in the City of Monroe on this 22nd day of October, A. D., 1938.

CENTER WILL BE HOST ON NOV. 4

Groups From High Schools Of 17 Parishes Will Be Invited

The faculty and student body of Northeast Center will be hosts to principals, parish superintendents and high school seniors from 17 parishes of northeast Louisiana on November 4, which is the date for the holding of the Southeastern football game here.

Dean C. C. Colvert announced the past week that invitations have been sent to high schools located in the following parishes: East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union, West Carroll, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia and Winn.

This will be the first time that anything of this nature has been attempted by Northeast Center and it will be carried out in elaborate manner. A bulletin showing an interior view of the social room, a cut of the exterior of the student center building, a guest card of admission to the football game and a "Do You Know?" card listing facts about Northeast Center will be sent to each high school senior. The visitor's football ticket will enable him to sit in the west stands next to the Center student body.

The dean stated that he hoped to acquaint northeast Louisiana high school seniors of Northeast Center's advantages as an educational institution with the expectation that thereby next fall's entering class will be greatly increased over the present registration figures.

HANDSOME SOCIAL CENTER BUILDING IN USE

The newest building to be completed on the campus of the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, erected at a cost of $90,000, is shown above. This magnificent two-story building houses, on the first floor, a large new cafeteria, a luxurious and commodious lounging room for students and an adequate bookstore and branch postoffice. The second floor has rooms for dormitory purposes for members of athletic teams.

"Probation After Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 23, 1938.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 20.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' unchanged physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by His exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained His ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave." (p. 46.)

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

We are in the latter part of the Christian year. We have seen that the Creed and the Incarnate Word are the prominent matter in the services for the first half of the year. After that, the Decalogue and the Holy Spirit have predominant place. In the Collect, therefore, for the 19th Sunday after Trinity, we pray for the Holy Spirit, as the director of our consciences, in all duty, acknowledging our natural inability to please God. The Epistle enlarges on the holiness of Christian morals, and warns us against grieving the Holy Ghost, who, as the finger of God, alone is able to "write these laws in our hearts." In the gospel, we learn that this, our natural inability, is a spiritual disease, like the palsy, by which we are rendered powerless to perform what we know to be right. This disease Christ can cure, forgiving our sins, and giving us grace of the Holy Spirit, so that we can please Him both in will and deed.

Services for 19th Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Church school at 9:30 a.m. at which time the children's Eucharist will be celebrated. Morning prayer and sermon at 10:45 a.m.

The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

Only four more Sundays, including today, in our church year. Only four more Sundays with our present minister, unless the bishop sees fit to return him to us for another year. Let us make these four Sundays the very best of the entire seven years' pastorate. Let every member of the church attend as many services as possible, and let every member do his part in making our report to annual conference one of the best in the history of this church. Services each Sabbath day at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The pastor has chosen for his sermon theme at the morning service, "The Great Essential," and for the evening sermon, "Compromise and Consecration."

The Woman's Missonary society will meet in circles Tuesday at 3 p.m. Places of meeting will be found in the calendar of the local paper. The adult council will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Trotter. The Philathea class will entertain with a Halloween party Wednesday evening at the church annex at 7:30. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Julia Reid circle will meet with Mrs. T. A. Pharr, 312 Rochelle avenue.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

You are invited to attend every service in our church and to take part in every phase of our worship program. You will find in the Sunday school a class for every age and a welcome to attend every Sunday. R. M. McClendon is the superintendent and will arrange to care for every one attending Sunday school. There are just three weeks before the annual conference when the Methodist pastors of Louisiana will go to New Orleans for the new assignments and general reports of the work of the year. We are urging our people to attend every one of these last three Sundays and make our report a great one to the conference. Special music at every service under the direction of G. C. Williams assisted at the piano by Miss Maida McClendon.

Preaching services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. by the pastor.

"The church with a welcome."

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The revival services which began last Sunday have increased in interest at each succeeding service during the week. The pastor began the meeting with the 11 o'clock hour Sunday, and each night during the week the pulpit has been occupied by visiting ministers of the city, as follows: Rev. Bill Byrd, Monday. Rev. H. L. Johns, the presiding elder, Tuesday; Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of First church, Wednesday; W. E. Akin, pastor of Church of the Nazarene, Thursday, and C. K. Smith of West Monroe, Friday.

The pastor will close the meeting with today's services, preaching at 11 a.m. on the subject: "Our Debt to Christ and the World," and at the evening service, 7:30 p.m., "Retribution." Text: "Be sure your sin will find you out." At the conclusion of this service the names of new members will be announced. The church school exercises will open at 9:15 o'clock with E. K. Reeves in charge, and both leagues will render programs at 6:45 p.m. It is expected that record congregations will attend these closing services of the meeting and all friends as well as the members are cordially invited to come and worship with us.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

The day's public worship begins with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. There will be no 11 o'clock service due to the absence of the pastor, who is in attendance at the Louisiana annual conference convening at Grayson, La. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Evening service, which will be evangelistic, at 7:45. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas Avenue At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

Jordon said: "We never the target a man aims at in life. We only see the target he hits." To accomplish, to realize, to achieve, man is required to struggle, fight, endure and put forth great effort "if he would win." The striving process, if faced with the right attitude, is what makes a man what he should be—it develops character, and, as one has said, "Character it seems is everything; and its true worth is tested only in ordeal. Trouble is a refining process."

Jesus, the Friend of all mankind, is "a strong and mighty Helper." He is no respector of persons. "He knows what is in man"—his weakness and his strength, his abilities and his disabilities, his defeats and his victories. Others may fail, but Jesus Christ is able to do the "exceeding," the "abundant." One may rest with assurance "in Him." Man should know Him, love Him, serve Him, worship Him, honor Him, and glorify Him in this life. The church offers to all the best of association, the highest ideals, Christian fellowship, and the gospel in song and sermon.

We extend to you a cordial invitation to worship with us on the Lord's day. Here is the order of service: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Young people's meetings at 6:30 p.m. Preaching by the pastor at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The ladies' missionary society meets Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. Choir practice and prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'cock.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The Rev. Mr. F. B. Gear, D. D., will speak at the morning worship hour. Dr. Gear is professor of Bible, Southwestern, Memphis. He is an able teacher and a splendid preacher.

The Rev. Robert M. McGehee, Alexandria, is the preacher for the evening worship. Mr. McGehee is director of religious education for the Synod of Louisiana. He is earnest, capable and zealous.

The standard training school has its first session this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The courses of study have to do with the psychology of teaching. The general Bible unit is about the Old Testament prophets.

The door of the Presbyterian church is ajar. You are always welcome. Will you worship with us this day that we may worship God in spirit and in truth?

Delinquency Prevention Is Discussed By E. L. Wright

Some highlights of delinquency and crime prevention were discussed by E. L. Wright, juvenile probation officer, at a meeting of the Women's Missionary society held at the First Methodist church Friday afternoon.

He said in part: "If your interest is aroused by the subject of the school child and delinquency and crime prevention so that you would like to see some of the delinquents and criminals, you can do it in two ways; at Sing Sing you can see 2,000; at San Quentin you can see 6,000. But it is not necessary to travel so far. Go to the nearest school building, look into classrooms and you will see, although you cannot identify them, those who will make up the next decade's crop of criminals. Every year about 80,000 persons go to state and federal prisons and reformatories. About 18,000 are sentenced to the institutions of New York City alone. Two-thirds of the prisoners are under 30 and a substantial percentage less than 21 years old.

"In our classrooms now there are those who will be in juvenile court this year, in the reformatory next year, in the state prison in a few more years and perhaps eventually in the death house. Recently there were in the Sing Sing death house 10 boys who were barely out of public school.

"There is no denying that much has been done in the Twin Cities and rural sections to combat conditions and to compensate for other conditions that promote delinquency. Clubs for boys and girls, parks, playgrounds, health clinics, scouts, delinquency prevention and others—all these have been established and proved their worth. If they are to be fully effective, however, it seems certain that some way must be found to bring about full coordination of activities. Some areas are over-serviced and some under-serviced.

"Under federal auspices, a program has been carried out that certainly was not conceived by the government as a crime prevention means but which has so operated. I refer to the CCC. These camps have served as a valuable setup and should be continued far after depressions have passed on.

"But what of the school, which is of major interest to us. Some splendid things have been done to combat maladjustment, to spot, report and treat problem children and in general to bring our schools in curriculum content and method nearer to the needs of the children. But we have far to go. How in the short school hours can one treat an inferiority complex, or over-aggressiveness so effectively that the treatment will work during long hours at home or on the street? Simlarly, it is easy to set up special classes for retarded or problem children but how avoid the psychic damage that may be done by putting the label 'retard' or 'problem' on a child? Here is what may be needed: more facilities and personnel for child guidance, more emphasis on conforming the school to children, rather than children to the school; more conscientious efforts to counteract the effects of the homes and neighborhoods in which so many of the children live; recognition of the worth and dignity of vocational education; use of school buildings more in evening hours for young and old; more teachers and better teachers, if possible smaller classes and more classes; visiting teachers; these seem to me to be among the essentials, if the school is to increase it effectiveness. If it does these things, it need never undertake a program of direct delinquency prevention."

CONTRACT LET BY DRAINAGE BOARD

Gravity System No. 1 Will Be Improved At Cost Of $6,434

At a meeting of the board of commissioners of Gravity Drainage district No. 1, of Quachita parish, held the past week in the office of S. H. Humphries, secretary, in West Monroe, a contract was awarded to H. B. Hornsby, of Bossier City, for $6,434 for deepening, widening and cleaning the system. The bid was the lowest of five received. J. W. Wheelis, president, announced that work will start Monday and will be completed in 60 working days.

All the ditches in the system, which drain an area of about 6,000 acres, and total approximately five miles in length, are to be worked over. Since their construction, almost 10 years ago, the ditches, extending from the levee southwest of the city to McGuire park, have become partly filled and clogged witth trash, logs and silt and rapid drainage is impeded. When cleaned out the flow of water from all parts of the district to the pumps at the levee will be rapid, it is assured.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN ELECT DR. POWELL

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Texas division of the American Association of University women elected Dr. Anna Powell, Denton, as president today and chose Brownwood as the next meeting site in the spring of 1941.

"Women's brains are made of no weaker material than those of men, but women have not proved themselves in the field of research chiefly because they have not had the opportunities fellowships would offer," Dr. Rose C. L. Mooney, associate professor of physics at Newcomb college, New Orleans, told the delegates. She urged the endowment of fellowships for women.

HAKIM RETURNS FROM MARKETS

York Linen Shop Proprietor Makes Selections Of Fine Merchandise

A. S. Hakim, proprietor of the York Linen shop, 230 DeSiard street, returned here yesterday from a six-week tour of eastern markets, where he made extensive purchases of rare linens and hand-made baby wear.

Announcement was made by Mr. Hakim that he was expanding the baby wear department of the York Linen shop to further enhance its popularity with his clientele. In the past this department featured layettes, principally, but under the expansion policy will present offerings of baby wear for ages up to and including three years.

The enlarged department will carry the nationally known lines of Vanta and Sanitex, and hand-embroidered goods imported from the Philippines, Madeira islands and other lands where fine work is a highly perfected art.

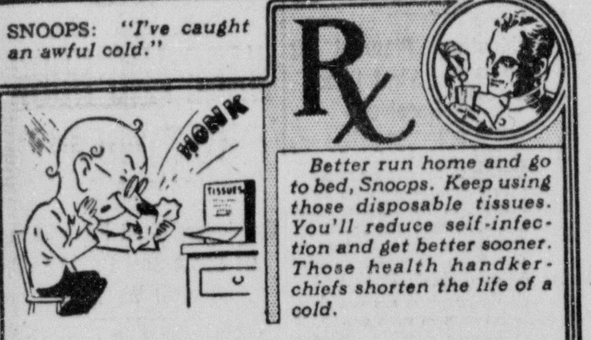

Relative to the entire stock of the York Linen shop, Mr. Hakim said: "I believe we have one of the most outstanding selections of fine table linens in the south. The home makers of Monroe and northeast Louisiana have a keen sense of appreciation for beautiful linens, and with this in mind we have brought to our Monroe store a large and hand-picked stock worthy of being placed on Thanksgiving or Christmas dining tables in the finest of homes, yet priced so low as to be within reach of all. Because we buy large stocks for our several stores, we are able to pass on to our customers the reduction we receive in big-lot purchases."

Proclamation

WHEREAS, the various cities of the United States have, by employing the Community Chest method of financing their public agencies, proven the expediency of a Community Chest, and

WHEREAS, it is believed by our leading citizens in the civic and commercial life of Monroe that the Community Chest method of public agency financing should be employed in Monroe, and

WHEREAS, our public agencies have joined willingly in a mutually beneficial effort to create a Community Chest for Monroe, and

WHEREAS, the Civic Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce having carefully planned and created a Community Chest for Monroe, with the cooperation and sanction of our citizenship, and

WHEREAS, the Community Chest will meet a long felt need in the Twin Cities, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that I, Harvey H. Benoit, Mayor of the City of Monroe, do proclaim that from October 24th until November 5th shall be designated as the TWIN CITY COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN PERIOD in Monroe, and do earnestly bespeak for this meritorious civic effort the wholehearted and sympathetic cooperation of every single citizen of this city, to the end that we may assume the full measure of our opportunities and responsibilities to the programs of our public service agencies included in the Community Chest.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the City of Monroe at the City Hall in the City of Monroe on this 22nd day of October, A. D., 1938.

TOMB HUNTED TO END BACON ROW

Hope To Show Conclusively Who Wrote Works Attributed To Shakespeare

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—An exploration of the tomb of Edmund Spenser in the poet's corner of Westminster Abbey has been begun in the hope of finding a buried Shakespearean elegy which might help settle the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy.

It is believed that Shakespeare (Bacon?) may have been among the poets who, according to the historian William Camden, placed "mournful elegies and poems with the pens that wrote them" in the grave of Spenser, who died in 1599.

Should this be true and the manuscript still be legible it could be compared with known specimens of the writings of Sir Francis Bacon in an effort to determine who was the real Shakespeare.

Ben Johnson, Francis Beaumont, John Fletcher and others were supposed to have placed poems in the grave of Spenser, the "poet's poet," who died, according to contemporaries, "for lack of bread in King street."

Lawrence Tanner, keeper of muniments at Westminster Abbey, disclosed that the work of exploration, begun before the international crisis, had been suspended temporarily.

Because there is no exact record of the burial, Tanner said, "we do not know the precise spot where the remains lie nor how deep they may be."

It was known definitely, however, that the body had been interred somewhere near where a monument was erected in Spenser's memory.

Both Tanner and Sir Frederic Kenyon, president of the Society of Antiquarians, conceded that the chances were against finding a legible manuscript after more than 300 years.

The exploration work was started at the request of the Bacon society.

Spenser's tomb will be the first opened in historic Westminster since the hidden grave of the grandchildren of King Edward I was uncovered last February.

Seversky expects it to be an aid to executives needing rapid transportation and a feeder plane for larger airliners.

NEWSBOYS OVER 14 BELIEVED ELIGIBLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Boys between the ages of 14 and 16 years apparently may be employed as newspaper boys within the provisions of the wage-hour act.

Regulations issued by Miss Katherine Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, specified that children of those years were barred from employment in mining, manufacturing, the operation of motor vehicles and messenger service. Children younger than 14 may not legally be given work in any industry covered by the act.

In non-prohibited employment those above that age may work three hours on any school day and not more than eight hours on any other day. At no time may their hours of work conflict with their school hours, according to Miss Lenroot's regulation.

Their employment must always be between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m.

While Miss Lenroot said the interpretation of her regulation was up to each employer of children between 14 and 16, she expressed the personal opinion that it covered the employment of carrier boys of those ages by newspapers.

Some publishers suggested morning papers would not be able to use boys of those ages for many of their deliveries, since most such deliveries are made before 6 a.m.

MOTHER, TOTS LEAP INTO WATER, SAVED

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Trapped by flames aboard a cruiser with her two small children, a young mother saved their lives and her own last night by leaping with them into the waters of Lake Union.

Mrs. M. D. Stewart, 23, and the children, Merrillyn, 5, and Allen, 3, were on the 80-foot cruiser when flames flared on the pier and the fire spread quickly to the cruiser.

"I put Merrillyn on my back and made her grab me around the neck," she said. "Then I grabbed Allen by his shirt. We jumped into the lake.

"Allen's head kept going under. I thought sure the babies would drown if we stayed in the water. But we found an old piling next to the dock, and there was a rope hanging down from it. I caught the rope and lifted the children up out of the water and screamed for help.

"It took so long for someone to get to us."

Their cries were heard by the crew of a fisheries boat, which made the rescue.

6 STUDENTS, DRIVER INJURED IN CRASH

LAUREL, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Six students of the Jones County Junior college at Ellisville and a truck driver were injured in a collision today west of Ellisville as the students were returning from a football game at Moorhead.

Ralph Swan, of Louin, one of the six, and the truck driver, Billy Bradley, were treated here for critical head and internal injuries. The others suffering head cuts and bruises, were Newton Turner and A. D. Anderson, Jr., Ellisville; Thomas Moss, Sharon; Jack Coates, Summerland, and Louis Speights, Bassfield.

ALTRUSA AREA HEADED BY SHREVEPORT WOMAN

BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Nancy Nettles of Shreveport, La., was elected governor of the seventh district of Altrusa clubs in conference here today. The district includes 14 clubs in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. Little Rock was selected as the 1939 convention city.

Other officers elected included Dr. Fleta Clark of Waco, treasurer, and Jesse Whyte of Shreveport, secretary.

FIREMEN EXTINGUISH THREE GRASS FIRES

Three grass fires, one of them reported caused by rabbit hunters, were extinguished yesterday by members of the Monroe fire department.

Hunters, burning brush in order to force rabbits into the open, caused a grass fire at 24th and Grammont streets. The other fires were in Grayling bend and in the 3000 block of Lee avenue.

DEATHS

MRS. GEORGE W. BOLTON

Mrs. George W. Bolton, wife of a prominent Rayville merchant, died yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at a local sanitarium after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Rayville Baptist church with Rev. J. N. Hooks, Baptist minister of Rayville, officiating. Interment will follow in the Masonic cemetery at Rayville.

Mrs. Bolton, well known in this area, is survived by her husband; two sons, George Bolton, an attorney, and Raymond Bolton, both of Rayville; two daughters, Mrs. Lois Cox of Shreveport and Miss Marie Bolton of Rayville; three brothers, H. L. Cain, superintendent of American schools at Mexico City, Mex., who will fly here by plane for the funeral, A. R. Cain of Clinton and John P. Cain of Leesville; and five sisters, Mrs. A. Marsh of Donaldson, Ark., Mrs. Laura Lyles of Leesville, Mrs. H. C. Efurd of Shreveport, Mrs. E. W. Luttrell of Raymond, Wash., and Mrs. J. L. Hunt of Leesville.

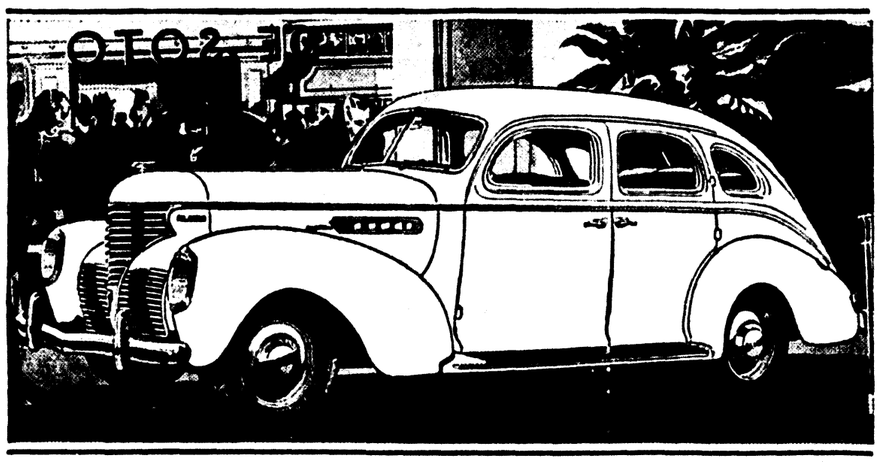

BOGALUSA MAN KILLED

BOGALUSA, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Richard "Dick" Percy, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Percy of Bogalusa, was killed early today in an automobile accident while en route to New Orleans. His companion, Claude Carr, was seriously injured. Their car overturned on a curve near Talisheek, 35 miles from Bogalusa. Percy was thrown clear of the wreckage and died of a fractured skull.

TOMB HUNTED TO END BACON ROW

Hope To Show Conclusively Who Wrote Works Attributed To Shakespeare

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—An exploration of the tomb of Edmund Spenser in the poet's corner of Westminster Abbey has been begun in the hope of finding a buried Shakespearean elegy which might help settle the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy.

It is believed that Shakespeare (Bacon?) may have been among the poets who, according to the historian William Camden, placed "mournful elegies and poems with the pens that wrote them" in the grave of Spenser, who died in 1599.

Should this be true and the manuscript still be legible it could be compared with known specimens of the writings of Sir Francis Bacon in an effort to determine who was the real Shakespeare.

Ben Johnson, Francis Beaumont, John Fletcher and others were supposed to have placed poems in the grave of Spenser, the "poet's poet," who died, according to contemporaries, "for lack of bread in King street."

Lawrence Tanner, keeper of muniments at Westminster Abbey, disclosed that the work of exploration, begun before the international crisis, had been suspended temporarily.

Because there is no exact record of the burial, Tanner said, "we do not know the precise spot where the remains lie nor how deep they may be."

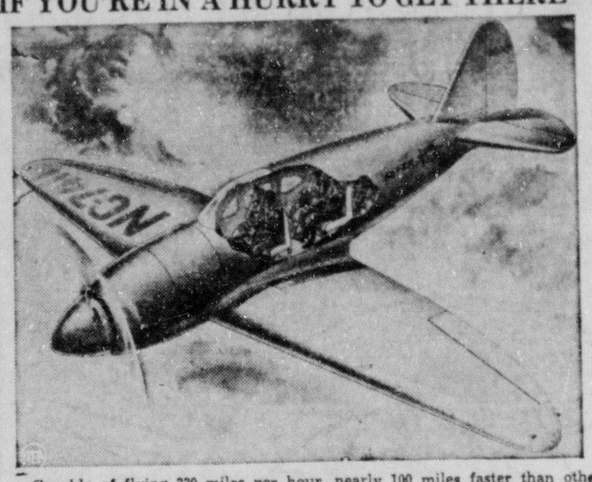

It was known definitely, however, that the body had been interred somewhere near where a monument was erected in Spenser's memory.

Both Tanner and Sir Frederic Kenyon, president of the Society of Antiquarians, conceded that the chances were against finding a legible manuscript after more than 300 years.

The exploration work was started at the request of the Bacon society.

Spenser's tomb will be the first opened in historic Westminster since the hidden grave of the grandchildren of King Edward I was uncovered last February.

Capable of flying 330 miles per hour, nearly 100 miles faster than other commercial planes in present use, the "Executive," pictured above in cutaway sketch, was recently designed by the Seversky Aircraft corporation. It is intended to carry four passengers, is powered with a twin-row 1,200 horsepower engine and is designed as a full cantilever, low-wing monoplane. Seversky expects it to be an aid to executives needing rapid transportation and a feeder plane for larger airliners.

NEWSBOYS OVER 14 BELIEVED ELIGIBLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Boys between the ages of 14 and 18 years apparently may be employed as newspaper boys within the provisions of the wage-hour act.

Regulations issued by Miss Katherine Lenroot, chief of the children's bureau, specified that children of those years were barred from employment in mining, manufacturing, the operation of motor vehicles and messenger service. Children younger than 14 may not legally be given work in any industry covered by the act.

In non-prohibited employment those above that age may work three hours on any school day and not more than eight hours on any other day. At no time may their hours of work conflict with their school hours, according to Miss Lenroot's regulation.

Their employment must always be between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m.

While Miss Lenroot said the interpretation of her regulation was up to each employer of children between 14 and 16, she expressed the personal opinion that it covered the employment of carrier boys of those ages by newspapers.

Some publishers suggested morning papers would not be able to use boys of those ages for many of their deliveries, since most such deliveries are made before 6 a.m.

MOTHER, TOTS LEAP INTO WATER, SAVED

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Trapped by flames aboard a cruiser with her two small children, a young mother saved their lives and her own last night by leaping with them into the waters of Lake Union.

Mrs. M. D. Stewart, 23, and the children, Merrillyn, 5, and Allen, 3, were on the 80-foot cruiser when flames flared on the pier and the fire spread quickly to the cruiser.

"I put Merrillyn on my back and made her grab me around the neck," she said. "Then I grabbed Allen by his shirt. We jumped into the lake.

"Allen's head kept going under. I thought sure the babies would drown if we stayed in the water. But we found an old piling next to the dock, and there was a rope hanging down from it. I caught the rope and lifted the children up out of the water and screamed for help.

"It took so long for someone to get to us."

Their cries were heard by the crew of a fisheries boat, which made the rescue.

6 STUDENTS, DRIVER INJURED IN CRASH

LAUREL, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Six students of the Jones County Junior college at Ellisville and a truck driver were injured in a collision today west of Ellisville as the students were returning from a football game at Moorhead.

Ralph Swan, of Louin, one of the six, and the truck driver, Billy Bradley, were treated here for critical head and internal injuries. The others suffering head cuts and bruises, were Newton Turner and A. D. Anderson, Jr., Ellisville; Thomas Moss, Sharon; Jack Coates, Summerland, and Louis Speights, Bassfield.

ALTRUSA AREA HEADED BY SHREVEPORT WOMAN

BEAUMONT, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Nancy Nettles of Shreveport, La., was elected governor of the seventh district of Altrusa clubs in conference here today. The district includes 14 clubs in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. Little Rock was selected as the 1939 convention city.

Other officers elected included Dr. Fleta Clark of Waco, treasurer, and Jesse Whyte of Shreveport, secretary.

FIREMEN EXTINGUISH THREE GRASS FIRES

Three grass fires, one of them reported caused by rabbit hunters, were extinguished yesterday by members of the Monroe fire department.

Hunters, burning brush in order to force rabbits into the open, caused a grass fire at 24th and Grammont streets. The other fires were in Grayling bend and in the 3000 block of Lee avenue.

DEATHS

MRS. GEORGE W. BOLTON

Mrs. George W. Bolton, wife of a prominent Rayville merchant, died yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at a local sanitarium after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Rayville Baptist church with Rev. J. N. Hooks, Baptist minister of Rayville, officiating. Interment will follow in the Masonic cemetery at Rayville.

Mrs. Bolton, well known in this area, is survived by her husband; two sons, George Bolton, an attorney, and Raymond Bolton, both of Rayville; two daughters, Mrs. Lois Cox of Shreveport and Miss Marie Bolton of Rayville; three brothers, H. L. Cain, superintendent of American schools at Mexico City, Mex., who will fly here by plane for the funeral, A. R. Cain of Clinton and John P. Cain of Leesville; and five sisters, Mrs. A. Marsh of Donaldson, Ark., Mrs. Laura Lyles of Leesville, Mrs. H. C. Efurd of Shreveport, Mrs. E. W. Luttrell of Raymond, Wash., and Mrs. J. L. Hunt of Leesville.

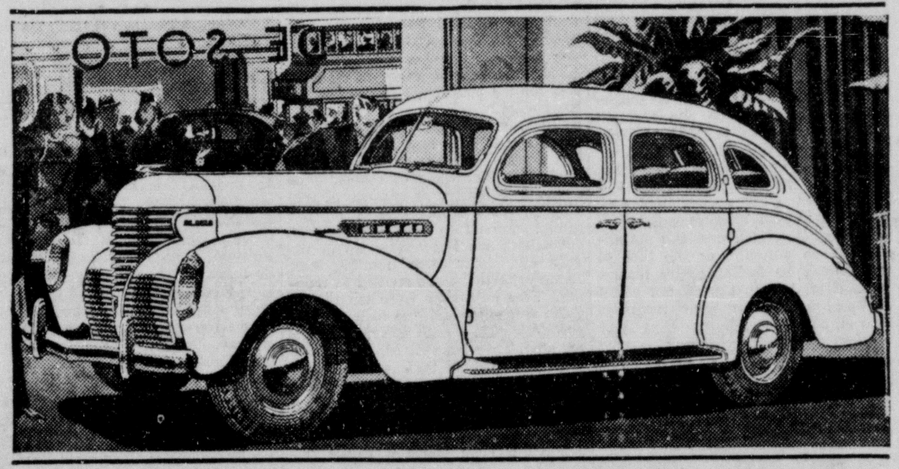

BOGALUSA MAN KILLED

BOGALUSA, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Richard "Dick" Percy, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Percy of Bogalusa, was killed early today in an automobile accident while en route to New Orleans. His companion, Claude Carr, was seriously injured. Their car overturned on a curve near Talisheek, 35 miles from Bogalusa. Percy was thrown clear of the wreckage and died of a fractured skull.

Let's Make A Complete Job Of It

Tomorrow Monroe and West Monroe will launch forth on the most important civic undertaking perhaps in their entire history when the Twin City Community Chest campaign begins in full swing. The drive will be initiated by a "pep" meeting which will be attended by workers of 45 soliciting teams in addition to members of the so-called larger gift committees. A goal of $20,000, which is to be apportioned among nine civic agencies, has been established after careful consideration by the leaders in the movement.

Many painstaking hours of careful preparation already have been devoted to this cause as there are to be no slipshod, half-prepared movements, each step being carefully weighed by well experienced workers and their efforts fully coordinated.

The campaign should receive the unstinted support of every business and professional man and woman who will recognize in it a relief from the overlapping, laborious and generally unsatisfactory series of drives that are held here every fall. In fact it has been an experience in the past that as many as eleven separate and distinct drives have been held from September to the end of December in the Twin Cities. Business men have been burdened by solicitation and more solicitation. Many long hours of toil on the part of solicitors have been required and the conclusion usually has been far from satisfactory. Now one concerted drive will, with proper support, fill the entire bill.

The nine agencies are all approved and after careful investigation their fitness to receive public support has been completely established. They are caring for the less fortunate, are helping to build manhood and womanhood and to ease the hard and harsh corners of life for those who have in many cases been denied the fullest fruition of the advantages that they are by right entitled to enjoy.

The public is asked to give unselfishly and make a complete job of it. There are none who hold positions of any nature that yield a fairly good living who cannot respond to the appeal to assist those who are less fortunate. The sums can be made modest, when conditions require, and payments can be made semi-annually or quarterly but the thing is to give even if a comparatively modest sum. Then each can enjoy the satisfaction that comes from doing his or her part toward lightening the cares of a weary world. We believe that Monroe and West Monroe, whose citizens in times past have been responsive to the call for aid, will not fail now when once more put to the test.

WHERE'S BLUECHER?

Possibly the worst evil that can befall the young citizen of the Soviet republic who wishes to get ahead in the world is to gain a position of power and prominence in the government of his country. The prestige and glory are short-lived. Soon, for no known reason, oblivion claims him and ultimately the public learns rather casually that he has been "liquidated.."

Just now there is considerable interest in the fate of Marshal Vassily Bleucher, commander-in-chief of the Soviet army in the Far East, who seems to have disappeared from the scene. Marshal Bluecher has been one of the great military men of Russia. He was in command of the Soviet forces that recently opposed the Japanese, and it has been assumed that he would be in supreme control in the event of a major conflict.

But now, apparently, he has gone the way of other marshals and generals, admirals, commissars and deputies, and simple members of the proletariat's rank and file. No one knows whether he has been claimed by prison or a firing squad, or what fate has overtaken him.

Notwithstanding its mysterious aspects, however, the case of Marshal Bleucher has an important significance. It must be recognized as one more important contribution to the vast accumulation of evidence that conditions within the Soviet republic are precarious, that the established order is jittery and that control is being maintained only through the instrumentality of the firing squad.

TAKE THAT COLD TO BED

You have a cold; how did you catch it? Got your feet wet, or did you get some germ that's going around?

You don't know? Well, that is not strange. Probably your physician doesn't know either.

Medical authorities do not speak arbitrarily on the subject of colds. At least they know that there is no well-defined ailment with a specific cause as might be understood from the term "common cold."

The cold a child has probably is caused by contagious infection. For that reason it is well to be careful of the contacts of children.

Some physicians deny the wet-foot and exposure theory of cause of cold. And the dear vitamins, which have been so much praised, can't insure against "common colds" no matter how vitamin-rich your diet may be.

"So," says the physician, "if you get a cold, go to bed and take the doctor's medicine. You may not know how you got the cold, but that will help you to get rid of it."

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—An American corporation has a contract with the German Zeppelin company to lease a Zeppelin for transatlantic traffic—if and when it can shake 20 million cubic feet of helium gas from the tight clutches of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The contract under which this arrangement was reached is one of the unexpected things drawn up in the drag-net law enacted by the last congress. It requires the registration of all agencies in the United States which have foreign connections.

The company with the contract is American Zeppelin Transport, Inc., of New York. There is nothing secretive or subversive about its contract with the German Zeppelin company. Its whole purpose, as outlined in the contract made public by the state department under terms of the alien-agency roundup, is to launch a transatlantic Zeppelin service with an American company sharing in the business on a fifty-fifty basis with the German company.

The Hope For Helium

Incidentally, the contract indicates the company still has hope that Secretary Ickes—or a later secretary—will reverse the action of a year ago which denied American helium to Germany for use in the Zeppelin service.

At that time Ickes held that helium placed in the hands of Germany would be available for war service, contrary to the law which specifies that it could be sold abroad only for non-military purposes. The law was enacted immediately after the Hindenburg disaster when 36 persons burned to death in the explosion of the big bag of hydrogen gas.

The contract lapses as soon as the American company feels there is no hope of getting the 20 million cubic feet of helium necessary as a starter. Although Ickes repeatedly has reiterated his refusal to allow Germany any helium, the American company still holds the contract valid. In fact, technically it can keep it alive until 1942. Since President Roosevelt's second term ends in 1940, a new secretary of the interior with different views may be in office by 1942.

Could Build Zep In U. S.

Under terms of its contract with the German company, the American Zeppelin Transport may lease a Zeppelin; buy one in Germany, or even build one here.

The German company is obligated to supply Zeppelin experts if a ship is to be built here, as well as to train an operating crew for the American vessel regardless of where the United States company gets it. The American company already has contracted with the German company to lease a German ship at a rental of 1,633,000 Reichmarks (about $650,000) a year. That contract also is valid only "if and when" the American company can get 20 million feet of helium, of which the United States has a virtual monopoly.

There is one unique clause in the contract. It provides that neither company may sign a contract for landing privileges in other countries unless both companies are allowed that privilege. In other words, the American company could not arrange for landing privileges in England or France unless it also obtained that privilege for the German company.

SOUTH AMERICA LEARNED

By BRUCE CATTON

South America has accomplished what Europe could not do. It has peacefully adjusted its most troublesome boundary dispute, a dispute as acrid as any Europe has seen. It has adjusted it in a simple, civilized manner.

Europe, boasting of itself as the centerpoint of civilization, may well watch this example in wonder and envy. For Europe has been able to do no better than arm to the teeth, glower, and adjust Czechoslovakia's boundaries by pressures that were scarcely less a war than if the fighting had really begun. Nothing has been really settled. Czechoslovakia is dismembered, resentful, helpless. No party to this sacrifice for peace is satisfied that justice has been done, or that lasting peace has been achieved.

Yet in South America the century-old dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco territory has been laid to rest forever.

The presidents of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, the United States, Peru, and Uruguay have sealed four years of difficult peace negotiations by delineating the boundary between the countries. During the next two years it will be finally surveyed and marked, while troops of both countries are kept away from the new frontier.

People in the United States seldom recognize the bitterness of this dispute. Paraguay and Bolivia have fought in the past as few countries have ever fought. A three-year war was concluded in 1935, leaving both countries exhausted and disrupted.

Natural recognition of the futility of all this by the people of both countries was aided by kindly and impartial offers of other South American countries to mediate. The Pan-American peace conference at Montevideo helped. The patient, tactful services of American diplomats, Spruille Braden in Colombia and Alexander Weddell in Argentina, helped.

It is doubtful if American diplomacy can show anything more to its credit in many years than its part in this victory of peace.

Bolivia and Paraguay hated, and fought, and almost died. But they learned the lesson of war's futility. And they applied the lesson in a sane, civilized settlement of their differences. Both countries must inevitably gain by this mutual triumph.

Europe has also fought, and hated, and its very civilization is now in grave danger. But the lesson has not been learned there.

Perhaps a lamp has been lighted in the jungles of the Chaco which may lead Europe to a better world, much as it was led forward in 1776 by the lamp lighted at the little bridge in Concord.

In a darkening world, it is a light on which all people may feast despairing eyes.

A BOOK REVIEW

TWO MEN WRITE ALASKA'S DRAMA

Good books about Alaska are rare on the publishing lists most seasons, so it's a pleasure to discover two excellent volumes from the same house, The Caxton Printers, Ltd., of Caldwell, Idaho.

The first is "The Story of Alaska" by Clarence L. Andrews, and a most exhaustive, interesting book it proves to be. For Mr. Andrews has spent a quarter of a century with his subject, and knows it intimately, from the baronial days of the Russian fur traders to the modern problems of the Matanuska.

Vitus Bering, a Danish captain working for the Russians, first blazed the trail to Alaska more than 60 years before Lewis and Clark crossed the North American continent. Bering's adventure is the opening for Mr. Andrews' story.

From there he traces the rise of the Russians in 1784, through the days of the whalers and the trappers, to the American occupancy on October 18, 1867. This drama of Alaska since 1867 is highlighted with all that happened along the trails of '98, tells the stories of the pioneer Yukon, the fight for a government, the building of railroads, the development of natural resources, and even the saga of "Soapy" Smith and his gang.

Today, Mr. Andrews writes, "Alaska is still the great, unexploited, almost untouched storehouse of raw materials for the United States."

Mr. Andrews' book will likely stand for a long time as the best exposition of this Alaska.

Caxton's second book is "Yukon Voyage" by Walter R. Curtin. It is an eminently readable account of the voyage of Pat Galvin up the Yukon in the late nineties to fight the monopoly of the big trading companies during the gold rush. Pat's ship was frozen in for eight months at an Indian village, so that when the party finally arrived the expedition was a total failure. The trip had dissipated a fortune.—P. G. F.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Mayor Ralph C. Mitchell of Independence, Kans., brings his crocheting to New York and is found by the reporters running off a rose and poppy pattern for a bedspread. He says Harry Woodring, secretary of war, is a tatter, which, he implies, is all right for those who like it, but, he adds, "we crocheters think a man who tats is a sissy."

As to Mr. Mitchell, he raises lions for a hobby. He pulled up his trousers leg and showed the reporters some lion bites. Then he paced his fast slip-stitches to the puffs of his pipe, a way he has, and discoursed on his art. He thinks business men should take up crocheting, to keep them busy and make them forget their troubles.

So is would seem. But "purl one and drop three" somehow seems to have a disturbing suggestion of going in the red. Mayor Mitchell, however, says many men are taking up crocheting and knitting and are finding it a fascinating art. He got the idea 25 years ago, watching a railroad section hand crocheting during his lunch hour.

If this piece should be read by any old-timer around St. Ignace, Mich., or Sault Ste. Marie, I wish he would let me know what became of old Captain Ryerson, big ham-fisted skipper of the Great Lakes ore boats and the Jack Dempsey of all free-style crocheters, bar none. I am afraid he is long gone, now—one of the last of my youthful heroes.

He was ruddy, barrel-chested and profane, with a bellow like the Queen Mary's fog whistle, and he used to kick his lumbering old hog-back through a hell's broth of wind and water and black night with a roaring zest nothing less than Gargantum. And then, with a stretch of still water and his boat on an even keel, he would heave to on a lacy pattern of American Beauty roses, his favorite design. Tarry and grubby sailors in the mess room used to sit on lacy cushions done up with daisies, violets and forget-me-nots. His ship was festooned with doilies, lamberquins, vallances and what not, and he'd keelhaul any man who said they weren't pretty.

The skill of sailors in sewing, backstitching particularly, is an old story. There's many an old main skipper turning to his knitting needles now that he no longer goes out in the skys'l yard in a gale. King George of England is both a sailorman and a knitter, swift and deft with his needles. He likes to do sweaters for his friends.

With the fashionable revival of knitting, crocheting, tatting and lacemaking in England in the eighteenth century, men made the designs, many of which evolved into the basic patterns of the priceless lace pieces which are in the museums and great collections today.

Early in the last century, a rum-nosed, gouty old official of the Bank of England, a business associate of the Rothschilds, was a demon lacemaker. And to conclude these few gleanings about trousered crocheters and the like, male undergraduates of Columbia university established a knitting society a year or two ago.

Speaking of King George, there is quite a dither in the newspapers about whether Mrs. Roosevelt should curtsy to the queen if their majesties should visit the White House next year. I thought Mrs. Roosevelt disposed of the matter nicely in her indication that she thought it a concern of no great importance and that she would be guided by state department protocol. The division of protocol must, perforce, weigh the issue more carefully and promises a ruling. It is hinted that the customary forms of social greeting will suffice.

When the Dolly Gann incident was filling the newspapers a few years ago, it seemed a bit silly, all this ink spilled over who should precede whom and the country seemed to take it that way, vastly amused by it, on the whole. Diplomatic punctilio has grown slowly through the centuries and I have no doubt plausible reasons may be advanced for its elaborate rubric of formal behavior on occasions of state. But, regardless of such recondite matters, our social usage is essentially that of a great democratic tradition, un-self-conscious and with a minimum of obeisance.

Wise old Montaigne wrote something about that. I have been unable to find the passage I wanted and can only paraphrase it, but I remember he enjoyed an easy and honest reliance on simple, courteous behavior when meeting those of imposing, or different social antecedents. He thought that, even in Rome, is was better not to try to do as the Romans do.

We may be assured that King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will be received with seemly decorum. Real courtesy is international, timeless, adequate and honest and not dependent on punctilio or the lack of it. We may be feeling pretty insular these days, but that need not affect our manners when their majesties land on our shores.

Burning 10,000,000,000 Cups of Coffee

COFFEE aroma hangs heavy over the Brazilian uplands these days, but there is very little pouring: the government instead is burning a few million more cups to hold down the supply and to keep up the price.

More than 3,000,000,000 coffee trees, three-fifths of all there are in the world, are troubling Brazil today. In the last crop year this nation alone produced 1,000,000 more bags than the world consumed. So the burning started back in 1931 continues, and is likely to continue for many seasons.

Since the desperate growers set fire to their surplus stocks in 1931 upwards of 60,000,000 bags have been destroyed. The standard bag of coffee weighs 132 pounds. So statisticians have figured that upwards of 10,000,000,000 cups of the steaming drink have evaporated into the skies.

Unsuccessfully, Brazilians first tried dumping their stocks into the ocean, later pressed the coffee beans into bricks to be used as fuel for locomotives and utility plants or as roadbed materials. Some of the ash is now being used as fertilizer on Brazilian farms. But in any event the problem goes unsolved. Burning is merely a temporary expedient.

Meanwhile, a current Brazilian stamp, shown here, advertises to the world the country's chief product, coffee, displayed as the berry and in bags.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

The new principal took charge of the old school. Filled with new ideas, trained in the newer schools, he set to work to give the children the best possible instruction in the best possible ways. He had the support of the board of education and the trustees. He got new books, new tools, all the equipment he needed, and joyfully started out to build his new scheme. At the conferences he held with the teachers he explained and taught until most of them knew what was wanted. Most of them tried to go along with him, eager to do their best for the children, and trusting his leadership.

One teacher in the first year neither heard nor felt the new ideas. To her the routine of reading and number work was the whole of school. The program called for 20 minutes of free play in the morning session for her group. Forced to take the children downstairs she lined them up in the yard and kept them reciting their sound syllables to be applied in reading. Five at a time were excused to go to the toilet and "be back on line promptly. They can't afford the time for play. They get excited, and sweaty and dirty. Upsets their work for the morning." And that was that, for Miss Lulu was senior to the oldest teacher in the place, which counts, like it or not.

The afternoon session called for drawing, cutting, coloring and allied activities in arts and crafts. When Miss Lulu got time she hustled out scissors, to one group, pencils to another, a pile of paper patterns to still another. "Now hurry. We have to get this done so we can review sight words. Row one trace patterns; row two, cut them out; row three, color the legs brown; row four, color the bodies black; row six, do the heads in red with yellow eyes and collect at signal. As each group finishes its job, first child collect and count materials."

Perfect? Yes.

"But, but," stammered the principal.

The superintendent visited the school in his routined fashion. He heard each class read, had them do 10 examples under a time limit, looked casually at the compositions stacked and labelled for the occasion, made marks in his little book and went his way. In due time his report was sent in to the principal and the board of trustees.

"Miss Lulu's class, as usual, headed the list with a perfect score in reading. No child missed a word. It gives me great pleasure to congratulate Miss Lulu on her perfect record of more than a quarter century. She is a credit to the school, and to her profession."

You could see Miss Lulu hanging out flags all over herself.

An idea needs all the support that authority, leadership and cooperation of those who must bring it to fruition, and educational ideas must lean hard on the classroom teacher, and the authority who rates her. Most important of all concerned here, is the classroom teacher. Give her the approval, encouragement and power of spirit, and she will succeed, but bind her spirit and she must fail, taking the idea and the children along with her.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—In 1630 the Pilgrim fathers of the Massachusetts colony, faced with a labor shortage, passed a law providing that "carpenters, joiners, bricklayers, sawyers and thatchers shall not take above two shillings a day."

In 1938, on October 24, in a period of great unemployment, a federal law will go into effect which sets a minimum hourly wage rate of 25 cents and a maximum work week of 44 hours with time and one-half for overtime.

The law is the fair labor standards act. Its administrator is Elmer F. Andrews, head of the wage and hour division of the department of labor. The act also bars from interstate commerce goods produced by "oppressive child labor." That part of it is under Chief Katherine F. Lenroot of the children's bureau.

Employers and employes still are asking which workers are covered and which are not. Aside from certain exemptions made in the law—chiefly of agricultural workers, seamen, street car employes, executives, retail workers and most employes in the fishing, canning and dairy industries, the wage and hour division in general classifies those covered as:

"1. Employes engaged in producing manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce.

"2. Employes engaged in any process or occupation necessary to the production of such goods.

"3. Employes engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication."

Further interpretation by the division's general counsel says that except for the stated exemptions, "all the employes, in a place of employment where goods shipped or sold in interstate commerce were produced, are included in the coverage . . ." This goes for watchmen, clerks, stenographers, maintenance workers and messengers, among others.

Employes in manufacturing, processing or distributing plants, "a part of whose goods moves in commerce out of the state in which the plant is located," are covered. But a plant none of whose products leave the state is not covered, even though its employes work on raw materials from outside the state. Employes working at home, as well as those in factories are covered.

Where workers are paid on a piece work basis or on a weekly or monthly rate, they must receive at least the equivalent of the minimum hourly rate.

Beginning October 24, 1939, the statutory work week will be 42 hours and after the second year of the act, only 40 hours. The minimum hourly wage rate will be raised from 25 to 30 cents a year from now, and will be pushed to 40 cents on October 24, 1945.

Due to meager funds, less than half the division's 12 regional offices will be opened this fall. (The 12 cities are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Birmingham, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Houston, Denver and San Francisco.) So there will be few inspectors available to check the records which employers are required to keep of persons employed, their wages and hours worked. There's a multiple system of enforcement, however, which tends to discourage any willful violations. Andrews urges all employers and employes to report such violations, assuring the latter that the act specifically protects them from discharge or discriminations.

Employes may bring suit for unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime, and employers violating wage and hour requirements are liable for such sums plus an equal amount to cover damages, court costs and attorney fees.

It will be unlawful to ship or sell in interstate commerce any goods produced where a person was employed in violation of the wage or hour sections, to violate the wage or hour sections, to discriminate against any complaining employe, to fail to keep the required records or to falsify any required record.

Penalties are a fine up to $10,000 and imprisonment for up to six months, the latter for second offenders only.

"Oppressive child labor" is defined as employment of children under 16 in any occupation except where the children's bureau determines employment of children of 14 or 15 won't interfere with schooling, health or well-being, and employment of children under 18 in occupations determined as hazardous or detrimental.

Specifically exempted from both wage and hour provisions are agricultural workers, seamen, employes of airplanes, street car, motor bus, interurban railways and of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers of less than 3,000 circulation; persons in bona fide executive, professional or local retailing capacity, or outside salesmen; employes of any retail or service establishment, most of whose selling or servicing is in interstate commerce; those engaged in fishing and the fishing industry; persons employed in the area of production to handle, prepare or can agricultural dairy or horticultural products for market.

Employes of railway, motor bus and truck carriers regulated by the I. C. C. are exempt from the hour rules, as are workers in the first processing of milk or cream into dairy products, in ginning and compressing cotton, the processing of cotton seed and the processing of agricultural products into sugar or syrup.

In industries designated by Andrews as "seasonal" employes may work up to 12 hours a day or 56 hours a week for not more than 14 weeks each year, the overtime rate applying for hours in excess. Workers engaged in canning or packing fresh fruits and vegetables in the production area or in dressing poultry or slaughtering live stock are exempt from all hour provisions for up to 14 weeks. Learners, apprentices and handicapped workers may be employed below the minimum wage under individual certificates issued by the administrator.

Let's Make A Complete Job Of It

Tomorrow Monroe and West Monroe will launch forth on the most important civic undertaking perhaps in their entire history when the Twin City Community Chest campaign begins in full swing. The drive will be initiated by a "pep" meeting which will be attended by workers of 45 soliciting teams in addition to members of the so-called larger gift committees. A goal of $20,000, which is to be apportioned among nine civic agencies, has been established after careful consideration by the leaders in the movement.

Many painstaking hours of careful preparation already have been devoted to this cause as there are to be no slipshod, half-prepared movements, each step being carefully weighed by well experienced workers and their efforts fully coordinated.

The campaign should receive the unstinted support of every business and professional man and woman who will recognize in it a relief from the overlapping, laborious and generally unsatisfactory series of drives that are held here every fall. In fact it has been an experience in the past that as many as eleven separate and distinct drives have been held from September to the end of December in the Twin Cities. Business men have been burdened by solicitation and more solicitation. Many long hours of toil on the part of solicitors have been required and the conclusion usually has been far from satisfactory. Now one concerted drive will, with proper support, fill the entire bill.

The nine agencies are all approved and after careful investigation their fitness to receive public support has been completely established. They are caring for the less fortunate, are helping to build manhood and womanhood and to ease the hard and harsh corners of life for those who have in many cases been denied the fullest fruition of the advantages that they are by right entitled to enjoy.

The public is asked to give unselfishly and make a complete job of it. There are none who hold positions of any nature that yield a fairly good living who cannot respond to the appeal to assist those who are less fortunate. The sums can be made modest, when conditions require, and payments can be made semi-annually or quarterly but the thing is to give even if a comparatively modest sum. Then each can enjoy the satisfaction that comes from doing his or her part toward lightening the cares of a weary world. We believe that Monroe and West Monroe, whose citizens in times past have been responsive to the call for aid, will not fail now when once more put to the test.

WHERE'S BLUECHER?

Possibly the worst evil that can befall the young citizen of the Soviet republic who wishes to get ahead in the world is to gain a position of power and prominence in the government of his country. The prestige and glory are short-lived. Soon, for no known reason, oblivion claims him and ultimately the public learns rather casually that he has been "liquidated.."

Just now there is considerable interest in the fate of Marshal Vassily Bleucher, commander-in-chief of the Soviet army in the Far East, who seems to have disappeared from the scene. Marshal Bluecher has been one of the great military men of Russia. He was in command of the Soviet forces that recently opposed the Japanese, and it has been assumed that he would be in supreme control in the event of a major conflict.

But now, apparently, he has gone the way of other marshals and generals, admirals, commissars and deputies, and simple members of the proletariat's rank and file. No one knows whether he has been claimed by prison or a firing squad, or what fate has overtaken him.

Notwithstanding its mysterious aspects, however, the case of Marshal Bleucher has an important significance. It must be recognized as one more important contribution to the vast accumulation of evidence that conditions within the Soviet republic are precarious, that the established order is jittery and that control is being maintained only through the instrumentality of the firing squad.

TAKE THAT COLD TO BED

You have a cold; how did you catch it? Got your feet wet, or did you get some germ that's going around?

You don't know? Well, that is not strange. Probably your physician doesn't know either.

Medical authorities do not speak arbitrarily on the subject of colds. At least they know that there is no well-defined ailment with a specific cause as might be understood from the term "common cold."

The cold a child has probably is caused by contagious infection. For that reason it is well to be careful of the contacts of children.

Some physicians deny the wet-foot and exposure theory of cause of cold. And the dear vitamins, which have been so much praised, can't insure against "common colds" no matter how vitamin-rich your diet may be.

"So," says the physician, "if you get a cold, go to bed and take the doctor's medicine. You may not know how you got the cold, but that will help you to get rid of it."

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—An American corporation has a contract with the German Zeppelin company to lease a Zeppelin for transatlantic traffic—if and when it can shake 20 million cubic feet of helium gas from the tight clutches of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The contract under which this arrangement was reached is one of the unexpected things drawn up in the drag-net law enacted by the last congress. It requires the registration of all agencies in the United States which have foreign connections.

The company with the contract is American Zeppelin Transport, Inc., of New York. There is nothing secretive or subversive about its contract with the German Zeppelin company. Its whole purpose, as outlined in the contract made public by the state department under terms of the alien-agency roundup, is to launch a transatlantic Zeppelin service with an American company sharing in the business on a fifty-fifty basis with the German company.

The Hope For Helium

Incidentally, the contract indicates the company still has hope that Secretary Ickes—or a later secretary—will reverse the action of a year ago which denied American helium to Germany for use in the Zeppelin service.

At that time Ickes held that helium placed in the hands of Germany would be available for war service, contrary to the law which specifies that it could be sold abroad only for non-military purposes. The law was enacted immediately after the Hindenburg disaster when 36 persons burned to death in the explosion of the big bag of hydrogen gas.

The contract lapses as soon as the American company feels there is no hope of getting the 20 million cubic feet of helium necessary as a starter. Although Ickes repeatedly has reiterated his refusal to allow Germany any helium, the American company still holds the contract valid. In fact, technically it can keep it alive until 1942. Since President Roosevelt's second term ends in 1940, a new secretary of the interior with different views may be in office by 1942.

Could Build Zep In U. S.

Under terms of its contract with the German company, the American Zeppelin Transport may lease a Zeppelin; buy one in Germany, or even build one here.

The German company is obligated to supply Zeppelin experts if a ship is to be built here, as well as to train an operating crew for the American vessel regardless of where the United States company gets it. The American company already has contracted with the German company to lease a German ship at a rental of 1,633,000 Reichmarks (about $650,000) a year. That contract also is valid only "if and when" the American company can get 20 million feet of helium, of which the United States has a virtual monopoly.

There is one unique clause in the contract. It provides that neither company may sign a contract for landing privileges in other countries unless both companies are allowed that privilege. In other words, the American company could not arrange for landing privileges in England or France unless it also obtained that privilege for the German company.

SOUTH AMERICA LEARNED

By BRUCE CATTON

South America has accomplished what Europe could not do. It has peacefully adjusted its most troublesome boundary dispute, a dispute as acrid as any Europe has seen. It has adjusted it in a simple, civilized manner.

Europe, boasting of itself as the centerpoint of civilization, may well watch this example in wonder and envy. For Europe has been able to do no better than arm to the teeth, glower, and adjust Czechoslovakia's boundaries by pressures that were scarcely less a war than if the fighting had really begun. Nothing has been really settled. Czechoslovakia is dismembered, resentful, helpless. No party to this sacrifice for peace is satisfied that justice has been done, or that lasting peace has been achieved.

Yet in South America the century-old dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco territory has been laid to rest forever.

The presidents of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, the United States, Peru, and Uruguay have sealed four years of difficult peace negotiations by delineating the boundary between the countries. During the next two years it will be finally surveyed and marked, while troops of both countries are kept away from the new frontier.

People in the United States seldom recognize the bitterness of this dispute. Paraguay and Bolivia have fought in the past as few countries have ever fought. A three-year war was concluded in 1935, leaving both countries exhausted and disrupted.

Natural recognition of the futility of all this by the people of both countries was aided by kindly and impartial offers of other South American countries to mediate. The Pan-American peace conference at Montevideo helped. The patient, tactful services of American diplomats, Spruille Braden in Colombia and Alexander Weddell in Argentina, helped.

It is doubtful if American diplomacy can show anything more to its credit in many years than its part in this victory of peace.

Bolivia and Paraguay hated, and fought, and almost died. But they learned the lesson of war's futility. And they applied the lesson in a sane, civilized settlement of their differences. Both countries must inevitably gain by this mutual triumph.

Europe has also fought, and hated, and its very civilization is now in grave danger. But the lesson has not been learned there.

Perhaps a lamp has been lighted in the jungles of the Chaco which may lead Europe to a better world, much as it was led forward in 1776 by the lamp lighted at the little bridge in Concord.

In a darkening world, it is a light on which all people may feast despairing eyes.

A BOOK REVIEW

TWO MEN WRITE ALASKA'S DRAMA

Good books about Alaska are rare on the publishing lists most seasons, so it's a pleasure to discover two excellent volumes from the same house, The Caxton Printers, Ltd., of Caldwell, Idaho.

The first is "The Story of Alaska" by Clarence L. Andrews, and a most exhaustive, interesting book it proves to be. For Mr. Andrews has spent a quarter of a century with his subject, and knows it intimately, from the baronial days of the Russian fur traders to the modern problems of the Matanuska.

Vitus Bering, a Danish captain working for the Russians, first blazed the trail to Alaska more than 60 years before Lewis and Clark crossed the North American continent. Bering's adventure is the opening for Mr. Andrews' story.

From there he traces the rise of the Russians in 1784, through the days of the whalers and the trappers, to the American occupancy on October 18, 1867. This drama of Alaska since 1867 is highlighted with all that happened along the trails of '98, tells the stories of the pioneer Yukon, the fight for a government, the building of railroads, the development of natural resources, and even the saga of "Soapy" Smith and his gang.

Today, Mr. Andrews writes, "Alaska is still the great, unexploited, almost untouched storehouse of raw materials for the United States."

Mr. Andrews' book will likely stand for a long time as the best exposition of this Alaska.

Caxton's second book is "Yukon Voyage" by Walter R. Curtin. It is an eminently readable account of the voyage of Pat Galvin up the Yukon in the late nineties to fight the monopoly of the big trading companies during the gold rush. Pat's ship was frozen in for eight months at an Indian village, so that when the party finally arrived the expedition was a total failure. The trip had dissipated a fortune.—P. G. F.

Mayor Ralph C. Mitchell of Independence, Kans., brings his crocheting to New York and is found by the reporters running off a rose and poppy pattern for a bedspread. He says Harry Woodring, secretary of war, is a tatter, which, he implies, is all right for those who like it, but, he adds, "we crocheters think a man who tats is a sissy."

As to Mr. Mitchell, he raises lions for a hobby. He pulled up his trousers leg and showed the reporters some lion bites. Then he paced his fast slip-stitches to the puffs of his pipe, a way he has, and discoursed on his art. He thinks business men should take up crocheting, to keep them busy and make them forget their troubles.

So is would seem. But "purl one and drop three" somehow seems to have a disturbing suggestion of going in the red. Mayor Mitchell, however, says many men are taking up crocheting and knitting and are finding it a fascinating art. He got the idea 25 years ago, watching a railroad section hand crocheting during his lunch hour.

If this piece should be read by any old-timer around St. Ignace, Mich., or Sault Ste. His ship was festooned with doilies, lamberquins, vallances and what not, and he'd keelhaul any man who said they weren't pretty.

The skill of sailors in sewing, backstitching particularly, is an old story. There's many an old main skipper turning to his knitting needles now that he no longer goes out in the skys'l yard in a gale. King George of England is both a sailorman and a knitter, swift and deft with his needles. He likes to do sweaters for his friends.

With the fashionable revival of knitting, crocheting, tatting and lace-making in England in the eighteenth century, men made the designs, many of which evolved into the basic patterns of the priceless lace pieces which are in the museums and great collections today.

Early in the last century, a rum-nosed, gouty old official of the Bank of England, a business associate of the Rothschilds, was a demon lace-maker. And to conclude these few gleanings about trousered crocheters of Columbia university established a knitting society a year or two ago.

Speaking of King George, there is quite a dither in the newspapers about whether Mrs. Roosevelt should curtsy to the queen if their majesties should visit the White House next year. I thought Mrs. Roosevelt disposed of the matter nicely in her indication that she thought it a concern of no great importance and that she would be guided by state department protocol. The division of protocol must, perforce, weigh the issue more carefully and promises a ruling. It is hinted that the customary forms of social greeting will suffice.

When the Dolly Gann incident was filling the newspapers a few years ago, it seemed a bit silly, all this ink spilled over who should precede whom and the country seemed to take it that way, vastly amused by it, on the whole. Diplomatic punctilio has grown slowly through the centuries and I have no doubt plausible reasons may be advanced for its elaborate rubric of formal behavior on occasions of state. But, regardless of such recondite matters, our social usage is essentially that of a great democratic tradition, un-self-conscious and with a minimum of obeisance.

Wise old Montaigne wrote something about that. I have been unable to find the passage I wanted and can only paraphrase it, but I remember he enjoyed an easy and honest reliance on simple, courteous behavior when meeting those of imposing, or different social antecedents. He thought that, even in Rome, is was better not to try to do as the Romans do.

We may be assured that King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will be received with seemly decorum. Real courtesy is international, timeless, adequate and honest and not dependent on punctilio or the lack of it. We may be feeling pretty insular these days, but that need not affect our manners when their majesties land on our shores.

Burning 10,000,000,000 Cups of Coffee

COFFEE aroma hangs heavy over the Brazilian uplands these days, but there is very little pouring: the government instead is burning a few million more cups to hold down the supply and to keep up the price.

More than 3,000,000,000 coffee trees, three-fifths of all there are in the world, are troubling Brazil today. In the last crop year this nation alone produced 1,000,000 more bags than the world consumed. So the burning started back in 1931 continues, and is likely to continue for many seasons.

Since the desperate growers set fire to their surplus stocks in 1931 upwards of 60,000,000 bags have been destroyed. The standard bag of coffee weighs 132 pounds. So statisticians have figured that upwards of 10,000,000,000 cups of the steaming drink have evaporated into the skies.

Unsuccessfully, Brazilians first tried dumping their stocks into the ocean, later pressed the coffee beans into bricks to be used as fuel for locomotives and utility plants or as roadbed materials. Some of the ash is now being used as fertilizer on Brazilian farms. But in any event the problem goes unsolved. Burning is merely a temporary expedient.

Meanwhile, a current Brazilian stamp, shown here, advertises to the world the country's chief product, coffee, displayed as the berry and in bags.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

The new principal took charge of the old school. Filled with new ideas, trained in the newer schools, he set to work to give the children the best possible instruction in the best possible ways. He had the support of the board of education and the trustees. He got new books, new tools, all the equipment he needed, and joyfully started out to build his new scheme. At the conferences he held with the teachers he explained and taught until most of them knew what was wanted. Most of them tried to go along with him, eager to do their best for the children, and trusting his leadership.

One teacher in the first year neither heard nor felt the new ideas. To her the routine of reading and number work was the whole of school. The program called for 20 minutes of free play in the morning session for her group. Forced to take the children downstairs she lined them up in the yard and kept them reciting their sound syllables to be applied in reading. Five at a time were excused to go to the toilet and "be back on line promptly. They can't afford the time for play. They get excited, and sweaty and dirty. Upsets their work for the morning." And that was that, for Miss Lulu was senior to the oldest teacher in the place, which counts, like it or not.

The afternoon session called for drawing, cutting, coloring and allied activities in arts and crafts. When Miss Lulu got time she hustled out scissors, to one group, pencils to another, a pile of paper patterns to still another. "Now hurry. We have to get this done so we can review sight words. Row one trace patterns; row two, cut them out; row three, color the legs brown; row four, color the bodies black; row six, do the heads in red with yellow eyes and collect at signal. As each group finishes its job, first child collect and count materials."

Perfect? Yes.

"But, but," stammered the principal.

The superintendent visited the school in his routined fashion. He heard each class read, had them do 10 examples under a time limit, looked casually at the compositions stacked and labelled for the occasion, made marks in his little book and went his way. In due time his report was sent in to the principal and the board of trustees.

"Miss Lulu's class, as usual, headed the list with a perfect score in reading. No child missed a word. It gives me great pleasure to congratulate Miss Lulu on her perfect record of more than a quarter century. She is a credit to the school, and to her profession."

You could see Miss Lulu hanging out flags all over herself.

An idea needs all the support that authority, leadership and cooperation of those who must bring it to fruition, and educational ideas must lean hard on the classroom teacher, and the authority who rates her. Most important of all concerned here, is the classroom teacher. Give her the approval, encouragement and power of spirit, and she will succeed, but bind her spirit and she must fail, taking the idea and the children along with her.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—In 1630 the Pilgrim fathers of the Massachusetts colony, faced with a labor shortage, passed a law providing that "carpenters, joiners, bricklayers, sawyers and thatchers shall not take above two shillings a day."

In 1938, on October 24, in a period of great unemployment, a federal law will go into effect which sets a minimum hourly wage rate of 25 cents and a maximum work week of 44 hours, with time and one-half for overtime.

The law is the fair labor standards act. Its administrator is Elmer F. Andrews, head of the wage and hour division of the department of labor. The act also bars from interstate commerce goods produced by "oppressive child labor." That part of it is under Chief Katherine F. Lenroot of the children's bureau.

Employers and employes still are asking which workers are covered and which are not. Aside from certain exemptions made in the law—chiefly of agricultural workers, seamen, street car employes, executives, retail workers and most employes in the fishing, canning and dairy industries, the wage and hour division in general classifies those covered as:

"1. Employes engaged in producing manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting or in any manner working on goods moving in interstate commerce.

"2. Employes engaged in any process or occupation necessary to the production of such goods.

"3. Employes engaged in interstate transportation, transmission or communication."

Further interpretation by the division's general counsel says that except for the stated exemptions, "all the employes, in a place of employment where goods shipped or sold in interstate commerce were produced, are included in the coverage . . ." This goes for watchmen, clerks, stenographers, maintenance workers and messengers, among others.

Employes in manufacturing, processing or distributing plants, "a part of whose goods moves in commerce out of the state in which the plant is located," are covered. But a plant none of whose products leave the state is not covered, even though its employes work on raw materials from outside the state. Employes working at home, as well as those in factories, are covered.

Where workers are paid on a piece-work basis or on a weekly or monthly rate, they must receive at least the equivalent of the minimum hourly rate.

Beginning October 24, 1939, the statutory work week will be 42 hours and after the second year of the act, only 40 hours. The minimum hourly wage rate will be raised from 25 to 30 cents a year from now, and will be pushed to 40 cents on October 24, 1945.

Due to meager funds, less than half the division's 12 regional offices will be opened this fall. (The 12 cities are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Birmingham, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Houston, Denver and San Francisco.) So there will be few inspectors available to check the records which employers are required to keep of persons employed, their wages and hours worked. There's a multiple system of enforcement, however, which tends to discourage any willful violations. Andrews urges all employers and employes to report such violations, assuring the latter that the act specifically protects them from discharge or discriminations.

Employes may bring suit for unpaid minimum wages or unpaid overtime, and employers violating wage and hour requirements are liable for such sums plus an equal amount to cover damages, court costs and attorney fees.

It will be unlawful to ship or sell in interstate commerce any goods produced where a person was employed in violation of the wage or hour sections, to violate the wage or hour sections, to discriminate against any complaining employe, to fail to keep the required records or to falsify any required record.

Penalties are a fine up to $10,000 and imprisonment for up to six months, the latter for second offenders only.

"Oppressive child labor" is defined as employment of children under 16 in any occupation except where the children's bureau determines employment of children of 14 or 15 won't interfere with schooling, health or well-being, and employment of children under 18 in occupations determined as hazardous or detrimental.

Specifically exempted from both wage and hour provisions are agricultural workers, seamen, employes of airplanes, street car, motor bus, interurban railways and of weekly or semi-weekly newspapers of less than 3,000 circulation; persons in bona fide executive, professional or local retailing capacity, or outside salesmen; employes of any retail or service establishment, most of whose selling or servicing is in interstate commerce; those engaged in fishing and the fishing industry; persons employed in the area of production to handle, prepare or can agricultural dairy or horticultural products for market.

Employes of railway, motor bus and truck carriers regulated by the I. C. C. are exempt from the hour rules, as are workers in the first processing of milk or cream into dairy products, in ginning and compressing cotton, the processing of cotton seed and the processing of agricultural products into sugar or syrup.

In industries designated by Andrews as "seasonal" employes may work up to 12 hours a day or 56 hours a week for not more than 14 weeks each year, the overtime rate applying for hours in excess. Workers engaged in canning or packing fresh fruits and vegetables in the production area or in dressing poultry or slaughtering livestock are exempt from all hour provisions for up to 14 weeks. Learners, apprentices and handicapped workers may be employed below the minimum wage under individual certificates issued by the administrator.

General Butler Relates Inside Story Of Why Marines Were Ordered To Fight

Declares Uncle Sam Has No Right To Criticize Others' Foreign Policies

By Walter L. Butler

The United States of America has oppressed and isolated minorities, aided and abetted revolutions and secessions in other lands, interfered with the commerce of established governments and rebellious minorities, supported with armed force the expansion of the far-flung interests of United States business corporations, and therefore holds no license to "sweep before the doors" of any dictator or any other nation in the world.

In those words Major General Smedley D. Butler, stormy petrel of more than 30 years' service with the United States marines, summed up in an address delivered here at Neville High school Friday night, his convictions upon policies which should be pursued by the state department of the United States.

His voice ringing with a fiery tone, the retired major general said, "let us build all of the coast and border line defenses our military experts say are necessary, and then let us say to the dictators: 'Cause all the trouble you want to cause elsewhere, but God help you if you come over here to cause trouble!"

Speaking with a rich and spicy vocabulary, through the force of a striking and dominant personality, Major General Butler took his audience behind the state department scenes to see what he saw of political intrigue in this government's activities in Cuba, Haiti, Santo Domingo, Central America, South America, Mexico, China and other lands. The address was interspersed with satire aimed at the United States' "holier than thou" attitude and which frequently "brought down the house" with laughter.

Major General Butler's address was sponsored by the Leonidas Barkdull Faulk post of the American Legion. He was introduced to the audience by H. Flood Madison, Jr., commander of the post.

Beginning his address, which was extemporaneous throughout by asserting that he was a Pennsylvania Quaker, the former marine officer declared that his forebears came over to Pennsylvania from England to protect minorities which were their kinsmen. After a while the Indians became the minorities, had no dictators to protect them, and were driven out of the country, the speaker said.

"There is no instance in history where any nation fought any kind of war except a defensive war. We went over to France in the World war to protect the boundaries of Louisiana and Pennsylvania and the United States. We hear military music and we are ready to fight, but I have never heard music that would make a man want to work, to go out and plow a field.

"One thing about war is that 'God is on our side!' We sing 'Onward Christian Soldiers! and that makes the war holy. The same principal could be applied to shooting craps, if the Lord would make them turn up right.

"We went to war to remove Spanish oppression from Cuba and the Philippines, and after the war the Filipinos wanted independence and we would not give it to them. Finally, we did give them independence, but now they want to come back to us. What do we get out of it? I say let the Japanese take the Philippines, and let us raise our sugar cane here at home."

Relative to the brutalities of war, the general said soldiers are taught how to kill people, are urged to kill as many as possible in combat, and are ordered, after capturing a town or other area, to refrain from maltreating the populace. The soldiers for weeks may have been bitter enemies of the defenders, but when they take over the enemy territory they are immediately expected to become protectors of the natives.

The retired general recalled an instance in which a marine had violated an order to refrain from taking personal property. The marine had "confiscated" two chickens in captured territory. Brought before the general, who at that time held the rank of major, the marine said, heatedly, in defense of himself: "What in the hell is a man going to do when TWO chickens attack him?"

The word "attack" came from provisions which allowed the marines to kill natives in event they were attacked. A marine could kill a native, but he could not maltreat him, the general said.

Referring to his opening statement that all wars are defensive wars, the retired general related that th country entered the Spanish-American war to avenge the sinking of the battleship Maine. He related that after the war the United States government raised the battleship and discovered that the cause of its sinking had not been a Spanish shell, but an explosion of powder within the battleship. Evidence showed that the hull of the battleship was blown outward, and not inward, the speaker declared.

He explained that the explosion involved a type of powder no longer used by the navy and which was known as cordite. Made into sticks, this powder exploded when the temperature became too hot in Havana harbor, it was stated by the speaker.

The battleship was assertedly towed out to sea and sunk in deep water, and a quietus placed on the discovery of the cause of its sinking.

Touching upon this country's expansion of its business interests through armed force, the retired general said that on numerous occasions marines had been ordered to go into the interior of lands in and south of the Gulf of Mexico, and to protect the lives of American citizens in those remote sections, where fruit plantations were located. Arriving at the designated localities, the marines found no American citizens there. Soon, however, the American citizens, employes or officials of commercial interests, made their appearance. They had waited until certain that armed force was there to protect them, and their employers' interests, the retired general declared.

"I don't know why the taxpayers of the United States should pay for a police force used by oil and fruit companies," the speaker told his audience.

"When we wanted to build the Panama canal, the Colombian legislature refused to sell us the necessary strip of land. The legislators each wanted $3,500 before granting us the land. That was too much money. I don't know how much you Louisianians pay your legislators for their votes, but $3,500 is more money than we pay our legislators in Pennsylvania.

"We therefore encouraged a revolution for the minority in the strip of Colombian territory, established a neutral zone there, sent the marines to protect the minority and gave them an anchluss. The Colombian soldiers came up to Panama to land on the strip and fight, but we told them we were protecting the disputed territory and that there would be no fighting in Panama.

"If we can't land and fight, how are we going to fight them?' the Colombian soldiers asked us.

"We told the Colombian soldiers that we couldn't answer that question, that there positively would be no fighting in the disputed territory, but that perhaps they could hold out some bait and lure the Panamanians elsewhere to fight.

"The marines took charge of the neutral zone, primed the first president of the liberated country with four or five drinks when he made his inaugural address, and led the applauding of the speech in which he portrayed himself as a second George Washington. The president told how the country had been liberated at the cost of spilled blood and lives of patriots, but not a shot had been fired or a drop of blood spilled."

Referring to activities of the marines in a Mexican revolution, Major General Butler said that an American naval fleet had been stationed off Vera Cruz to prevent landing of arms for the forces of Venustiano Carranza, who was warring to overthrow the provisional government of Victoriano Huerta. A German fleet appeared off Vera Cruz, protecting a cargo of munitions consigned to the Carranza forces.

General Butler said the American and German admirals got together as fellow men of the sea, agreed that the fight of commercial interests was not a fight of sailors, and decided that the best way to avoid a naval engagement would be to permit landing of the munitions cargo. Then, the marines, having landed on Mexican soil, would go to a certain point along a railroad and take possession of the shipment of munitions.

The carefully laid plans went astray, as the railroad freight cars moved faster than the marines could reach the designated spot. About half of the munitions cargo "went through," and the German admiral agreed to transfer the other half from the Vera Cruz harbor back onto the carrying vessel, the retired general related.

Taking up the subject of marine activities in Haiti, General Butler said the marines restored order by killing some natives and burning their houses. "Haiti had nine presidents in 37 months. Two got out of the country with some money; the rest were assassinated or blown up.

"We put two guards at the bedside of one of the presidents, and handled him like our state department wanted us to handle him, under the threat of taking away his personal guards. Then, we went over to Santo Domingo to help them run their government.

"When this country entered the World war, I was well prepared, after 20 years of killing and burning, to make the government a good soldier in France. I had plenty of experience, but they started sending over there some soldiers who did not have a record of killing people as good as mine Finally, I got to go over there."

Taking up the subject of his work as "head cop" in a campaign to "clean up" Philadelphia, General Butler said that one of the first things he learned in that role was that blue was the predominating color of automobile owners who were beyond the pale of the law. Traffic reports were replete with the word "blue" in descriptions of the automobiles, the automobile wheels, the wearing apparel of a group of people who were immune to arrest.

He said he soon found that he was virtually a one-man investigator of the negligence and connivance of a police force of 5,000 men, distributed over 3,700 miles of streets. He soon found that policemen were sleeping on their beats, missing from their posts during duty hours.

To check up on the connivance of police sergeants, he began "kidnaping" patrolmen, picking them up in his automobile, driving them some miles away and then telephoning their sergeant to ask if they were on duty at their posts. The sergeants would report that they had just checked their districts and found the patrolmen in question at his post.

"You're a damned liar," the major general said he thundered over the telephone to the sergeants. "I've got Patrolmen So-and-So here with me ten miles from his beat."

After the major general closed the Philadelphia restricted district, he was "hounded" by hotel keepers, property owners, gamblers, speakeasy operators and politicians. "Politicians told the cops to go ahead and do just like they had been doing, because they were going to get me off my job anyway."

Lawyers for the underworld forces called to visit the major general in his office, ostensibly to pass the time of day with him. But the lawyers told their criminal clients they called there to "fix" and protect their interests, and thrived on fat fees. When the clients' dives were raided and closed, Major General Butler was cursed as a double-crosser.

"Finally, I got fired," the major general declared. "I didn't like it, but I got even with them by making fun of them ever since, and making a good living at the same time."

The speaker brought down the house with the statement: "Why anybody in public office tries to be honest is more than I can understand."

Urging his audience to support the movement to keep the United States from fighting a war anywhere except within boundaries of the 48 states, Major General Butler said the cost of a war to defend any of our foreign possessions would amount to more money in a week than the value of the possession. He declared himself strongly in favor of relinquishing title to all foreign possessions and concentrating our military developments upon the defense of boundaries of the 48 states.

In conclusion, he expressed appreciation for the hearty welcome extended him during his visit here.

COMEDY WILL BE GIVEN AT CENTER

The Northeast Center Speech club will present "The Florist Shop," a one-act comedy, at the activity period on Thursday.

The play is expected to prove highly entertaining, stated Dr. Grace Ingledue, director.

Sybil Funchess will enact the part of Miss Wells, a woman of undetermined age, who is "in a twitter over the sudden attention of an unknown admirer." Bonnie Bounds, as Mr. Jackson, to whom Miss Wells had been engaged for 15 years, is aroused from lethargy as he is confronted by a rival. The quiet conspirator of the whole plot is Maude, played by Marguerite Wilson, who almost loses her job over her conspiring for customers. Dick Eason enacts the role of Henry, who works at the flower shop and fails to have much use for Maude's sentimentality. Mr. Slovsky, owner of the establishment, is protrayed by Deryl Morris who injects comedy into the situations.

"I don't know why the taxpayers of the United States should pay for a police force used by oil and fruit companies," the speaker told his audience.

"When we wanted to build the Panama canal, the Colombian legislature refused to sell us the necessary strip of land. The legislators each wanted $3,500 before granting us the land. That was too much money. I don't know how much you Louisianians pay your legislators for their votes, but $3,500 is more money than we pay our legislators in Pennsylvania.

"We therefore encouraged a revolution for the minority in the strip of Colombian territory, established a neutral zone there, sent the marines to protect the minority and gave them an anchluss. The Colombian soldiers came up to Panama to land on the strip and fight, but we told them we were protecting the disputed territory and that there would be no fighting in Panama.

"'If we can't land and fight, how are we going to fight them?' the Colombian soldiers asked us.

"We told the Colombian soldiers that we couldn't answer that question, that there positively would be no fighting in the disputed territory, but that perhaps they could hold out some bait and lure the Panamanians elsewhere to fight.

"The marines took charge of the neutral zone, primed the first president of the liberated country with four or five drinks when he made his inaugural address, and led the applauding of the speech in which he portrayed himself as a second George Washington. The president told how the country had been liberated at the cost of spilled blood and lives of patriots, but not a shot had been fired or a drop of blood spilled."

Referring to activities of the marines in a Mexican revolution, Major General Butler said that an American naval fleet had been stationed off Vera Cruz to prevent landing of arms for the forces of Venustiano Carranza, who was warring to overthrow the provisional government of Victoriano Huerta. A German fleet appeared off Vera Cruz, protecting a cargo of munitions consigned to the Carranza forces.

General Butler said the American and German admirals got together as fellow men of the sea, agreed that the fight of commercial interests was not a fight of sailors, and decided that the best way to avoid a naval engagement would be to permit landing of the munitions cargo. Then, the marines, having landed on Mexican soil, would go to a certain point along a railroad and take possession of the shipment of munitions.

The carefully laid plans went astray, as the railroad freight cars moved faster than the marines could reach the designated spot. About half of the munitions cargo "went through," and the German admiral agreed to transfer the other half from the Vera Cruz harbor back onto the carrying vessel, the retired general related.

Taking up the subject of marine activities in Haiti, General Butler said the marines restored order by killing some natives and burning their houses. "Haiti had nine presidents in 37 months. Two got out of the country with some money; the rest were assassinated or blown up.

"We put two guards at the bedside of one of the presidents, and handled him like our state department wanted us to handle him, under the threat of taking away his personal guards. Then, we went over to Santo Domingo to help them run their government.

"When this country entered the World war, I was well prepared, after 20 years of killing and burning, to make the government a good soldier in France. I had plenty of experience, but they started sending over there some soldiers who did not have a record of killing people as good as mine. Finally, I got to go over there."

Taking up the subject of his work as "head cop" in a campaign to "clean up" Philadelphia, General Butler said that one of the first things he learned in that role was that blue was the predominating color of automobile owners who were beyond the pale of the law. Traffic reports were replete with the word "blue" in descriptions of the automobiles, the automobile wheels, the wearing apparel of a group of people who were immune to arrest.

He said he soon found that he was virtually a one-man investigator of the negligence and connivance of a police force of 5,000 men, distributed over 3,700 miles of streets. He soon found that policemen were sleeping on their beats, missing from their posts during duty hours.

To check up on the connivance of police sergeants, he began "kidnaping" patrolmen, picking them up in his automobile, driving them some miles away and then telephoning their sergeant to ask if they were on duty at their posts. The sergeants would report that they had just checked their districts and found the patrolmen in question at his post.

"You're a damned liar," the major general said he thundered over the telephone to the sergeants. "I've got Patrolmen So-and-So here with me ten miles from his beat."

After the major general closed the Philadelphia restricted district, he was "hounded" by hotel keepers, property owners, gamblers, speakeasy operators and politicians. "Politicians told the cops to go ahead and do just like they had been doing, because they were going to get me off my job anyway."

Lawyers for the underworld forces called to visit the major general in his office, ostensibly to pass the time of day with him. But the lawyers told their criminal clients they called there to "fix" and protect their interests, and thrived on fat fees. When the clients' dives were raided and closed, Major General Butler was cursed as a double-crosser.

"Finally, I got fired," the major general declared. "I didn't like it, but I got even with them by making fun of them ever since, and making a good living at the same time."

The speaker brought down the house with the statement: "Why anybody in public office tries to be honest is more than I can understand."

Urging his audience to support the movement to keep the United States from fighting a war anywhere except within boundaries of the 48 states, Major General Butler said the cost of a war to defend any of our foreign possessions would amount to more money in a week than the value of the possession. He declared himself strongly in favor of relinquishing title to all foreign possessions and concentrating our military developments upon the defense of boundaries of the 48 states.

In conclusion, he expressed appreciation for the hearty welcome extended him during his visit here.

COMEDY WILL BE GIVEN AT CENTER

The Northeast Center Speech club will present "The Florist Shop," a one-act comedy, at the activity period on Thursday.

The play is expected to prove highly entertaining, stated Dr. Grace Ingledue, director.

Sybil Funchess will enact the part of Miss Wells, a woman of undetermined age, who is "in a twitter over the sudden attention of an unknown admirer." Bonnie Bounds, as Mr. Jackson, to whom Miss Wells had been engaged for 15 years, is aroused from lethargy as he is confronted by a rival. The quiet conspirator of the whole plot is Maude, played by Marguerite Wilson, who almost loses her job over her conspiring for customers. Dick Eason enacts the role of Henry, who works at the flower shop and fails to have much use for Maude's sentimentality. Mr. Slovsky, owner of the establishment, is protrayed by Deryl Morris who injects comedy into the situations.

ANNUAL Y. W. C. A. MEETING SLATED

Ceremonial, Address And Board Election Scheduled Thursday Night

The annual membership meeting of the Young Women's Christian association of Monroe will be held Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at clubrooms of the association's residence building, 904 Jackson street.

A ceremonial directed by Mrs. J. R. White, with Mrs. J. Norman Coon as reader, will be the opening feature of the program. Representing various phases of Y. W. C. A. activities, a member of the association's board of directors, a business girl, a member of the Girls' Reserve, health girl and a residence girl will participate in the ceremonial to present an interpretation of the Y. W. C. A.'s general program.

Following the ceremonial, Miss Ivo Wilson, general executive of the local association's program, will discuss the policies, philosophy and technique of the program.

An election will be held to appoint eight members of the board of directors to serve during the next three years.

Refreshments will be served by the board, assisted by Girl Reserve members from Neville and Ouachita Parish High schools.

An invitation to visit the Y. W. C. A. home Thursday night is extended the public.

HEARST RAPS AT BRITAIN'S PLEAS

Asserts England Trying To Get United States Backing To Halt Aggressors

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—England was accused tonight by William Randolph Hearst of "flooding the United States" with propaganda designed to win this country's backing in her current imperialistic worries.

Winston Churchill's radio appeal last Sunday to the United States in which he urged America to join with Great Britain and France to halt the aggressions of dictator nations was a piece of this propaganda, the publisher indicated.

Speaking from his San Simeon home in a radio address characterized by the national broadcasting company as a "reply" to Churchill, Hearst said:

"• • • England needs help, and where should she turn for help except to good old Uncle Sam, so sought after when needed, so scoffed at and scorned in all intervening times?

"English propaganda is again flooding the United States.

"English soft-soap is again being poured over Uncle Sam's devoted head, and lathered into his ears and eyes.

"English propaganda is very subtle and shrewd. Their ablest statesmen are engaged in promulgating it.

"England has never in our whole history extended any aid, comfort or consideration to this United States of ours, English speaking nation though we be."

England, he said, has not gained the abiding faith of the rest of the world by her treatment of Czechoslovakia.

"Even innocent, confiding America is beginning to realize that Communist France and imperial England are not altogether idealistic and altruistic democracies like our own—that true democracy stands by itself and must be preserved by itself—and that there is not very much difference between imperialism, communism and fascism in the final analysis. • • • "

WOW! Should I Holler I Just Won A Dollar

Bill Lee Had Backache
He Had It Bad
He Bet Me a Dollar
Today BILL'S Darn Glad

I'll say he's glad—it's like this—Bill had backache—had it good and plenty—did no work for two days.

So last night I walked over to see Bill—that backache had sure took Bill bad.

"Every time I move," says Bill, "pains shoot all thru my back—sometimes so terrible I think I'm going to pass out."

"Why don't you get a doctor?" says I to Bill.

"Why don't I get one of those 16 cylinder machines," Bill answered—you know darn well I ain't worked 10 weeks in a year—be yourself," says Bill.

"I've worked less," says I, "but we've got to do something"—so I started my old bean to work.

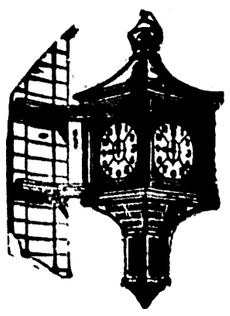

Well to cut a long story short—I remembered my Dad had often boasted about a medicine called OMEGA OIL that he claimed would bring ease and comfort to painful, aching back muscles, even bad enough to be called lumbago—so I said to Bill—

"Bet you a dollar I'll have you on the job tomorrow morning—give me 35 cents.

"It's in my pants pocket and the dollar too," says Bill—"Get it and get it quick—I want to work—I want to see another pay envelope."

So I goes to the nearest drugstore—gets my 35 cent bottle of Omega Oil, which the druggist said was good and powerful—penetrating and medicated and hustled back to Bill.

I rolled him over—He yelled murder when I did—but I gave his back a darn good rubbing—and that's how I won my dollar—but I'm giving it back to my old pal Bill tonight—Omega Oil is tops for backache—Bill says so and Bill knows. (Adv.)

U.S. MAY OPPOSE OR COLLABORATE

seeks aggrandizement in Latin America."

The choice between opposition and collaboration is apt to come first in the economic field. Germany has been making overtures for a trade agreement with the United States on a basis other than that of Secretary Hull's general trade treaty policy.

The latest proposal for such an agreement was made today in authoritative economic ministry quarters in Berlin. It was suggested there that unofficial economic experts representing the United States, Great Britain and Germany try to devise a triangular agreement to supplant or supplement the proposed Anglo-American trade pact.

Germany, lacking foreign exchange to pay for American cotton, wheat and tobacco, would supply Great Britain with needed chemicals, electric goods and machinery and have her turn over the cash for these to this country.

GERMANY WAITS FOR BRITISH, FRENCH ACTION

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The initiative in moves to restore to Germany her war-lost colonies lies principally with Great Britain and France, the Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the German foreign office, said tonight.

The semi-official organ re-stated the German position on the colonial issue, which has been bobbing up persistently since settlement of the Sudetenland problem, in assailing "certain English circles" in connection with the colonies.

It accused these quarters of apparently aiming at causing new unrest on the one hand by inciting demonstrations counter to the German colonial claims, and on the other by wishing to force Germany to set a date for negotiating the problem.

Such maneuvers, Korrespondenz said, could have no effect on Germany's colonial viewpoint or her manner of handling the problem. The paper said:

"Germany claims nothing which belongs to others by course of law. In turn, however, the Reich lays claim to those possessions which once were taken away from her on the basis of slanderous assertions. . . .

"If the German colonies have been left to the exploitation of others for 20 years, sound common sense for justice now commands—the longer the more urgently—that earlier injustice finally be rectified and that the trustees return the possessions to the country from which they were taken away under false suppositions.

"The initiative for solving the affair lies not with Germany, but with all those who are responsible for beginning compensation."

BENES MUST MEND HIS BROKEN HEALTH

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A tragic figure, former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, stepped from an airliner here today, his 25 years of illustrious statesmanship all but nullified.

He was on his way, ultimately, to the United States to lecture at the University of Chicago. But first he must mend his broken health.

Nervous, depressed and sick, Benes made a dramatic flight into voluntary exile from the nation he helped forge and which, on the eve of its 20th anniversary, he watched pay Adolf Hitler's price for European peace.

His whereabouts was a closely guarded secret. Only by complete isolation, it was said, could he battle against the drain on his strength which he felt as early as mid-July—long before the crisis which ended in his resignation.

BODY IDENTIFIED

BILOXI Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Police tonight tentatively identified the body of a middle-aged white man found on the Louisiana and Nashville railroad tracks today as Clifford Kallan of Kreole or Wiggins, Miss. The head was severed. Police first believed his name was Charles Williams.

CHEST CAMPAIGN OPENS TOMORROW

by many other local concerns, and a list of every contribution with names of donors will be published.

With the campaign not yet in progress, this pre-campaign donation is taken to indicate the ready response that is to be expected throughout this week when solicitation gets under way. On another page of today's Morning World will be seen the picture of the first check received.

The schedule of short talks to be made this week over KMLB, Monroe radio station, which the manager, J. C. Liner, has graciously placed at the disposal of the campaign workers will be each morning at 10:35 o'clock and each evening at 5:30 p.m. The speakers for the various days will be as follows: Sunday morning, A. Blumenthal, afternoon, E. H. Miller; Monday morning, S. A. Moss, afternoon, L. E. Mathis; Tuesday morning, H. Frazier, afternoon, T. J. Conger; Wednesday morning, B. B. Martin, afternoon, John L. Madden; Thursday morning, Alston Prophit, afternoon, Fred Williamson; Friday morning, Claude Harrison, afternoon, H. M. James.

Talks explaining the functions of the Community Chest will be made daily this week at the Capitol theater at 7:45 p.m. and at the Paramount theater at 8:30 p.m. The same speakers will address audiences at both theaters and will be as follows: Sunday, S. A. Moss; Monday, W. H. Anders; Tuesday, J. H. Trousdale, Jr.; Wednesday, L. L. Langford; Thursday, R. C. Stokes; Friday, H. R. Hodges.

The management of each theater has kindly offered the heartiest of cooperation by giving time between the showing of films for the making of appeals for support of the chest.

All these talks have been arranged through the speakers' bureau of which Thomas Davenport, attorney, is chairman and director.

Five of the nine local agencies that will receive deserved financial support through the medium of the Twin City Community Chest were named, and some of their salient features were described, in a previous issue of this newspaper. The other four agencies are the Salvation Army, the Home of the Good Samaritan, the Boy Scouts of America and the Colored Welfare mission.

Where dire need of a helping hand is most apparent, in the highways and byways of cities and towns and in slum sections of great cities, the Salvation Army holds out encouragement and cheer. In the Twin Cities it plays a most important role, directed here by Adjutant Glen Washburn, and governed by an advisory board headed by R. C. Stokes. There were 168 open air meetings held last year at which the attendance is estimated as 11,405. Indoor meetings were 203 in number and with attendance of 4,452. There were 46 band rehearsals and these were attended by 1,602. Fourteen conversions are reported. Hours spent by corps officers and others in visitations are given as 720. Institutions visited such as jails, hospitals, etc., were to the number of 35, hours thus spent being 60. A total of 226 papers were distributed, and 45 were given aid. In all, 519 transients were helped, shoes given in 13 cases, meals to 356, beds to 375 and cash also to the sum of $6 was provided.

In family welfare work, 228 were helped; grocery orders given to 202, rent paid for two families, fuel provided for one family. Garments were given to the number of 775. The women's home league also performed a valuable service.

The Home of the Good Samaritan, the only institution of its kind in northeast Louisiana, is located on the Winnsboro road and is in charge of Superintendent J. R. Downs. The home is such as to afford a shelter to 18 to 20 girls and young women in cases where other doors are closed. The home management endeavors to rehabilitate and redirect lives that otherwise might never be reclaimed.

The Boy Scouts of America is highly active, being directed by Olan Black, Scout executive, and Miss Eugenia Jones, Scout secretary. The number is given as 1,216 distributed in 11 troops. Scouting is too well known and too well appreciated to require any etxended explanation. The program is well told in the Scout's oath: "On my honor I will do my best—

1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law.
2. To help other people at all times.
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

The colored welfare mission is located in the Miller-Roy building and has three paid employes. Three hundred and ten persons were contacted the past year. Food and medicine were given to deserving families. The general purpose is to serve negroes in dire distress.

OIL COMPANIES' OFFICES SEIZED

Mexican Government Expropriates Building Despite Court Injunction

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Mexican government today expropriated downtown rented offices of two American oil companies despite a temporary injunction granted by the second district federal court and served during the actual seizure.

As a result United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels made representations to the foreign office, and was told the matter would be taken up "the first thing Monday morning."

The offices were those of the Titania and Mercedes Petroleum companies, affiliates of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. Five agents of the ministry of national economy entered the offices shortly after noon and presented a brief document saying the government "needs the offices" to carry on its petroleum business, and that the government's decree of March 18 expropriating foreign-owned oil properties was applicable.

Within an hour, the agents, while sealing up the doors with government-stamped adhesive tape, were served with an "amparo," the nearest Mexican equivalent to an injunction. After hurried telephoning, the agents said they would continue the expropriation since the court order had arrived after they were actually in possession.

The first expropriation order applied only to the building, which was rented by the companies. When this was noted at the scene, a second order arrived covering "all contained" in the offices. The oil companies' loss was chiefly desks, cabinets, and other office furniture and supplies.

Ambassador Daniels said tonight:

"I took the matter up with the foreign office about their taking over the property after the amparo had been issued. General Eduardo Hay, secretary of foreign relations, was not in, but Mr. Beteta (a sub-secretary) said he would take it up the first thing Monday morning."

WAGE AND HOUR DATA REQUIRED

state unemployment compensation laws and similar statutes.

These are the items, Generally speaking, regarding which employers subject to the act—those engaged in interstate commerce—must keep records:

Full name of the employe.
Home address.
Date of birth if employe is under 19.
Hours worked each work day and each work week.
Regular rate of pay and basis upon which wages are paid.
Wages at regular rate of pay for each work week, excluding extra compensation attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.
Extra wages for each work week attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.
Additions to cash wages at cost, or deductions from stipulated wages in the amount deducted or at the cost of the item for which deduction is made, which ever is less.
Total wages paid for each work week.
Date of payment.

The act, passed at the last session of congress, provides for a work week no longer than 44 hours during the first year of operation of the law; 42 hours the second year, and 40 hours thereafter. It provides minimum pay of 25 cents an hour the first year, 30 cents an hour the next six years, and 40 cents thereafter. All of these standards are imposed only in interstate commerce.

'IRON LUNGER' WILL TRAVEL TO FLORIDA

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Frederick Snite, Jr., the celebrated "iron lung" traveler, will entrain Tuesday for Florida to spend the winter, his father announced today.

It will be Snite's second trip to Florida since he returned from China, where he was stricken with infantile paralysis in March, 1936.

Making the trip with young Snite in a special car attached to the Dixie limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway will be the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Snite, Sr.; a doctor, two orderlies, six nurses and two Pullman company electricians.

They are scheduled to leave for Miami at 2:30 p. m., C. S. T., Tuesday.

FIRE DESTROYS SEVERAL FAYETTE, MISS., HOUSES

FAYETTE, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed several business houses and for a time threatened the entire commercial section today.

A drug store, a motion picture theater, the Harrison Case grocery and the Ledden building were reduced to ruins. The Harrigall Mercantile company building was damaged badly by water.

The Natchez fire department assisted in controlling the flames.

SHREVEPORT MAN HELD

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Wallace A. Gill, 40, of Shreveport was arrested here today by F. B. I. agents on a charge of impersonating a United States army captain which was contained in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury at Tulsa, Okla., May 19, 1938. Announcement of the arrest was made by R. B. Hood, F. B. I. agent in charge of the New Orleans office.

A MUSSOLINI AND ONE-TO-BE

The young woman above is Signorina Gina Roberti, but soon she will be Signora Mussolini. She is engaged to Captain Bruno Mussolini, second son of Il Duce, who is shown with her in this recent picture taken in Rome. Captain Mussolini, 21, has been serving as aviator in Spain. His fiancee, 22, is the daughter of the head of the contemporary art bureau of the Italian educational ministry.

SECURITY BOARD GIVEN WARNING

Infringement Upon Administrative Authority Of States Charged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The social security board received a warning from state officials today that "infringements upon the administrative authority of the states * * * endanger the entire structure of federal-state cooperation."

The note of caution was in a resolution adopted by 150 state officials who administer the federal-state unemployment insurance program. They accused the board of exceeding its powers in fixing standards for eligibility for grants under the jointly operated jobless aid program.

The conference delegates also asked that the federal unemployment service be taken from the labor department and placed under the social security board. Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the board had recommended, in an address to the conference, unification of job finding and jobless insurance programs.

The advisory council on social security was discussing, meanwhile, possible recommendations for changes in the federal old age insurance program. The council took no action, however.

Chairman J. Douglas Brown said the group considered a number of the old age pension programs being placed before the voters in several states this year. He said that it had not attempted to pass judgment on any of the proposals, however.

Brown said the council probably would meet again next month before deciding upon recommendations for revision of the security law.

OFFICIAL FIGURES SHOW MILLS WINNER

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The official promulgation of votes cast in last Tuesday's Fifth district congressional runoff election gave Congressman Newt V. Mills a majority of 458 votes over State Representative Harvey Todd.

Secretary of State E. A. Conway announced the official tabulation gave Mills 21,986 and Todd 21,528.

The official vote by parishes was given as follows: Caldwell, Mills 1,416, Todd 1,014; Catahoula 913, 1,444; Concordia 553, 1,165; East Carroll 504, 637; Franklin 2,390, 1,908; Jackson 1,456, 1,530; Lincoln 1,414, 1,288; Madison 271, 1,051; Morehouse 1,487, 1,558; Ouachita 6,184, 4,521; Richland 1,616, 1,606; Tensas 250, 544; Union 1,901, 2,229; West Carroll 1,631, 1,033.

PRESIDENT OF BANK IN ORLEANS DIES

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—John David O'Keefe, president of the Whitney National bank, largest in New Orleans, died today of pneumonia. He was 73 years old.

Mr. O'Keefe, who had wide business interests here, was born in Mobile, Ala. He was educated in New Orleans and as a young man was a clerk in the United States lighthouse service.

He entered a mill supplies firm, became secretary and treasurer, and later was appointed receiver for steamship and railroad firms. He was elected president of the Whitney bank in 1930.

The funeral will be here tomorrow. His widow survives him.

MAY IRWIN, FORMER STAGE STAR, EXPIRES

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—May Irwin, 76, a stage star of past generations, died today at her hotel after a week's illness.

Miss Irwin, who is survived by her husband, Kurt Elsfeldt, and a son, Harry Irwin, was a leading figure on the American stage from the 1870's until 1922 when she played her valedictory in "The '49ers." She was widely known both for her vaudeville and legitimate stage performances.

She first came into prominence when she and her sister Florence, appearing as the Irwin sisters, "rolled 'em in the aisles" at Tony Pastor's with high, hoarse coon songs. She appeared in some of the best remembered comedies of the day, "The Pie Rats of Penn Yan," "Dollars and Sense," and "His Wedding Day."

Miss Irwin's immense home in Clayton, N. Y., where she spent her declining years, was a haven for many celebrities of the theater who would drop in to chat and stay a week or two.

25,000 PERSONS AT STATE FAIR OPENING

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—An estimated 25,000 persons attended opening day of the 10-day Louisiana State fair here today and tonight. Attendance was short of last year's record opening day crowds as threatening weather during the day turned to rain tonight.

Five thousand Future Farmers of America and 3,500 Junior Home Makers were included in today's throng, which included several hundred newspaper men and women from Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

Governor Richard W. Leche and a party of Louisiana officials and business leaders, now returning from Kansas City, will attend the fair tomorrow, a day dedicated to Texarkana, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Monroe and Alexandria.

HEARST RAPS AT BRITAIN'S PLEAS

Asserts England Trying To Get United States Backing To Halt Aggressors

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—England was accused tonight by William Randolph Hearst of "flooding the United States" with propaganda designed to win this country's backing in her current imperialistic worries.

Winston Churchill's radio appeal last Sunday to the United States in which he urged America to join with Great Britain and France to halt the aggressions of dictator nations was a piece of this propaganda, the publisher indicated.

Speaking from his San Simeon home in a radio address characterized by the national broadcasting company as a "reply" to Churchill, Hearst said.

" * * * England needs help; and where should she turn for help except to good old Uncle Sam, so sought after when needed, so scoffed at and scorned in all intervening times?

"English propaganda is again flooding the United States.

"English soft-soap is again being poured over Uncle Sam's devoted head, and lathered into his ears and eyes.

"English propaganda is very subtle and shrewd. Their ablest statesmen are engaged in promulgating it.

"England has never in our whole history extended any aid, comfort or consideration to this United States of ours, English speaking nation though we be."

England, he said, has not gained the abiding faith of the rest of the world by her treatment of Czechoslovakia.

"Even innocent, confiding America is beginning to realize that Communist France and imperial England are not altogether idealistic and altruistic democracies like our own—that true democracy stands by itself and must be preserved by itself—and that there is not very much difference between imperialism, communism and fascism in the final analysis. * * * "

U. S. MAY OPPOSE OR COLLABORATE

seeks aggrandizement in Latin America."

The choice between opposition and collaboration is apt to come first in the economic field. Germany has been making overtures for a trade agreement with the United States on a basis other than that of Secretary Hull's general trade treaty policy.

The latest proposal for such an agreement was made today in authoritative economic ministry quarters in Berlin. It was suggested there that unofficial economic experts representing the United States, Great Britain and Germany try to devise a triangular agreement to supplant or supplement the proposed Anglo-American trade pact.

Germany, lacking foreign exchange to pay for American cotton, wheat and tobacco, would supply Great Britain with needed chemicals, electric goods and machinery and have her turn over the cash for these to this country.

GERMANY WAITS FOR BRITISH, FRENCH ACTION

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The initiative in moves to restore to Germany her war-lost colonies lies principally with Great Britain and France, the Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, mouthpiece of the German foreign office, said tonight.

The semi-official organ re-stated the German position on the colonial issue, which has been bobbing up persistently since settlement of the Sudetenland problem, in assailing "certain English circles" in connection with the colonies.

It accused these quarters of apparently aiming at causing new unrest on the one hand by inciting demonstrations counter to the German colonial claims, and on the other by wishing to force Germany to set a date for negotiating the problem.

Such maneuvers, Korrespondenz said, could have no effect on Germany's colonial viewpoint or her manner of handling the problem. The paper said:

"Germany claims nothing which belongs to others by course of law. In turn, however, the Reich lays claim to those possessions which once were taken away from her on the basis of slanderous assertions. . . .

"If the German colonies have been left to the exploitation of others for 20 years, sound common sense for justice now commands—the longer the more urgently—that earlier injustice finally be rectified and that the trustees return the possessions to the country from which they were taken away under false suppositions.

"The initiative for solving the affair lies not with Germany, but with all those who are responsible for beginning compensation."

BENES MUST MEND HIS BROKEN HEALTH

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A tragic figure, former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, stepped from an airliner here today, his 25 years of illustrious statesmanship all but nullified.

He was on his way, ultimately, to the United States to lecture at the University of Chicago. But first he must mend his broken health.

Nervous, depressed and sick, Benes made a dramatic flight into voluntary exile from the nation he helped forge and which, on the eve of its 20th anniversary, he watched pay Adolf Hitler's price for European peace.

His whereabouts was a closely guarded secret. Only by complete isolation, it was said, could he battle against the drain on his strength which he felt as early as mid-July—long before the crisis which ended in his resignation.

BODY IDENTIFIED

BILOXI Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Police tonight tentatively identified the body of a middle-aged white man found on the Louisiana and Nashville railroad tracks today as Clifford Kallan of Kreole or Wiggins, Miss. The head was severed. Police first believed his name was Charles Williams.

by many other local concerns, and a list of every contribution with names of donors will be published.

With the campaign not yet in progress, this pre-campaign donation is taken to indicate the ready response that is to be expected throughout this week when solicitation gets under way. On another page of today's Morning World will be seen the picture of the first check received.

The schedule of short talks to be made this week over KMLB, Monroe radio station, which the manager, J. C. Liner, has graciously placed at the disposal of the campaign workers will be each morning at 10:35 o'clock and each evening at 5:30 p.m. The speakers for the various days will be as follows: Sunday morning, A. Blumenthal, afternoon, E. H. Miller; Monday morning, S. A. Moss, afternoon, L. E. Mathis; Tuesday morning, H. Frazier, afternoon, T. J. Conger; Wednesday morning, B. B. Martin, afternoon, John L. Madden; Thursday morning, Alston Prophit, afternoon, Fred Williamson; Friday morning, Claude Harrison, afternoon, H. M. James.

Talks explaining the functions of the Community Chest will be made daily this week at the Capitol theater at 7:45 p.m. and at the Paramount theater at 8:30 p.m. The same speakers will address audiences at both theaters and will be as follows: Sunday, S. A. Moss; Monday, W. H. Anders; Tuesday, J. H. Trousdale, Jr.; Wednesday, L. L. Langford; Thursday, R. C. Stokes; Friday, H. R. Hodges.

The management of each theater has kindly offered the heartiest of cooperation by giving time between the showing of films for the making of appeals for support of the chest.

All these talks have been arranged through the speakers' bureau of which Thomas Davenport, attorney, is chairman and director.

Five of the nine local agencies that will receive deserved financial support through the medium of the Twin City Community Chest were named, and some of their salient features were described, in a previous issue of this newspaper. The other four agencies are the Salvation Army, the Home of the Good Samaritan, the Boy Scouts of America and the Colored Welfare mission.

Where dire need of a helping hand is most apparent, in the highways and byways of cities and towns and in slum sections of great cities, the Salvation Army holds out encouragement and cheer. In the Twin Cities it plays a most important role, directed here by Adjutant Glen Washburn, and governed by an advisory board headed by R. C. Stokes. There were 168 open air meetings held last year at which the attendance is estimated as 11,405. Indoor meetings were 203 in number and with attendance of 4,452. There were 46 band rehearsals and these were attended by 1,602. Fourteen conversions are reported. Hours spent by corps officers and others in visitations are given as 720. Institutions visited such as jails, hospitals, etc., were to the number of 35, hours thus spent being 60. A total of 226 papers were distributed, and 45 were given aid. In all, 519 transients were helped, shoes given in 13 cases, meals to 356, beds to 375 and cash also to the sum of $6 was provided.

In family welfare work, 228 were helped; grocery orders given to 202, rent paid for two families, fuel provided for one family. Garments were given to the number of 775. The women's home league also performed a valuable service.

The Home of the Good Samaritan, the only institution of its kind in northeast Louisiana, is located on the Winnsboro road and is in charge of Superintendent J. R. Downs. The home is such as to afford a shelter to 18 to 20 girls and young women in cases where other doors are closed. The home management endeavors to rehabilitate and redirect lives that otherwise might never be reclaimed.

The Boy Scouts of America is highly active, being directed by Olan Black, Scout executive, and Miss Eugenia Jones, Scout secretary. The number is given as 1,276 distributed in 11 troops. Scouting is too well known and too well appreciated to require any etxended explanation. The program is well told in the Scout's oath: "On my honor I will do my best—

1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law.
2. To help other people at all times.
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

The colored welfare mission is located in the Miller-Roy building and has three paid employes. Three hundred and ten persons were contacted the past year. Food and medicine were given to deserving families. The general purpose is to serve negroes in dire distress.

OIL COMPANIES' OFFICES SEIZED

Mexican Government Expropriates Building Despite Court Injunction

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Mexican government today expropriated downtown rented offices of two American oil companies despite a temporary injunction granted by the second district federal court and served during the actual seizure.

As a result United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels made representations to the foreign office, and was told the matter would be taken up "the first thing Monday morning."

The offices were those of the Titania and Mercedes Petroleum companies, affiliates of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. Five agents of the ministry of national economy entered the offices shortly after noon and presented a brief document saying the government "needs the offices" to carry on its petroleum business, and that the government's decree of March 18 expropriating foreign-owned oil properties was applicable.

Within an hour, the agents, while sealing up the doors with government-stamped adhesive tape, were served with an "amparo," the nearest Mexican equivalent to an injunction. After hurried telephoning, the agents said they would continue the expropriation since the court order had arrived after they were actually in possession.

The first expropriation order applied only to the building, which was rented by the companies. When this was noted at the scene, a second order arrived covering "all contained" in the offices. The oil companies' loss was chiefly desks, cabinets, and other office furniture and supplies.

Ambassador Daniels said tonight:

"I took the matter up with the foreign office about their taking over the property after the amparo had been issued. General Eduardo Hay, secretary of foreign relations, was not in, but Mr. Beteta (a sub-secretary) said he would take it up the first thing Monday morning."

state unemployment compensation laws and similar statutes.

These are the items, Generally speaking, regarding which employers subject to the act—those engaged in interstate commerce—must keep records:

Full name of the employe.

Home address.

Date of birth if employe is under 19.

Hours worked each work day and each work week.

Regular rate of pay and basis upon which wages are paid.

Wages at regular rate of pay for each work week, excluding extra compensation attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.

Extra wages for each work week attributable to the excess of the overtime rate over the regular rate.

Additions to cash wages at cost, or deductions from stipulated wages in the amount deducted or at the cost of the item for which deduction is made, which ever is less.

Total wages paid for each work week.

Date of payment.

The act, passed at the last session of congress, provides for a work week no longer than 44 hours during the first year of operation of the law; 42 hours the second year, and 40 hours thereafter. It provides minimum pay of 25 cents an hour the first year, 30 cents an hour the next six years, and 40 cents thereafter. All of these standards are imposed only in interstate commerce.

'IRON LUNGER' WILL TRAVEL TO FLORIDA

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Frederick Snite, Jr., the celebrated "iron lung" traveler, will entrain Tuesday for Florida to spend the winter, his father announced today.

It will be Snite's second trip to Florida since he returned from China, where he was stricken with infantile paralysis in March, 1936.

Making the trip with young Snite in a special car attached to the Dixie limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway will be the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Snite, Sr.; a doctor, two orderlies, six nurses and two Pullman company electricians.

They are scheduled to leave for Miami at 2:30 p. m., C. S. T., Tuesday.

FIRE DESTROYS SEVERAL FAYETTE, MISS., HOUSES

FAYETTE, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed several business houses and for a time threatened the entire commercial section today.

A drug store, a motion picture theater, the Harrison Case grocery and the Ledden building were reduced to ruins. The Harrigall Mercantile company building was damaged badly by water.

The Natchez fire department assisted in controlling the flames.

SHREVEPORT MAN HELD

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Wallace A. Gill, 40, of Shreveport was arrested here today by F. B. I. agents on a charge of impersonating a United States army captain which was contained in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury at Tulsa, Okla., May 19, 1938. Announcement of the arrest was made by R. B. Hood, F. B. I. agent in charge of the New Orleans office.

SECURITY BOARD GIVEN WARNING

Infringement Upon Administrative Authority Of States Charged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The social security board received a warning from state officials today that "infringements upon the administrative authority of the states * * * endanger the entire structure of federal-state cooperation."

The note of caution was in a resolution adopted by 150 state officials who administer the federal-state unemployment insurance program. They accused the board of exceeding its powers in fixing standards for eligibility for grants under the jointly operated jobless aid program.

The conference delegates also asked that the federal unemployment service be taken from the labor department and placed under the social security board. Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the board had recommended, in an address to the conference, unification of job finding and jobless insurance programs.

The advisory council on social security was discussing, meanwhile, possible recommendations for changes in the federal old age insurance program. The council took no action, however.

Chairman J. Douglas Brown said the group considered a number of the old age pension programs being placed before the voters in several states this year. He said that it had not attempted to pass judgment on any of the proposals, however.

Brown said the council probably would meet again next month before deciding upon recommendations for revision of the security law.

WOW! Should I Holler I Just Won A Dollar

Bill Lee Had Backache
He Had It Bad
He Bet Me a Dollar
Today BILL'S Darn Glad

I'll say he's glad—it's like this—Bill had backache—had it good and plenty—did no work for two days.

So last night I walked over to see Bill—that backache had sure took Bill bad.

"Every time I move," says Bill, "pains shoot all thru my back—sometimes so terrible I think I'm going to pass out."

"Why don't you get a doctor?" says I to Bill.

"Why don't I get one of those 16 cylinder machines," Bill answered—you know darn well I ain't worked 10 weeks in a year—be yourself," says Bill.

"I've worked less," says I, "but we've got to do something"—so I started my old bean to work.

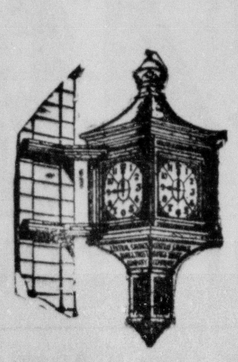

Well to cut a long story short—I remembered my Dad had often boasted about a medicine called OMEGA OIL that he claimed would bring ease and comfort to painful, aching back muscles, even bad enough to be called lumbago—so I said to Bill—

"Bet you a dollar I'll have you on the job tomorrow morning—give me 35 cents.

"It's in my pants pocket and the dollar too," says Bill—"Get it and get it quick—I want to work—I want to see another pay envelope."

So I goes to the nearest drugstore—gets my 35 cent bottle of Omega Oil, which the druggist said was good and powerful—penetrating and medicated and hustled back to Bill.

I rolled him over—He yelled murder when I did—but I gave his back a darn good rubbing—and that's how I won my dollar—but I'm giving it back to my old pal Bill tonight—Omega Oil is tops for backache—Bill says so and Bill knows. (Adv.)

than 1,000,000 soldiers waited for diplomats to agree or disagree on the question of Hungary's demands for thousands of square miles of Czechoslovak territory.

The Czechs' latest proposal, offering lands which Hungary insists contain a preponderant Hungarian population, was reported to be unacceptable to Budapest.

In Berlin, Reich officials said residents of Sudetenland may choose their deputies next month for Chancellor Hitler's non-debative parliament in the substitution of civil for military rule.

The German economics ministry let it be known that it would like to effect a German - British - American trade pact.

To London from Prague went former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia. Politically ruined by Hitler's coup at Munich, Benes was broken in health. Upon recuperating, he expects to lecture at the University of Chicago.

CHAMBERLAIN FACES DIFFICULT SITUATION

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One of the foremost problems facing Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain after the "Munich peace" is to push Britain's rearmament program on a ["] vaster scale and, at the same time, continue his policy of appeasement with Germany and Italy.

The British public, from the man in the street to the aristocrats and big-moneyed classes, is demanding a greater national effort to make the nation strong.

On the other hand, Germany and Italy, ever distrustful of democratic motives, see such a development as a blow to the hopes for arms limitation born at the Munich four-power conference.

If Britain and France were to show so little faith in the Munich accord as to speed up their own armaments, Germany and Italy would have to do the same, say the inspired Nazi and Fascist press.

Even in high British quarters, there is little attempt to conceal pessimism over the future of relations between the two western democracies and the two authoritarian nations.

Big obstacles lie ahead—colonies, Spain, economic issues—and Britons from right to left are insisting that the only way the democracies can hold their own with the dictators in any settlement is through armed strength.

The document that Chamberlain brought back from Munich bearing his own and Adolf Hitler's signatures—a pledge to adjust their differences by consultation and a statement of the desires of their two peoples never again to go to war against each other—has done little to change this view.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The French government made it plain after a cabinet meeting today that it had committed itself to a heavy rearmament program unless some kind of agreement could be obtained to minimize Europe's war dangers.

There was ample evidence that this policy was decided in close accord with Great Britain which also is pushing rearmament.

In France, immediate measures took the form of plans for speedy appointment of a high commissioner for armaments and the promise of immediate, stern measures to force employes of arms and airplane factories to work longer than the 40-hour week.

After the cabinet meeting ministers said the government proposed summary dismissal of workers in airplane and arms plants who balked at the longer hours.

The decision followed the announcement by the British air ministry last night of plans to step up war plane production to match the air rearmament of Germany which, it is estimated, will have 6,000 or more first line fighting planes by next spring.

Leon Archambaud, president of the chamber of deputies sub-committee on national defense, was considered the most likely choice to direct France's armaments speed-up. Ministers said the high commissioner for armaments would rank virtually as a member of the cabinet.

The statement of Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, in the home press that Italy views strides toward stronger armaments in the United States, Great Britain and France as contrary to the spirit of Munich appears to have fallen on deaf ears.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet informed the cabinet of conversations with Germany in an attempt to reach a non-aggression agreement but the measures announced simultaneously to speed up armaments indicated that the government was taking no chances.

An atmosphere of distrust of Germany's intentions persisted in a large part of French political circles and among the general public where the "Munich peace" is widely regarded as a capitulation forced on the democracies by lack of preparedness.

BRITISH GUNS GUARD MOURNERS AFTER MASSACRE

Sorrowing friends and relatives of 21 Jews massacred when Arabs burned 12 houses in the Jewish town of Tiberias, Palestine, are pictured in the photo at left above, as, protected by uniformed troops, they mourned at the victims' mass funeral. Soldiers are in the truck bearing some of the bodies. The crowd presses closely while Rabbi Asha Werner (in circle) of Providence, R. I., voices their grief. Even the funeral procession was considered to be in peril of attack, and an armored car led it out of Tiberias, as pictured at right.

British troops striving to maintain order in Palestine are constantly harassed by bands of Arab guerillas. In the photo above, a turreted armored car is shown driving around a rock barricade erected by the terrorists to delay reinforcements sent to Tiberias. This Jewish town on the shore of the Sea of Galilee suffered a raid by Arabs in which 21 Jews were killed.

JAPANESE OCCUPY CANTON COMPLETELY

HONGKONG, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Japanese were reported tonight to have completel, occupied Canton, gateway to China's vast southern provinces, virtually without having fired a shot.

Advices from the city, which fell to a swift-driving, mechanized Japanese column that pushed 125 miles inland from the coast in 10 days, said the occupation had been completed by evening without incident.

Chinese leaders here declared the fall of Canton did not mean Japanese conquest of all Kwangtung province. with the motor industry. A high spot in the electric power division was the increased demand for power in heavy industrial centers. In reaching a new high for the year freight shipments had the aid of a sizeable increase in the movement of miscellaneous goods.

In its weekly survey of business in 36 cities, the commerce department reported retail trade was again a laggard. This behavior was attributed to unusually warm weather rather than lack of consumer interest or lowered buying power.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity rose to 80.7, a new peak for the year; a week ago it was 79.7, a year ago 94.4.

The Edison Electric institute reported electric energy output for the week ended October 15 was 2,182,731,000 kilowatt hours, a moderate rise but 4.1 per cent less than in the corresponding week of 1937.

The Association of American Railroads reported loadings in the same week at 726,612, up 3.4 per cent from the previous week but down 9.1 per cent from the like week a year ago.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated output at 49.4 per cent of capacity. The previous week it was 51.4, a month ago 47.3 and a year ago 55.8.

Duer McLanahan, the groom's brother, will be best man. The ushers include Lacey Julia Gerton, Mason Ellers, Hunter New York; Bradford Shinkle, St. Louis; Howard and Dickinson McIlvain, Philadelphia; Frederick Whitney, New Haven, Conn.; Miller Kerr, Pittsburgh; Frederick Clifford, Chicago; Frank Griswold, Philadelphia; Scott Hopkins, East River, Conn.; Edward McGee, New York; Walter Sayers, Chicago; Murray Preston, Washington, D. C.; Harold Barker, New York and John Roosevelt.

Anne Roosevelt will be matron of honor. Other attendants will include Rebecca West St. Louis; Frances Weir, Westport, O.; Nancy Cassels, Boston; Mrs. Frank Griswold, Philadelphia; Olivia Thorndike and Elizabeth Cooper, both of Boston.

After the wedding the McLanahans are going to Honolulu on their honeymoon, probably via St. Louis to visit friends.

The Honolulu trip is the result of a deal she made with her future husband. He wanted to live in the country when they came back to New York, but she wanted to live in the city. So on their honeymoon they are going to live in the hotels he likes or are going to places he wants to see and when they come back they will live in a New York City apartment.

Too, when she comes back she plans to go back into either night club work or on the musical stage.

One of the bridesmaids and three of the ushers at the wedding will be on the same ship to Honolulu with the couple.

Cries of "banzia" and "heil" were heard at the peak of Mount Fuji, in Japan, when 300 Japanese boys escorted a delegation of visiting Hitler Jugend youths from Germany in an ascent of the famous mountain near Tokyo.

UNITED STATES STUDIES FLEETS

at an estimated outlay of $200,000,000. The strategy underlying this proposal is to increase the canal's commercial and naval traffic capacities and to diminish the danger that a single bombing raid might close it entirely at a critical moment.

Each of these proposals has formidable backing certain to be revived when congress begins its own study of the defense problem.

Since debates in congress last spring on the three proposals, a clearer idea of what naval opinion might regard as adequate in the Atlantic for defensive purposes has been taking shape. In essence it means a sufficient strength in that ocean to meet any possible future German-Italian moves toward Latin America, while leaving in the Pacific an even stronger force to guard against Japanese involvement in any such enterprise.

What the two-fleet idea really spells is a change from the navy-second-to-none policy to one of maintaining sufficient fleet strength to cope with any three navies, not including the British, which might be combined for action in western hemisphere waters. And that means the German-Italian-Japanese group already united in ideology and "power politics" tactics.

BURKITT SAYS HE WAS THROWN OUT OF JAIL

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Release of James F. (Jeff) Burkitt from the Hudson county penitentiary at Secaucus today spoiled plans for his triumphal entry into Jersey City with an escort provided by the Hudson county committee for labor defense and civil rights.

Burkitt, a Democrat and long-time foe with the party of its state leader, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City had been jailed on a disorderly conduct charge after an attempt to make an open-air speech here without a permit. The state supreme court upheld his conviction and sentence and his attorney has said he would carry the case to the United States supreme court if necessary.

News men found Burkitt, bearded and belligerent, "thumbing" a ride outside the jail this morning, and complaining that he was "forcibly ejected" a day ahead of the expiration of his six-month term to avert a demonstration by his political sympathizers.

"They threw me out. They're afraid. They're political cowards," Burkitt said.

Warden Michael J. Gill denied Burkitt was released early. Said Gill: "His time was up and we led him out. That's all there is to it."

Burkitt said he would go to city hall Monday to renew his application for a permit to make an open-air speech.

than 1,000,000 soldiers waited for diplomats to agree or disagree on the question of Hungary's demands for thousands of square miles of Czechoslovak territory.

The Czechs' latest proposal, offering lands which Hungary insists contain a preponderant Hungarian population, was reported to be unacceptable to Budapest.

In Berlin, Reich officials said residents of Sudetenland may choose their deputies next month for Chancellor Hitler's non-debative parliament in the substitution of civil for military rule.

The German economics ministry let it be known that it would like to effect a German - British - American trade pact.

To London from Prague went former President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia. Politically ruined by Hitler's coup at Munich, Benes was broken in health. Upon recuperating, he expects to lecture at the University of Chicago.

CHAMBERLAIN FACES DIFFICULT SITUATION

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—One of the foremost problems facing Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain after the "Munich peace" is to push Britain's rearmament program on a ... vaster scale and, at the same time, continue his policy of appeasement with Germany and Italy.

The British public, from the man in the street to the aristocrats and big-moneyed classes, is demanding a greater national effort to make the nation strong.

On the other hand, Germany and Italy, ever distrustful of democratic motives, see such a development as a blow to the hopes for arms limitation born at the Munich four-power conference.

If Britain and France were to show so little faith in the Munich accord as to speed up their own armaments, Germany and Italy would have to do the same, say the inspired Nazi and Fascist press.

Even in high British quarters, there is little attempt to conceal pessimism over the future of relations between the two western democracies and the two authoritarian nations.

Big obstacles lie ahead—colonies, Spain, economic issues—and Britons from right to left are insisting that the only way the democracies can hold their own with the dictators in any settlement is through armed strength.

The document that Chamberlain brought back from Munich bearing his own and Adolf Hitler's signatures—a pledge to adjust their differences by consultation and a statement of the desires of their two peoples never again to go to war against each other—has done little to change this view.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The French government made it plain after a cabinet meeting today that it had committed itself to a heavy rearmament program unless some kind of agreement could be obtained to minimize Europe's war dangers.

There was ample evidence that this policy was decided in close accord with Great Britain which also is pushing rearmament.

In France, immediate measures took the form of plans for speedy appointment of a high commissioner for armaments and the promise of immediate, stern measures to force employes of arms and airplane factories to work longer than the 40-hour week.

After the cabinet meeting ministers said the government proposed summary dismissal of workers in airplane and arms plants who balked at the longer hours.

The decision followed the announcement by the British air ministry last night of plans to step up war plane production to match the air rearmament of Germany which, it is estimated, will have 6,000 or more first line fighting planes by next spring.

Leon Archambaud, president of the chamber of deputies sub-committee on national defense, was considered the most likely choice to direct France's armaments speed-up. Ministers said the high commissioner for armaments would rank virtually as a member of the cabinet.

The statement of Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, in the home press that Italy views strides toward stronger armaments in the United States, Great Britain and France as contrary to the spirit of Munich appears to have fallen on deaf ears.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet informed the cabinet of conversations with Germany in an attempt to reach a non-aggression agreement but the measures announced simultaneously to speed up armaments indicated that the government was taking no chances.

An atmosphere of distrust of Germany's intentions persisted in a large part of French political circles and among the general public where the "Munich peace" is widely regarded as a capitulation forced on the democracies by lack of preparedness.

L. S. U., THOUGH OUTPLAYED, BEATS VANDY, 7-0

BRILLIANT DRIVE IN LAST QUARTER WINS FOR TIGERS

Jake Staples Speeds Through Tackle To Score For Bengals

By Norman Walker

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A brilliant touchdown drive from nearly midfield gave Louisiana State a spectacular 7 to 0 victory tonight over previously unbeaten Vanderbilt.

The touchdown broke an impasse between two of the south's strongest grid machines in a game that threatened to end scoreless.

Victory for L. S. U. meant revenge for the trick "hidden ball" play that spelled defeat for the Bayou Tigers last year at Nashville. Vandy tried the same trick again tonight, but the battling Tigers smothered it, not to be fooled again.

The winning touchdown came with only six minutes left to play. A combination of L. S. U.'s two alternate teams was in the game. Ashford Simes, sophomore halfback, began the drive from the Commodore 46-yard line, unleashing a 14-yard pass to Charlie Erdman, another sophomore back.

Jake Staples, squat veteran fullback, hit the line for eight more yards, and then Simes rifled an aerial to Ken Kavanaugh, Tiger end, for nine to the Vandy 15-yard stripe and a first down.

Staples sped through left tackle, sidestepping one Vandy back, spining out of the outstretched fingers of another, and raced across the Vanderbilt goal.

Guy (Cotton) Milner, whose skillful toe broke up the Rice game two weeks ago with a field goal, booted the extra point squarely over the crossbar.

Except for the sensational Tiger touchdown drive Vanderbilt clearly had the edge in offensive play. Only once before, in the third period, had L. S. U. been able even to penetrate Vanderbilt territory.

The story of the game could be seen in the tabulation of first downs, a dozen for Vanderbilt and only four for L. S. U. Vandy's sensational attack threatened to score almost on every play but the record showed the Commodores penetrated only as far as L. S. U.'s 20-yard line and that only once.

Lunsford Hollins and Roy Huggins lashed passes, forwards, shovels and laterals from every angle and Marvin Franklin and Hady Housman, Vandy star receivers, caught them consistently. But Louisiana State's great defensive play—the same sort that held Rice for downs twice within the 10-yard line—bogged down Vandy's tricky play at every step.

Eddie Gatto, L. S. U.'s all-America tackle candidate, and Ken Kavanaugh, tall Tiger end, smeared dozens of Vandy plays, and Milner himself broke up the desperate Commodore aerial attack in the closing minutes

PRINCETON, NAVY STRUGGLE TO TIE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Princeton and Navy put on a great offensive show before 40,000 fans today, the final count standing 13 to 13 after the Tigers came from behind with two spectacular scoring drives in the second half.

Princeton scooted 55 yards to tie the score at 6-6 in the third quarter, and then after the Middies had pounded 55 yards for another score early in the final period, came back with a 69-yard aerial advance to make it a stand-off.

The Navy team had been piled up on the Tigers' five-yard line for three downs, and on the fourth the Middies flipped a pass into the flat in the fourth period.

The pass had no chance of completion, but Dick Bokum of the Princeton defense smeared the intended receiver, the referee yelled interference, and Navy had a first down on the five-yard stripe. Cliff Lenz spilled across the goal line on the second try.

In the opening period Emmett Wood raced 63 yards before he was hauled down four yards from the goal. Then he quickly took the ball on over.

BRONCOS SMASH RAZORBACKS, 21-6

Wild, Thrill-Filled Game Keeps Spectators On Edge Till Final Gun

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Undefeated, untied University of Santa Clara, one of the two great football teams of the west coast, strengthened its bid for national recognition today with a smashing 21 to 6 victory over the University of Arkansas Razorbacks.

From the opening kickoff until the final gun barked, it was the wildest, thrill-packed game seen here this year.

Some 25,000 fans stayed until the last play as the ball changed hands time after time on intercepted passes, punts and recovered fumbles.

The Broncos, two-time Sugar Bowl champions and rolling ahead behind a finished, powerful club again this year, moved into a lead in the first period, scored another touchdown in the second quarter and piled up its margin with a third counter in the final 15 minutes of play.

Arkansas made its lone touchdown shortly after the second quarter got under way, the score coming on the tail end of a 75-yard advance.

The Broncos scored their first touchdown on a forward lateral play, Sub Left Halfback Clark tossing to Right End Anahu and the latter flipping a lateral to John Schiechl, center, who sped some 20 yards to cross the goal. It climaxed a yard gaining spurt of 76 yards.

Arkansas pulled up to within nearly even terms after a drive which opened later in the first period and paid off in the second quarter. During the 75-yard thrust, the Razorbacks abandoned their vaunted passing tactics until the scoring play. They powered along the ground to within 15 yards of the goal, where Left Half Kay Bakin tossed a lateral to Sub Right Half Atwood who dove over a couple of Santa Clarans to light in the end zone.

Simington, right guard, failed to convert the extra point and the Razorbacks still trailed 6-7.

Shortly after, Sub Fullback Roche bobbed up to intercept a pass by Gloyd Lyons, substituting at left half, and raced 52 yards to score in a clear field.

An intercepted pass paved the way for the fourth period Bronco touchdown. Quarterback McCarthy snagged the ball 15 yards from the Arkansas goal and Clark went through left guard for two yards and the touchdown.

POWERFUL ELEVEN EXPECTED TO GIVE INDIANS TROUBLE

Slight Changes May Be Made In Tribe Lineup For Night Game Here

The Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians, who stunned 3,000 fans at Hope, Ark., with their last minute victory over the heavier and more favored Henderson State Teachers college eleven Friday night, will meet another powerful foe when they face the Copiah-Lincoln aggregation here next Thursday night.

The Tribe's 18 to 7 victory over Henderson State boosted the Indian stock considerably and raised hopes of their being able to stop the usually powerful Copiah-Lincoln eleven.

But it was indicated after the Henderson game that a few slight changes might be made in the local lineup before the invasion of the Mississippians.

Two performers who have been confined to jobs on the bench in most Center games this year apparently had found themselves against Henderson and at times outshown the Center regulars.

These two boys, Mickey Westbrook and Bill Singleton, are sure to be given extra consideration in practice sessions this week. Both Westbrook and Singleton, reserve backs who tip the beams at near 200 pounds, have been slow starting this year, but if they can continue the pace they set against Henderson their added weight in the light Center backfield should make plenty difference in remaining battles on the Tribe's schedule.

Westbrook, of Pickens, Ark., was responsible for Center's first touchdown against the Reddies and Singleton's performance was little short of sensational during his time in the battle. Singleton is from Toledo, O., and will probably be given a trial against John Semago for starting quarterback berth in the absence of "Pop" Walker, regular quarter, who will be missing from the squad for several days yet as the result of an injury suffered in the game a week ago with L. S. U.'s freshmen.

Don Short, 165-pound fullback from McAlster, Tex., also starred for Center against Henderson and was the luminary in the last quarter scoring punch that upset the Arkansans. A Henderson fumble deep in Reddie territory was recovered by Center on the Reddie five and, with less than five minues left to play, Short went over for the touchdown that put Northeast Center ahead. Shot scored a couple of minutes later when he intercepted a pass and ran 50 yards to score as the game ended.

Copiah-Lincoln, although a victim of Northeast Center, 30 to 0, last year, has been able to provide the Tribe with some sensational football. The two teams have met on three occasions, two games ending in ties and the Redmen winning last year for the first time over the Mississippians.

But Center does not have the strong offensive combination that went undefeated last year and became one of the highest scoring teams in the nation, while Copiah-Lincoln is much more improved and will be able to play a brand of ball more like that of 1936, when they fought Center to a 7 to 7 standstill, and that of 1934, when they played a scoreless tie.

DARTMOUTH BEATS HARVARD, 13 TO 7

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Dartmouth's powerful and speedy football Indians clicked off their 20th game without a loss since 1936 by cashing two of their three scoring chances against a hard-fighting Harvard team for a 13-7 decision today before an almost capacity crowd of 55,000.

After being held in check during most of the first half, the Indians returned to the conflict and marched the kick-off 85 yards, the brilliant Colby Howe plunging from the two-yard line.

Their winning counter, however, resulted from Harvard's only fumble, on its 20-yard line in the fourth period. Then Charlie Miller dove on the ball as Frank Foley and Joe Gardella missed connections on a spinner. Joe Cottone reversed for 17 yards to Harvard's three, where the Indians' bogged three plays before Captain Bob MacLeod crashed over for the deciding points.

Harvard's tally followed closely. Frank Foley ran back Bill Hutchinson's kick-off 15 yards and alternated with Fullback Ben Smith in rushes to their 35. There Foley completed three long passes to the Indians' three-yard line. Smith scored.

To break a bundle of piano wire one inch square, a pull of 350,000 pounds is necessary; a square inch of steel to build a skyscraper can withstand a pull only one-fifth as great.

Improvident Battlers Try Comebacks As Wads Vanish

Tony Canzoneri And Bob Olin Among Has-Beens Training In New York

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The cigar smoke eddies and whirls in Stillman's gymnasium on upper Eighth avenue, and an hour's sit on the hard benches at the ringside affords a case history of the strange calling which makes men old at 30.

Ceferino Garcia is there, practicing the fatal "bolo" punch with which he intends to smash Henry Armstrong in their welterweight title fight at the Garden on November 2. The "bolo" punch, on close inspection, turns out to be a long right uppercut with a fancy name.

In the other ring is Tony Canzoneri, once one of the greatest little fighters the game ever saw, looking thick through the middle and practicing for the comeback that all his friends have begged him not to attempt.

As Tony fiddles about with an awkward sparring partner, his fists clearly lacking their old genius, the regular who has paid his 10 cents comments: "What a shame. Think of all the dough Tony made. Now he's shot, and all he's got is a farm that don't grow enough to make it worth picking."

"Guess we'll be seeing Jim Braddock around here again," offered his neighbor. "Jim's eating joint closed for good last night. Jim sank a wad in that one."

Larry White, the manager of Fred Apostoli, No. 1 challenger for the middleweight crown, joins the lament for the improvident members of the craft:

"Looking around here it seems like a hard way to make a living, doesn't it? All these kids with dented noses and no money. It won't happen to Freddie, though. He's already got $30,000 salted away where he can't get at it, and his face is hardly marked."

Another battered veteran hustles by, swathed in towels, and climbs on the rubbing table. It is Bob Olin, the former light heavyweight champion, who was supposed to have retired some years ago.

Neither of the two rings is idle for a moment. There is a hell somewhere that rings automatically every three minutes, and as fast as one pair climb out there are two more to take their place. So it goes on for hours, and where they all come from is difficult to figure out. A dozen over-stuffed observers never take their eyes from the shuffling figures. They are managers on the never-ending prowl for "prospects."

Lou Ambers, the harlequin of the game, hasn't had his spirits dampened by the loss of his lightweight title to Armstrong two months back. He kids with everyone in sight as he waits his turn at the ring. Someone asks him if he's going to make a "comeback."

"What do you mean?" cracks Lou. "I haven't been anywhere. My next fight with Armstrong will draw more money than the last one did. I'll probably make some real money from losing that fight."

Lou won't make a prediction on the Armstrong-Garcia bout, though he ventures to suggest that Garcia might win by a knockout if he connects with Henry solidly in the early rounds.

"Hitting Henry isn't as easy as it looks," he recalls.

IRATE FANS HURT GRID REFEREE AND TRIO OF PLAYERS

PAHOKEE, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Three players and the referee required hospital treatment after a high school football game ended in a free-for-all fight here last night.

One of the injured players, Shirley Lacer of the Miami Beach team, was temporarily paralyzed but was expected to recover. It took four stitches to close the wounds of B. Arnold, the referee. The others were less seriously hurt.

Miami Beach led Pahokee 6 to 0 near the end of the game, when a Pahokee player caught a lateral pass and ran for a touchdown. But Arnold called the ball back, asserting it was out of motion before the play.

More than 500 spectators swarmed out of the stands and began beating the members of the visiting team.

ARMY SMOTHERS BOSTON UNIVERSITY TEAM, 40-0

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Army sharpened its sights on the Notre Dame game a week hence by cannonading Boston university's football Terriers for a 40 to 0 triumph before 10,000 spectators today.

Chief marksman in the attack which netted 20 first downs for a total yardage gain of 520 was Charles "Huey" Long, 180-pound halfback. His twisting, free-wheeling open field running led the play for the two periods he saw action and enabled him to score two touchdowns.

LIONS TO MEET TORNADO HERE

Teams Unbeaten In Class AA Conference To Tangle Friday Night

The most important high school football game of the season on the local gridiron will be played here Friday night when the Lions of Ouachita Parish High school clash with the Haynesville Golden Tornado in a Class AA conference battle. Neither team has yet been defeated in the double A division.

The Ouachita force, coming out of its "breather" Friday night with Bastrop in good condition, expects to be at its best of the season against the invading Tornado, a power in state high school football circles and yet to be defeated by a Monroe eleven.

The Tornado, with a stellar backfield and a strong line, will be favored to beat the Lions despite the fact that both elevens beat Vivian, a Class AA opponent by practically the same score. Haynesville stopped Vivian, 25 to 0; the Lions beat Vivian, 26 to 0.

Haynesville boasts a triple threat back in Grover Smith, a 145-pounder, and other stellar backfield performers in W. G. Lawless, quarterback, and Raymond Peace and William Maxwell, a pair of speed merchants who are playing their first season as regulars. The Tornado line is headed by Gladney White, veteran tackle, who is being rated as all-state timber; a couple of stellar ends in Ferrell Hall and T. Bourn, and another ace tackle in Holley Heard, a 195-pounder.

Alvin Fleming, ace of the Ouachita backfield, who is rapidly developing into one of the best backs the Lions have boasted in years, will figure in the Ouachita offensives in a big way with Cason Mitchell, Clayton Brown, John Wilhite and probably "Cotton" Hall.

Ouachita also boasts a pair of good tackles in Buford Goss and Albert Gerson, stellar ends in Mitchell Funderburk and Warren Seivers, dependably guards in James Peters and Howard Griffith and the stellar Tommy Younse at center.

The game with Haynesville will mark the beginning of a series of tough conference battles for Ouachita and will be the first of three powerful elevens to come here to face Coach "Lefty" Haynes' aggregation.

After Haynesville, the Lions meet the strong Byrd High school Yellow Jackets here the following week. The locals meet Fair Park's Indians of Shreveport in Shreveport on November 10, and then return here for an engagement with the Lake Charles Wildcats on November 18. Ouachita ends its schedule against their old rivals, the Bolton Bears of Alexandria, in Alexandria on Thanksgiving day.

Ouachita has only Haynesville, Fair Park and Byrd to hurdle in order to gain a place in the Class AA title playoffs, and either of the three teams will be plenty tough for the locals to handle. Bolton and Lake Charles, Class AA teams, belong to the south Louisiana conference.

LAIN HURT AS RICE BEATS TEXAS, 13-6

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Rice institute opened its conference play with a 13-6 victory over the University of Texas today, scoring the winning touchdown in the last two and a half minutes of play.

A long pass from midfield by Billy Cline, sub back, to Ollie Cordill gave Rice the ball on the Texas 23 in the last quarter. Doug Sullivan scored three plays later.

Texas scored first on a pass, Wallace Lawson to Lewis Gray, from the 30-yard stripe. Rice scored in the second quarter on a pass, Ernie Lain to Cordill, from the 20.

Lain was forced out of the game a minute later and went to the hospital with a badly injured ankle.

FORDHAM BURIES OREGON, 26 TO 0

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A powerful Fordham football team wiped out all doubt concerning scoring ability today by burying Oregon's heavier Webfoots under a 26-0 score.

The Rams sent Pete (Rabbit) Holovak sprinting off tackle for 80 yards and their opening score.

Fordham split its four touchdowns among as many ball carriers—Holovak, Sophomore Len Eshmont, key man in a 64-yard drive split over the third and fourth quarters; Bob Principe, hard-hitting fullback who walked through from the Oregon one-yard line, and Mike Hearn, who went over for the final touchdown from the 13-yard line.

PITT WALLOPS S. M. U. TO STAY OUT IN FRONT

Notre Dame, T. C. U., Dartmouth, Oklahoma And Duke Match Pace Of Panthers

By Herbert W. Barker

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Pitt's Golden Panthers, No. 1 team in last week's Associated Press poll, gave another awesome demonstration of all-around power and skill today as Syracuse, Georgia and Carnegie Tech fell off the unbeaten band-wagon.

In a day conspicuously free of major surprises, Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Dartmouth, Oklahoma, Duke and half a dozen others kept pace with Pitt in the dizzy dash for national championship recognition.

Pitt, mixing its powerful running attack with effective passing, buried the Mustangs of Southern Methodist, 34-7, before 37,000. Notre Dame, blocked for three periods by Carnegie Tech's rugged defense, finally pushed over a touchdown in the fourth for a 7-0 triumph.

Texas Christian, heirs-apparent to the Southwest conference throne, toppled Marquette, 21-0, as Dartmouth overcame stubborn Harvard, 13-7. Oklahoma twice pierced Nebraska's defense and won a 14-0 Big Six triumph as Duke was held to a 7-0 score by Wake Forest.

Syracuse's first defeat was a 19-12 setback by Michigan State's speedy Spartas while Georgia, previously unbeaten, was soundly trounced by Holy Cross, 29-6.

Fordham and Colgate upheld eastern prestige in intersectional warfare as the Rams, boasting a scoring punch for the first time in years, buried Oregon under a 26-0 score and Colgate traveled west to shellack Iowa, 14-0. On the other side of the ledger, Michigan spotted Yale a 13-2 half-time lead and then won, 15-13.

In the east, Lafayette's 7-6 victory over New York university was the only surprise as Cornell tripped Penn State, [illegible]; Georgetown topped Manhattan, 14-13; Penn nosed out Columbia, 14-13; Navy and Princeton tied at 13-13; Army routed Boston university, 40-0, and Amherst won the first "Little Three" game from Wesleyan, 13-0. Brown and Rhode Island State scored 61 points as the former earned a 40-21 decision.

TULANE BREEZES TO VICTORY OVER MERCER, 51 TO 0

Best Run Of Game Turned In By Bob Kellogg, Former Center Star

By Ed Desobry

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Tulane university's Green Wave, gaining power each Saturday, turned loose its endless array of backfield stars before 15,000 spectators today to swamp Mercer, 51 to 0.

Mercer could not cope with the Greenie forward wall, led by Captain Ray Miller, stellar tackle, and most of the time found its offense shattered before it could get started.

Tulane uncovered a new star in Bob Kellogg, a fast shifty half who was one of the nation's top scorers last year at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university.

Kellogg, in the game only a few minutes in the second and third periods, turned in the best run of the day when he stepped 27 yards to the Mercer 10 and then slithered through for a score. He has not played much this year because of a practice session injury.

The great Warren Brunner, as usual, was almost unstoppable on off tackle and end runs and sparked most of the touchdowns made while he was in the lineup. Harry Hays, Buddy Banker and Fred Cassibry, halfbacks, again shone with their long runs.

Mercer's only gains, a few 10 yard runs, were made by Bill Howland, Roscoe Cline and James Landrum. Henry Lawrence, end, and Al Gerhardt were the best in the line.

The visitors threatened mildly only twice, once in the first period when runs by Howland and Landrum and a penalty gave them three successive first downs to midfield and again in the third when a punt touched Buddy Banker and Robert Alley, Mercer end, recovered it on the Tulane 10. Four times Tulane pushed Mercer back and took the ball on the 36.

Tulane gained 550 yards running

L. S. U., THOUGH OUTPLAYED, BEATS VANDY, 7-0

BRILLIANT DRIVE IN LAST QUARTER WINS FOR TIGERS

Jake Staples Speeds Through Tackle To Score For Bengals

By Norman Walker

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A brilliant touchdown drive from nearly midfield gave Louisiana State a spectacular 7 to 0 victory tonight over previously unbeaten Vanderbilt.

The touchdown broke an impasse between two of the south's strongest grid machines in a game that threatened to end scoreless.

Victory for L. S. U. meant revenge for the trick "hidden ball" play that spelled defeat for the Bayou Tigers last year at Nashville. Vandy tried the same trick again tonight, but the battling Tigers smothered it, not to be fooled again.

The winning touchdown came with only six minutes left to play. A combination of L. S. U.'s two alternate teams was in the game. Ashford Simes, sophomore halfback, began the drive from the Commodore 46-yard line, unleashing a 14-yard pass to Charlie Erdman, another sophomore back.

Jake Staples, squat veteran fullback, hit the line for eight more yards, and then Simes rifled an aerial to Ken Kavanaugh, Tiger end, for nine to the Vandy 15-yard stripe and a first down.

Staples sped through left tackle, sidestepping one Vandy back, spining out of the outstretched fingers of another, and raced across the Vanderbilt goal.

Guy (Cotton) Milner, whose skillful toe broke up the Rice game two weeks ago with a field goal, booted the extra point squarely over the crossbar.

Except for the sensational Tiger touchdown drive Vanderbilt clearly had the edge in offensive play. Only once before, in the third period, had L. S. U. been able even to penetrate Vanderbilt territory.

The story of the game could be seen in the tabulation of first downs, a dozen for Vanderbilt and only four for L. S. U. Vandy's sensational attack threatened to score almost on every play but the record showed the Commodores penetrated only as far as L. S. U.'s 20-yard line and that only once.

Lunsford Hollins and Roy Huggins lashed passes, forwards, shovels and laterals from every angle and Marvin Franklin and Hady Housman, Vandy star receivers, caught them consistently. But Louisiana State's great defensive play—the same sort that held Rice for downs twice within the 10-yard line—bogged down Vandy's tricky play at every step.

Eddie Gatto, L. S .U.'s all-America tackle candidate, and Ken Kavanaugh, tall Tiger end, smeared dozens of Vandy plays, and Milner himself broke up the desperate Commodore aerial attack in the closing minutes

PRINCETON, NAVY STRUGGLE TO TIE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Princeton and Navy put on a great offensive show before 40,000 fans today, the final count standing 13 to 13 after the Tigers came from behind with two spectacular scoring drives in the second half.

Princeton scooted 55 yards to tie the score at 6-6 in the third quarter, and then after the Middies had pounded 55 yards for another score early in the final period, came back with a 69-yard aerial advance to make it a stand-off.

The Navy team had been piled up on the Tigers' five-yard line for three downs, and on the fourth the Middies flipped a pass into the flat in the fourth period.

The pass had no chance of completion, but Dick Bokum of the Princeton defense smeared the intended receiver, the referee yelled interference, and Navy had a first down on the five-yard stripe. Cliff Lenz spilled across the goal line on the second try.

In the opening period Emmett Wood raced 63 yards before he was hauled down four yards from the goal. Then he quickly took the ball on over.

BRONCOS SMASH RAZORBACKS, 21-6

Wild, Thrill-Filled Game Keeps Spectators On Edge Till Final Gun

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Undefeated, untied University of Santa Clara, one of the two great football teams of the west coast, strengthened its bid for national recognition today with a smashing 21 to 6 victory over the University of Arkansas Razorbacks.

From the opening kickoff until the final gun barked, it was the wildest, thrill-packed game seen here this year.

Some 25,000 fans stayed until the last play as the ball changed hands time after time on intercepted passes, punts and recovered fumbles.

The Broncos, two-time Sugar Bowl champions and rolling ahead behind a finished, powerful club again this year, moved into a lead in the first period, scored another touchdown in the second quarter and piled up its margin with a third counter in the final 15 minutes of play.

Arkansas made its lone touchdown shortly after the second quarter got under way, the score coming on the tail end of a 75-yard advance.

The Broncos scored their first touchdown on a forward lateral play, Sub Left Halfback Clark tossing to Right End Anahu and the latter flipping a lateral to John Schiechl, center, who sped some 20 yards to cross the goal. It climaxed a yard gaining spurt of 76 yards.

Arkansas pulled up to within nearly even terms after a drive which opened later in the first period and paid off in the second quarter. During the 75-yard thrust, the Razorbacks abandoned their vaunted passing tactics until the scoring play. They powered along the ground to within 15 yards of the goal, where Left Half Kay Bakin tossed a lateral to Sub Right Half Atwood who dove over a couple of Santa Clarans to light in the end zone.

Simington, right guard, failed to convert the extra point and the Razorbacks still trailed 6-7.

Shortly after, Sub Fullback Roche bobbed up to intercept a pass by Gloyd Lyons, substituting at left half, and raced 52 yards to score in a clear field.

An intercepted pass paved the way for the fourth period Bronco touchdown. Quarterback McCarthy snagged the ball 15 yards from the Arkansas goal and Clark went through left guard for two yards and the touchdown.

POWERFUL ELEVEN EXPECTED TO GIVE INDIANS TROUBLE

Slight Changes May Be Made In Tribe Lineup For Night Game Here

The Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians, who stunned 3,000 fans at Hope, Ark., with their last minute victory over the heavier and more favored Henderson State Teachers college eleven Friday night, will meet another powerful foe when they face the Copiah-Lincoln aggregation here next Thursday night.

The Tribe's 18 to 7 victory over Henderson State boosted the Indian stock considerably and raised hopes of their being able to stop the usually powerful Copiah-Lincoln eleven.

But it was indicated after the Henderson game that a few slight changes might be made in the local lineup before the invasion of the Mississippians.

Two performers who have been confined to jobs on the bench in most Center games this year apparently had found themselves against Henderson and at times outshown the Center regulars.

These two boys, Mickey Westbrook and Bill Singleton, are sure to be given extra consideration in practice sessions this week. Both Westbrook and Singleton, reserve backs who tip the beams at near 200 pounds, have been slow starting this year, but if they can continue the pace they set against Henderson their added weight in the light Center backfield should make plenty difference in remaining battles on the Tribe's schedule.

Westbrook, of Pickens, Ark., was responsible for Center's first touchdown against the Reddies and Singleton's performance was little short of sensational during his time in the battle. Singleton is from Toledo, O., and will probably be given a trial against John Semago for starting quarterback berth in the absence of "Pop" Walker, regular quarter, who will be missing from the squad for several days yet as the result of an injury suffered in the game a week ago with L. S. U.'s freshmen.

Don Short, 165-pound fullback from McAlster, Tex., also starred for Center against Henderson and was the luminary in the last quarter scoring punch that upset the Arkansans. A Henderson fumble deep in Reddie territory was recovered by Center on the Reddie five and, with less than five minues left to play, Short went over for the touchdown that put Northeast Center ahead. Shot scored a couple of minutes later when he intercepted a pass and ran 50 yards to score as the game ended.

Copiah-Lincoln, although a victim of Northeast Center, 30 to 0, last year, has been able to provide the Tribe with some sensational football. The two teams have met on three occasions, two games ending in ties and the Redmen winning last year for the first time over the Mississippians.

But Center does not have the strong offensive combination that went undefeated last year and became one of the highest scoring teams in the nation, while Copiah-Lincoln is much more improved and will be able to play a brand of ball more like that of 1936, when they fought Center to a 7 to 7 standstill, and that of 1934, when they played a scoreless tie.

DARTMOUTH BEATS HARVARD, 13 TO 7

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Dartmouth's powerful and speedy football Indians clicked off their 20th game without a loss since 1936 by cashing two of their three scoring chances against a hard-fighting Harvard team for a 13-7 decision today before an almost capacity crowd of 55,000.

After being held in check during most of the first half, the Indians returned to the conflict and marched the kick-off 85 yards, the brilliant Colby Howe plunging from the two-yard line.

Their winning counter, however, resulted from Harvard's only fumble, on its 20-yard line in the fourth period. Then Charlie Miller dove on the ball as Frank Foley and Joe Gardella missed connections on a spinner. Joe Cottone reversed for 17 yards to Harvard's three, where the Indians' bogged three plays before Captain Bob MacLeod crashed over for the deciding points.

Harvard's tally followed closely. Frank Foley ran back Bill Hutchinson's kick-off 15 yards and alternated with Fullback Ben Smith in rushes to their 35. There Foley completed three long passes to the Indians' three-yard line. Smith scored.

To break a bundle of piano wire one inch square, a pull of 350,000 pounds is necessary; a square inch of steel to build a skyscraper can withstand a pull only one-fifth as great.

Improvident Battlers Try Comebacks As Wads Vanish

Tony Canzoneri And Bob Olin Among Has-Beens Training In New York

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The cigar smoke eddies and whirls in Stillman's gymnasium on upper Eighth avenue, and an hour's sit on the hard benches at the ringside affords a case history of the strange calling which makes men old at 30.

Ceferino Garcia is there, practicing the fatal "bolo" punch with which he intends to smash Henry Armstrong in their welterweight title fight at the Garden on November 2. The "bolo" punch, on close inspection, turns out to be a long right uppercut with a fancy name.

In the other ring is Tony Canzoneri, once one of the greatest little fighters the game ever saw, looking thick through the middle and practicing for the comeback that all his friends have begged him not to attempt.

As Tony fiddles about with an awkward sparring partner, his fists clearly lacking their old genius, the regular who has paid his 10 cents comments: "What a shame. Think of all the dough Tony made. Now he's shot, and all he's got is a farm that don't grow enough to make it worth picking."

"Guess we'll be seeing Jim Braddock around here again," offered his neighbor. "Jim's eating joint closed for good last night. Jim sank a wad in that one."

Larry White, the manager of Fred Apostoli, No. 1 challenger for the middleweight crown, joins the lament for the improvident members of the craft: "Looking around here it seems like a hard way to make a living, doesn't it? All these kids with dented noses and no money. It won't happen to Freddie, though. He's already got $30,000 salted away where he can't get at it, and his face is hardly marked."

Another battered veteran hustles by, swathed in towels, and climbs on the rubbing table. It is Bob Olin, the former light heavyweight champion, who was supposed to have retired some years ago.

Neither of the two rings is idle for a moment. There is a bell somewhere that rings automatically every three minutes, and as fast as one pair climb out there are two more to take their place. So it goes on for hours, and where they all come from is difficult to figure out. A dozen over-stuffed observers never take their eyes from the shuffling figures. They are managers on the never-ending prowl for "prospects."

Lou Ambers, the harlequin of the game, hasn't had his spirits dampened by the loss of his lightweight title to Armstrong two months back. He kids with everyone in sight as he waits his turn at the ring. Someone asks him if he's going to make a "comeback."

"What do you mean?" cracks Lou. "I haven't been anywhere. My next fight with Armstrong will draw more money than the last one did. I'll probably make some real money from losing that fight."

Lou won't make a prediction on the Armstrong-Garcia bout, though he ventures to suggest that Garcia might win by a knockout if he connects with Henry solidly in the early rounds.

"Hitting Henry isn't as easy as it looks," he recalls.

IRATE FANS HURT GRID REFEREE AND TRIO OF PLAYERS

PAHOKEE, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Three players and the referee required hospital treatment after a high school football game ended in a free-for-all fight here last night.

One of the injured players, Shirley Lacer of the Miami Beach team, was temporarily paralyzed but was expected to recover. It took four stitches to close the wounds of B. Arnold, the referee. The others were less seriously hurt.

Miami Beach led Pahokee 6 to 0 near the end of the game, when a Pahokee player caught a lateral pass and ran for a touchdown. But Arnold called the ball back, asserting it was out of motion before the play.

More than 500 spectators swarmed out of the stands and began beating the members of the visiting team.

ARMY SMOTHERS BOSTON UNIVERSITY TEAM, 40-0

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Army sharpened its sights on the Notre Dame game a week hence by cannonading Boston university's football Terriers for a 40 to 0 triumph before 10,000 spectators today.

Chief marksman in the attack which netted 20 first downs for a total yardage gain of 520 was Charles "Huey" Long, 180-pound halfback. His twisting, free-wheeling open field running led the play for the two periods he saw action and enabled him to score two touchdowns.

LIONS TO MEET TORNADO HERE

Teams Unbeaten In Class AA Conference To Tangle Friday Night

The most important high school football game of the season on the local gridiron will be played here Friday night when the Lions of Ouachita Parish High school clash with the Haynesville Golden Tornado in a Class AA conference battle. Neither team has yet been defeated in the double A division.

The Ouachita force, coming out of its "breather" Friday night with Bastrop in good condition, expects to be at its best of the season against the invading Tornado, a power in state high school football circles and yet to be defeated by a Monroe eleven.

The Tornado, with a stellar backfield and a strong line, will be favored to beat the Lions despite the fact that both elevens beat Vivian, a Class AA opponent by practically the same score. Haynesville stopped Vivian, 25 to 0; the Lions beat Vivian, 26 to 0.

Haynesville boasts a triple threat back in Grover Smith, a 145-pounder, and other stellar backfield performers in W. G. Lawless, quarterback, and Raymond Peace and William Maxwell, a pair of speed merchants who are playing their first season as regulars. The Tornado line is headed by Gladney White, veteran tackle, who is being rated as all-state timber; a couple of stellar ends in Ferrell Hall and T. Bourn, and another ace tackle in Holley Heard, a 195-pounder.

Alvin Fleming, ace of the Ouachita backfield, who is rapidly developing into one of the best backs the Lions have boasted in years, will figure in the Ouachita offensives in a big way with Cason Mitchell, Clayton Brown, John Wilhite and probably "Cotton" Hall.

Ouachita also boasts a pair of good tackles in Buford Goss and Albert Gerson, stellar ends in Mitchell Funderburk and Warren Seivers, dependably guards in James Peters and Howard Griffith and the stellar Tommy Younse at center.

The game with Haynesville will mark the beginning of a series of tough conference battles for Ouachita and will be the first of three powerful elevens to come here to face Coach "Lefty" Haynes' aggregation.

After Haynesville, the Lions meet the strong Byrd High school Yellow Jackets here the following week. The locals meet Fair Park's Indians of Shreveport in Shreveport on November 10, and then return here for an engagement with the Lake Charles Wildcats on November 18. Ouachita ends its schedule against their old rivals, the Bolton Bears of Alexandria, in Alexandria on Thanksgiving day.

Ouachita has only Haynesville, Fair Park and Byrd to hurdle in order to gain a place in the Class AA title playoffs, and either of the three teams will be plenty tough for the locals to handle. Bolton and Lake Charles, Class AA teams, belong to the south Louisiana conference.

LAIN HURT AS RICE BEATS TEXAS, 13-6

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Rice institute opened its conference play with a 13-6 victory over the University of Texas today, scoring the winning touchdown in the last two and a half minutes of play.

A long pass from midfield by Billy Cline, sub back, to Ollie Cordill gave Rice the ball on the Texas 23 in the last quarter. Doug Sullivan scored three plays later.

Texas scored first on a pass, Wallace Lawson to Lewis Gray, from the 30-yard stripe. Rice scored in the second quarter on a pass, Ernie Lain to Cordill, from the 20.

Lain was forced out of the game a minute later and went to the hospital with a badly injured ankle.

FORDHAM BURIES OREGON, 26 TO 0

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A powerful Fordham football team wiped out all doubt concerning scoring ability today by burying Oregon's heavier Webfoots under a 26-0 score.

The Rams sent Pete (Rabbit) Holovak sprinting off tackle for 80 yards and their opening score.

Fordham split its four touchdowns among as many ball carriers—Holovak, Sophomore Len Eshmont, key man in a 64-yard drive split over the third and fourth quarters; Bob Principe, hard-hitting fullback who walked through from the Oregon one-yard line, and Mike Hearn, who went over for the final touchdown from the 13-yard line.

PITT WALLOPS S. M. U. TO STAY OUT IN FRONT

Notre Dame, T. C. U., Dartmouth, Oklahoma And Duke Match Pace Of Panthers

By Herbert W. Barker

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Pitt's Golden Panthers, No. 1 team in last week's Associated Press poll, gave another awesome demonstration of all-around power and skill today as Syracuse, Georgia and Carnegie Tech fell off the unbeaten band-wagon.

In a day conspicuously free of major surprises, Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Dartmouth, Oklahoma, Duke and half a dozen others kept pace with Pitt in the dizzy dash for national championship recognition.

Pitt, mixing its powerful running attack with effective passing, buried the Mustangs of Southern Methodist, 34-7, before 37,000. Notre Dame, blocked for three periods by Carnegie Tech's rugged defense, finally pushed over a touchdown in the fourth for a 7-0 triumph.

Texas Christian, heirs-apparent to the Southwest conference throne, toppled Marquette, 21-0, as Dartmouth overcame stubborn Harvard, 13-7. Oklahoma twice pierced Nebraska's defense and won a 14-0 Big Six triumph as Duke was held to a 7-0 score by Wake Forest.

Syracuse's first defeat was a 19-12 setback by Michigan State's speedy Spartas while Georgia, previously unbeaten, was soundly trounced by Holy Cross, 29-6.

Fordham and Colgate upheld eastern prestige in intersectional warfare as the Rams, boasting a scoring punch for the first time in years, buried Oregon under a 26-0 score and Colgate traveled west to shellack Iowa, 14-0. On the other side of the ledger, Michigan spotted Yale a 13-2 half-time lead and then won, 15-13.

In the east, Lafayette's 7-6 victory over New York university was the only surprise as Cornell tripped Penn State, 21-7; Georgetown topped Manhattan, 14-13; Penn nosed out Columbia, 14-13; Navy and Princeton tied at 13-13; Army routed Boston university, 40-0, and Amherst won the first "Little Three" game from Wesleyan, 13-0. Brown and Rhode Island State scored 61 points as the former earned a 40-21 decision.

TULANE BREEZES TO VICTORY OVER MERCER, 51 TO 0

Best Run Of Game Turned In By Bob Kellogg, Former Center Star

By Ed Desobry

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Tulane university's Green Wave, gaining power each Saturday, turned loose its endless array of backfield stars before 15,000 spectators today to swamp Mercer, 51 to 0.

Mercer could not cope with the Greenie forward wall, led by Captain Ray Miller, stellar tackle, and most of the time found its offense shattered before it could get started.

Tulane uncovered a new star in Bob Kellogg, a fast shifty half who was one of the nation's top scorers last year at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university.

Kellogg, in the game only a few minutes in the second and third periods, turned in the best run of the day when he stepped 27 yards to the Mercer 10 and then slithered through for a score. He has not played much this year because of a practice session injury.

The great Warren Brunner, as usual, was almost unstoppable on off tackle and end runs and sparked most of the touchdowns made while he was in the lineup. Harry Hays, Buddy Banker and Fred Cassibry, halfbacks, again shone with their long runs.

Mercer's only gains, a few 10 yard runs, were made by Bill Howland, Roscoe Cline and James Landrum. Henry Lawrence, end, and Al Gerhardt were the best in the line.

The visitors threatened mildly only twice, once in the first period when runs by Howland and Landrum and a penalty gave them three successive first downs to midfield and again in the third when a punt touched Buddy Banker and Robert Alley, Mercer end, recovered it on the Tulane 10. Four times Tulane pushed Mercer back and took the ball on the 36.

STATE NORMAL RALLIES TO DEFEAT TECH, 7-6

DEMONS OUTPLAY BULLDOGS AFTER BEING SCORED ON

Point-After-Tally Victory Gained In Last Five Minutes Of Play

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A 10-yard goal line pass in the final five minutes of play gave the Louisiana Normal Demons a 7 to 6 win over the Louisiana Polytech Bulldogs of Ruston here today at the Louisiana state fair.

After they had trailed the Bulldogs from the first five minutes of the first quarter, State Normal pushed down to the ten-yard stripe in the last five minutes of the fourth period and on the fourth down Nurell passed to Migues in the end zone for a score. Ledet kicked the extra point.

Louisiana Tech scored from the five-yard line after the Bulldogs had completed a 15-yard pass. In trying to knock down this pass Wiggins of Normal batted the ball into the hands of Sumrall, Louisiana Tech end. On two more plays the Bulldogs scored, Westbrook circling end from the five-yard stripe.

After being scored on, and turning back another threat in the first quarter, the Demons outplayed the Bulldogs for the remainder of the battle, keeping the ball in the enemy territory practically all the afternoon. The boys from Natchitoches made several touchdown threats in the second and third periods but a stubborn defense checked them near pay dirt.

The Demons were checked on the five-yard line in the fourth quarter, about three minutes before they finally scored. With Murrell doing the passing the Demons came back and marched down to the ten-yard stripe. Murrell fired three passes before he completed the one to Migues that scored.

LOYOLA DEFEATS DE PAUL, 13 TO 0

Long Runs, One In First Period And Other In Last, Result In Tallies

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Long runs, one in the first five minutes of play and another in the final period, gave Loyola of New Orleans a 13 to 0 intersectional football triumph over De Paul today.

The first touchdown resulted from Joe Fracchia's 57-yard sprint off tackle. The second came on a 34-yard dash by Joe Miranne, substitute for Halfback Koehl, after a desperate De Paul aerial attack in its own territory had failed. Antonini, sub for Bordes, passed to McCann for the extra point.

Loyola's fast charging line held De Paul in check except for one thrust that reached the Southerners' 20 yard line in the third quarter. Ed Norris passed 35 yards to Don Johnson to set up the Chicago team's best scoring opportunity, but on the next play Bordes intercepted Bill Corrigan's pass.

It was Loyola's fourth victory in five starts this season and squared accounts for last year's 18 to 7 loss to De Paul.

The lineups:

Loyola (13)	Pos.	De Paul (0)
McCann	LE	Naughton
Buhler	LT	Roberts
Hable	LG	Patek

GENTS BATTERED IN BATTLE WITH REBELS, 47 TO 14

Ole Miss Strength At Peak In Final Quarter; Four Tallies Made

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A homecoming crowd of 8,000 saw the University of Mississippi Rebels stage their most powerful offensive thrusts of the season today to batter a highly rated Centenary team to a 47-14 defeat.

The Ole Miss strength reached its peak in the final period, when the Rebels galloped four times across the Gents' goal line.

Harry Mehre's charges scored first after Frank Hart recovered a fumble on the Centenary seven-yard mark. Whittington, sub for Massengale, went to the one-foot line and Hall drove over. A drive down the field earned another first period touchdown for the Rebels.

The Gentlemen showed best in the second period, when Weenie Bynum, Centenary triple-threater, led a running and passing attack that netted two touchdowns and a 14-13 lead at the end of the half.

Ole Miss made its strongest sustained drive early in the third period as Parker Hall, Jimmie Tillman and John Whittington led a 70-yard scoring march.

On the first play of the final quarter, Parker Hall crashed through left tackle, reversed his field and dashed 60 yards to add another Mississippi marker.

After this the Gents had little opposition to offer, and threatened only with a few passing attempts deep in their own territory.

One of these heaves fell into the hands of Winkey Autrey, Ole Miss center, who ran across the goal line unmolested.

Bynum of Centenary, receiving the kickoff on his 5, was spilled on the 15, and in three plays the Gentlemen were pushed back to their two-yard line. A feeble punt left Ole Miss in scoring position and Whittington took the ball over in one play.

The Rebels' second team then went in, and led by Willard Bisbing, put across another touchdown before the final gun.

The lineups:

Centenary	Pos.	Mississippi
Ouzts	LE	Blackwell
Jones	LT	Hart
Bradley	LG	Kinard
Rawlinson	C	Autrey
Mayeaux	RG	Lyles
Vinson	RT	Dossett
Olzack	RE	Murphy

Bynum	LH	Hall
Manson	RH	Massengale
Birkelbach	FB	Tillman

Centenary	0	14	0	0	—14
Mississippi	13	0	6	28	—47

Centenary scoring: Touchdowns, Whitehurst 2 (sub for Birkelbach); points after touchdown, Birkelbach (placement) and Barnes (sub for Bynum), placement.

Mississippi scoring: Touchdowns, Hall 3, Whittington 2 (sub for Massengale), Autrey, Bisbing (sub for Hall); points after touchdown, Hall, Smith 2 (sub for Massengale), Bisbing 2 (all placements).

Officials: Referee, Thomason, Georgia; umpire, Sanders, Texas A. and M.; headlinesman, Severence, Oberlin; field judge, Bagley, Washington and Lee.

PITT TRAMPLES S. M. U., 34 TO 7

Passing Battle At Pittsburgh Leaves 37,500 Spectators Gasping

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Pitt's football juggernaut, unbeaten in 21 games, swept over Southern Methodist 34 to 7 today in a passing battle which left the 37,500 spectators gasping.

The first of the five Pitt touchdowns came on a 30-yard pass from Harold (Curly) Stebbins to John Chickerneo in less than six minutes of the first period and the others were scattered through each of the succeeding chapters.

Taking the opening kickoff, Ray Mallouf tried three consecutive passes from the vicinity of his own 20-yard line. After Pitt's first score he brought the second kickoff back 56 yards to Pitt's 39 and engineered the ball to the Panther eight, where a field goal attempt went wide.

The Methodists cashed their chips early in the second period—traveling 78 yards in three plays with Billy Dewell, their towering right end, taking the ball out of a mixing bowl behind center to race the final 51 yards.

Pitt's second team came out and the regulars retaliated with two touchdowns in less than seven minutes.

Including the kickoff, which Dick Cassiano returned 35 yards to his own 40, Pitt used only three plays to reach Southern Methodist's seven and Cassiano crashed tackle for the score.

Three plays later they took the ball on a fumble on the Methodist 31 and sent Cassiano around end from the nine for another touchdown.

Pitt punched out two more scores in the second half, Cassiano passing 22 yards to Fabian Hoffman for one in the third period and Ben Kish went one yard over center for another in the fourth.

Six White Sox Hit Better Than .300 During Season

Manager Taitt Tops Club With .358; Rhea Leads All Base Stealers

The Monroe White Sox, 1938 Cotton States league champions, wound up the season with six players hitting .300 or more, according to final and official averages released by league headquarters yesterday.

The six members of the White Sox squad who reached the charmed circle were: Manager Doug Taitt, .358; Glenn Murray, .324; Pete Medak, .324; Beauford Rhea, .312; Hank Taylor, .303, and Frank Hackney, .301.

Besides hitting .301, Hackney, Sox second sacker, led the league in two-base hits with 38 and was second in runs batted in with 108. Orice Powers of El Dorado led this department of play by driving in 111 runs.

Beauford Rhea held the lead in stolen bases by a wide margin with 79. Woodie Tone of El Dorado was Rhea's nearest competitor with 49 pilfered sacks. Johnny Conway, Monroe shortstop, while failing to hit .300, led all rival shortstops in every department of play. He made more putouts, more assists, committed more errors and took part in more double plays than any shortstop in the Cotton States loop during the 1938 campaign.

Averages also reveal that Guy "Red" Pruitt of the championship Monroe club was the best fielding third baseman in the league with a percentage of .940. Greenville, who finished the regular schedule in first place, led in both team batting and team fielding, while Monroe was second in both departments. The White Sox proved to be the fastest team in the league with 174 stolen bases. El Dorado was second with 137.

The averages as a whole reveal the great job turned in by Manager "Poco" Taitt after he took charge of the team. When Ta assumed the managership early in June the White Sox were just about last in everything.

Th team averages and the .300 hitters, plus members of the White Sox squad who hit less than .300, and the leading pitchers follow:

SCULLY BETS LA GUARDIA ON FORDHAM-PITT GAME

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mayor Cornelius D. Scully, whose plans to entertain Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia here for the World Series were upset by Chicago's Cubs, today telegraphed an offer to wager the New York City chief executive on the outcome of next week's Fordham-Pitt football game.

"A bushel of apples from my farm against a spaghetti dinner cooked by you the Panthers beat the Rams," stated Scully, including an invitation to LaGuardia to be his guest at the game.

Mayor LaGuardia won a hog from Mayor Kelly of Chicago on the outcome of the World's Series.

GRID INJURIES FATAL

NAMPA, Idaho, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Koichi Koyama, Nampa High school's Japanese quarterback, died today of injuries received in the Nampa-Burley football game last night. Physicians said X-rays showed the second vertebrae had slipped, bringing pressure on the spinal cord.

Canada produces about 4,000,000,000 cigarets annually.

BULL LEA IS WINNER OF ADDED AUTUMN HANDICAP

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Calumet farms' Bull Lea, odds-on favorite and top weight of the field, won the $5,000-added Autumn Handicap by five lengths in near-record time at Narragansett Park today.

Chasing him past the judges at the finish of the mile and one sixteenth was Felix Spatola's Wise Prince, which had half a length on A. Sprow's Bow and Arrow.

The winner paid $3.30, $2.60 and $2.30 and earned $4,450 for his owner.

LONE TOUCHDOWN SCORED BY IRISH THIRD STRINGERS

Outweighed And Outmanned, Scots Wage Heroic Fight Three Periods

By Charles Dunkley

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Notre Dame, off on another drive for national "championship" honors, relegated Carnegie Tech to the ranks of defeated football teams today in the most bruising encounter the fighting Irish have had this season.

Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, only after a savagely fought game that kept the crowd of 25,000 in an uproar. Third string players accomplished what the regulars failed to do.

Outweighed and outmanned, the Scots waged a heroic battle for three furious periods to outplay Notre Dame.

The fourth period opened with Tech making first down on its own 38, but failing then, and Notre Dame taking the ball on downs on the Tech 46 yard line. Referee John Gettchel told the invaders' quarterback that it was third down then reversed himself. The protest of the Scots was of no avail.

Milton Piepul, third string Notre Dame fullback, set off a scoring charge with an 18-yard smash through center to Tech's 18.

Sheridan slashed through left guard to reach the Scot 10 yard line where he fumbled. The ball bounced forward and Willie Kerr, sub end, pounced upon it on the seven yard stripe. On the next play Kerr, on an end around, received the ball and dashed over the Carnegie goal line. Morrison, another third stringer, added the extra point with a perfect boot.

That was Notre Dame's one and only scoring chance. For the previous periods Carnegie repulsed Notre Dame's running attack with vicious tackles. Notre Dame relied on power and drive all the way and heaved only one forward pass.

Carnegie Tech, chalking up six first downs to four for Notre Dame, was in scoring position twice. In the opening period, Reith, a Tech guard, pounced on the ball when Simonich fumbled on the Notre Dame 19. The invaders failed on three running plays and also on Condit's attempt to score on a pass to Striegel.

Carnegie missed a second scoring chance in the third, when Simonich again fumbled on Notre Dame's 43. He was charged so viciously that the ball rolled off his hands as he lay unconscious. Carnelly heaved a 14 yard pass to Condit, who was downed on Notre Dame's 24. The Techs' backs gained six yards on two smashes and then Carnelly went to the air only to have the Irish knock a pass down.

CHOCTAWS WALLOP PETRELS, 33 TO 6

CLINTON, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mississippi college scored four times in the final period today to clinch a victory over an outclassed Oglethorpe team, 33 to 6.

The Petrels from Atlanta, Ga., gamely held back the Choctaws during the first half, except for a quick touchdown pass just after the game opened, and held their ground in the third period.

In the final quarter the Choctaws offensive began to click, with dazzling passing and running plays turned in by Charles Armstrong, sophomore fullback, who scored two touchdowns. Forkner, Schwabe and Maman led Oglethorpe in drives toward the Mississippi college goal stripe, and Forkner scored the Petrel touchdown [illegible] in the fourth period on a 71-yard run down the sidelines.

The Chocs made seven first downs to three for the Georgians, and completed seven out of 23 passing attempts for 158 yards. Oglethorpe failed in five pass attempts. Mississippi college gained 165 yards from scrimmage to 62 for the Petrels. Each team was penalized a total of 20 yards.

URGED TO GET TICKETS BEFORE TRIP TO GAME

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Louisana State university followers who plan to go to Knoxville, Tenn., for the Tennessee game were urged today by T. P. Heard, athletic director, to get their tickets before leaving.

"It is my understanding that by Saturday of next week the game will be a complete sellout," Heard said. "We will have no tickets ourselves to sell at Knoxville so I especially urge all L. S. U. followers to have their tickets before they leave for the game."

DELTA STATE BEATS ALABAMA TEACHERS

CLEVELAND, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Sophomore Charlie "Hoss" Barber crashed seven yards to a touchdown in the last five minutes of play today to give Delta State Teachers college a 6 to 0 victory over Alabama State Teachers college.

Barber's tally followed three dashes by Preston Shows who advanced the ball to scoring position from the Alabama 40-yard line. The team from Troy threatened in the final two minutes as a desperate passing attack carried them from their own 20 to the Statesmen's 22. Sherill Busby shone for the Trojans. A homecoming crowd of 1,000 saw the game.

RUSTON FAVORED TO BEAT NEVILLE

Both Teams Undefeated In Class A; Bearcats Have Better Record

The Tigers of Neville High school, after repeated setbacks by non-conference foes, will pin their Class A championship hopes on the outcome of next Friday's engagement with the strong Ruston Bearcats at Ruston. Neither eleven has been beaten in their division, but the Bearcats have been turning in some impressive work and will be favored to eliminate the Bengals from the title race.

In addition to having an important bearing on the Class A conference race, the battle will also be the "rubber game" of Bengal-Bearcat rivalry. In the past nine seasons, since the city school system had put out elevens independent of the parish system, the Tigers have won four games and lost four to Ruston. One game, in 1936, resulted in a 6-to-6 tie.

The Bearcats have always been a tough team for the Tigers to beat, although the Bengals have had the better of the going in the past four years, but Ruston has its most powerful team in years available this season and are touted to win.

Some Bearcat performances this year have included the holding of Haynesville's Golden Tornado, which swamped Neville Thursday night, to a 6-to-0 victory, playing the defending Class A championship Homer aggregation to a 7-to-7 tie, holding the strong Class AA Fair Park Indians to a scoreless tie, and the trimming of Arcadia's defending northwest Louisiana Class B champions, 14 to 0.

The difference in scores of their respective games with Haynesville rates the Bearcats over the Tigers who bowed to the Tornado, 32 to 7.

But the Tigers, who entered the Haynesville game in a crippled condition with two regulars out of the backfield and a pair of ailing linemen, expect to be in better shape to engage Ruston, Bilbo Duke, jinxed by injuries all season, and "Red" Rivers, who was hurt a week ago, hope to be in better shape and prepared to take over their halfback posts. Hurlan Beaumann, slowed down with malaria the past week, and Ben Downing, who has been nursing a foot injury, expect to be better able to care for their end and tackle positions Friday.

But it is likely that Neville will have to depend almost entirely on the punting, passing and running of Vaughan Payne, quarterback, for offensive power. Payne's running, however, has been hampered by lack of sufficiently effective blocking, his punts are average, and his passing is outstanding. Although Neville's passing attack has not been usually effective, it is no fault of Payne's. The Tiger field general is exceptionally accurate with his bullet passes, but his receivers have been guilty of dropping tosses that should have been completed.

The game with Ruston will be Neville's second conference game of the season, the locals having stopped Bastrop, 27 to 12, in their Class A opener.

MUSICAL MUDCATS PLAY EVERYTHING EXCEPTING FLOOR

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Pull up chairs, boys, and listen to the story of how Ole Pepper Martin and his Musical Mudcats of National Baseball league fame got "stage struck" and hit into six weeks in vaudeville.

Martin's 'Cats—with James "The Ripper" Collins, Bill McGee, Bob Weiland and Stanley "Frenchy" Bordagaray—made their stage debut at a theater here.

The boys brought what they said was music from "git-tars," washboards, castoff automobile horns, whistles—in fact, they played on nearly everything but the floor.

The Mudcats came into national prominence a few years back when the St. Looey Gashouse Gang was cleaning up in the senior circuit.

For their stage premiere, the gang had to call on the Chicago Cubs for First Baseman Collins to do "straight stuff."

The spotlight is thrown on "The Ripper," who introduces Pepper and the rest of the band. They pull some gags, too.

"Say, Rip," one of them asks, "what was your greatest World Series thrill?"

"Why," Collins replies, "I got my greatest thrill today."

"Today. How come?"

"I just got my check," Rip replies.

The band is booked for five weeks after a week's stand here.

"I don't believe we'll be able to stand any more than that," Pepper said.

VOLS OUTCLASS CITADEL, 44 TO 0

Tennessee Uses Veterans Only Short Time; Neyland Drills Them After Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee's undefeated powerful one toyed with The Citadel today to win a listless football game 44 to 0 before 9,000 spectators.

Major Bob Neyland used his varsity about five minutes in the second quarter and, apparently deciding they hadn't worked up a good sweat, kept his first and second strings sloshing out on the field for a signal drill long after the smoke of the battle had cleared.

The Vols got off to a slow start, but once they hit their stride they ran the Cadets ragged. Only one touchdown was registered in the first quarter, Fullback Joe Wallen plunging over after a march from The Citadel's 40-yard stripe.

At the start of the second period, Tennessee's great George Cafego and the varsity took the field and scored in four plays. Cafego in

DEMONS OUTPLAY BULLDOGS AFTER BEING SCORED ON

Point-After-Tally Victory Gained In Last Five Minutes Of Play

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A 10-yard goal line pass in the final five minutes of play gave the Louisiana Normal Demons a 7 to 6 win over the Louisiana Polytech Bulldogs of Ruston here today at the Louisiana state fair.

After they had trailed the Bulldogs from the first five minutes of the first quarter, State Normal pushed down to the ten-yard stripe in the last five minutes of the fourth period and on the fourth down Nurell passed to Migues in the end zone for a score. Ledet kicked the extra point.

Louisiana Tech scored from the five-yard line after the Bulldogs had completed a 15-yard pass. In trying to knock down this pass Wiggins of Normal batted the ball into the hands of Sumrall, Louisiana Tech end. On two more plays the Bulldogs scored, Westbrook circling end from the five-yard stripe.

After being scored on, and turning back another threat in the first quarter, the Demons outplayed the Bulldogs for the remainder of the battle, keeping the ball in the enemy territory practically all the afternoon. The boys from Natchitoches made several touchdown threats in the second and third periods but a stubborn defense checked them near pay dirt.

The Demons were checked on the five-yard line in the fourth quarter, about three minutes before they finally scored. With Murrell doing the passing the Demons came back and marched down to the ten-yard stripe. Murrell fired three passes before he completed the one to Migues that scored.

The lineups:

La. Tech	Pos.	La. Normal
Sumrall	LE	Perkins

LOYOLA DEFEATS DE PAUL, 13 TO 0

Long Runs, One In First Period And Other In Last, Result In Tallies

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Long runs, one in the first five minutes of play and another in the final period, gave Loyola of New Orleans a 13 to 0 intersectional football triumph over De Paul today.

The first touchdown resulted from Joe Fracchia's 57-yard sprint off tackle. The second came on a 34-yard dash by Joe Miranne, substitute for Halfback Koehl, after a desperate De Paul aerial attack in its own territory had failed. Antonini, sub for Bordes, passed to McCann for the extra point.

Loyola's fast charging line held De Paul in check except for one thrust that reached the Southerners' 20 yard line in the third quarter. Ed Norris passed 35 yards to Don Johnson to set up the Chicago team's best scoring opportunity, but on the next play Bordes intercepted Bill Corrigan's pass.

It was Loyola's fourth victory in five starts this season and squared accounts for last year's 18 to 7 loss to De Paul.

The lineups:

Loyola (13)	Pos.	De Paul (0)
McCann	LE	Naughton
Buhler	LT	Roberts
Hable	LG	Patek
Martinez	C	O'Donnell
Faucheux	RG	Jenks
Vala	RT	McInerny

Notre Dame Wins Savage Battle With Carnegie Tech

GENTS BATTERED IN BATTLE WITH REBELS, 47 TO 14

Ole Miss Strength At Peak In Final Quarter; Four Tallies Made

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A homecoming crowd of 8,000 saw the University of Mississippi Rebels stage their most powerful offensive thrusts of the season today to batter a highly rated Centenary team to a 47-14 defeat.

The Ole Miss strength reached its peak in the final period, when the Rebels galloped four times across the Gents' goal line.

Harry Mehre's charges scored first after Frank Hart recovered a fumble on the Centenary seven-yard mark. Whittington, sub for Massengale, went to the one-foot line and Hall drove over. A drive down the field earned another first period touchdown for the Rebels.

The Gentlemen showed best in the second period, when Weenie Bynum, Centenary triple-threater, led a running and passing attack that netted two touchdowns and a 14-13 lead at the end of the half.

Ole Miss made its strongest sustained drive early in the third period as Parker Hall, Jimmie Tillman and John Whittington led a 70-yard scoring march.

On the first play of the final quarter, Parker Hall crashed through left tackle, reversed his field and dashed 60 yards to add another Mississippi marker.

After this the Gents had little opposition to offer, and threatened only with a few passing attempts deep in their own territory.

One of these heaves fell into the hands of Winkey Autrey, Ole Miss center, who ran across the goal line unmolested.

Bynum of Centenary, receiving the kickoff on his 5, was spilled on the 15, and in three plays the Gentlemen were pushed back to their two-yard line. A feeble punt left Ole Miss in scoring position and Whittington took the ball over in one play.

The Rebels' second team then went in, and led by Willard Bisbing, put across another touchdown before the final gun.

The lineups:

Centenary	Pos.	Mississippi
Ouzts	LE	Blackwell
Jones	LT	Hart
Bradley	LG	Kinard
Rawlinson	C	Autrey
Mayeaux	RG	Lyles
Vinson	RT	Dossett
Olzack	RE	Murphy

Bynum	LH	Hall
Manson	RH	Massengale
Birkelbach	FB	Tillman

Centenary	0	14	0	0	—14
Mississippi	13	0	6	28	—47

Centenary scoring: Touchdowns, Whitehurst 2 (sub for Birkelbach); points after touchdown, Birkelbach (placement) and Barnes (sub for Bynum), placement.

Mississippi scoring: Touchdowns, Hall 3, Whittington 2 (sub for Massengale), Autrey, Bisbing (sub for Hall); points after touchdown, Hall, Smith 2 (sub for Massengale), Bisbing 2 (all placements).

Officals: Referee, Thomason, Georgia; umpire, Sanders, Texas A. and M.; headlinesman, Severence, Oberlin; field judge, Bagley, Washington and Lee.

PITT TRAMPLES S. M. U., 34 TO 7

Passing Battle At Pittsburgh Leaves 37,500 Spectators Gasping

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Pitt's football juggernaut, unbeaten in 21 games, swept over Southern Methodist 34 to 7 today in a passing battle which left the 37,500 spectators gasping.

The first of the five Pitt touchdowns came on a 30-yard pass from Harold (Curly) Stebbins to John Chickerneo in less than six minutes of the first period and the others were scattered through each of the succeeding chapters.

Taking the opening kickoff, Ray Mallouf tried three consecutive passes from the vicinity of his own 20-yard line. After Pitt's first score he brought the second kickoff back 56 yards to Pitt's 39 and engineered the ball to the Panther eight, where a field goal attempt went wide.

The Methodists cashed their chips early in the second period—traveling 78 yards in three plays with Billy Dewell, their towering right end, taking the ball out of a mixing bowl behind center to race the final 51 yards.

Pitt's second team came out and the regulars retaliated with two touchdowns in less than seven minutes.

Including the kickoff, which Dick Cassiano returned 35 yards to his own 40, Pitt used only three plays to reach Southern Methodist's seven and Cassiano crashed tackle for the score.

Three plays later they took the ball on a fumble on the Methodist 31 and sent Cassiano around end from the nine for another touchdown.

Pitt punched out two more scores in the second half, Cassiano passing 22 yards to Fabian Hoffman for one in the third period and Ben Kish went one yard over center for another in the fourth.

Six White Sox Hit Better Than .300 During Season

Manager Taitt Tops Club With .358; Rhea Leads All Base Stealers

The Monroe White Sox, 1938 Cotton States league champions, wound up the season with six players hitting .300 or more, according to final and official averages released by league headquarters yesterday.

The six members of the White Sox squad who reached the charmed circle were: Manager Doug Taitt, .358; Glenn Murray, .324; Pete Medak, .324; Beauford Rhea, .312; Hank Taylor, .303, and Frank Hackney, .301.

Besides hitting .301, Hackney, Sox second sacker, led the league in two-base hits with 38 and was second in runs batted in with 108. Orice Powers of El Dorado led this department of play by driving in 111 runs.

Beauford Rhea held the lead in stolen bases by a wide margin with 79. Woodie Tone of El Dorado was Rhea's nearest competitor with 49 pilfered sacks. Johnny Conway, Monroe shortstop, while failing to hit .300, led all rival shortstops in every department of play. He made more putouts, more assists, committed more errors and took part in more double plays than any shortstop in the Cotton States loop during the 1938 campaign.

Averages also reveal that Guy "Red" Pruitt of the championship Monroe club was the best fielding third baseman in the league with a percentage of .940. Greenville, who finished the regular schedule in first place, led in both team batting and team fielding, while Monroe was second in both departments. The White Sox proved to be the fastest team in the league with 174 stolen bases. El Dorado was second with 137.

The averages as a whole reveal the great job turned in by Manager "Poco" Taitt after he took charge of the team. When Ta assumed the managership early in June the White Sox were just about last in everything.

Th team averages and the .300 hitters, plus members of the White Sox squad who hit less than .300, and the leading pitchers follow:

SCULLY BETS LA GUARDIA ON FORDHAM-PITT GAME

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mayor Cornelius D. Scully, whose plans to entertain Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia here for the World Series were upset by Chicago's Cubs, today telegraphed an offer to wager the New York City chief executive on the outcome of next week's Fordham-Pitt football game.

"A bushel of apples from my farm against a spaghetti dinner cooked by you the Panthers beat the Rams," stated Scully, including an invitation to LaGuardia to be his guest at the game.

Mayor LaGuardia won a hog from Mayor Kelly of Chicago on the outcome of the World's Series.

GRID INJURIES FATAL

NAMPA, Idaho, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Koichi Koyama, Nampa High school's Japanese quarterback, died today of injuries received in the Nampa-Burley football game last night. Physicians said X-rays showed the second vertebrae had slipped, bringing pressure on the spinal cord.

Canada produces about 4,000,000,000 cigarets annually.

BULL LEA IS WINNER OF ADDED AUTUMN HANDICAP

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Calumet farms' Bull Lea, odds-on favorite and top weight of the field, won the $5,000-added Autumn Handicap by five lengths in near-record time at Narragansett Park today.

Chasing him past the judges at the finish of the mile and one sixteenth was Felix Spatola's Wise Prince, which had half a length on A. Sprow's Bow and Arrow.

The winner paid $3.30, $2.60 and $2.30 and earned $4,450 for his owner.

LONE TOUCHDOWN SCORED BY IRISH THIRD STRINGERS

Outweighed And Outmanned, Scots Wage Heroic Fight Three Periods

By Charles Dunkley

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Notre Dame, off on another drive for national "championship" honors, relegated Carnegie Tech to the ranks of defeated football teams today in the most bruising encounter the fighting Irish have had this season.

Notre Dame won, 7 to 0, only after a savagely fought game that kept the crowd of 25,000 in an uproar. Third string players accomplished what the regulars failed to do.

Outweighed and outmanned, the Scots waged a heroic battle for three furious periods to outplay Notre Dame.

The fourth period opened with Tech making first down on its own 38, but failing then, and Notre Dame taking the ball on downs on the Tech 46 yard line. Referee John Gettchel told the invaders' quarterback that it was third down then reversed himself. The protest of the Scots was of no avail.

Milton Piepul, third string Notre Dame fullback, set off a scoring charge with an 18-yard smash through center to Tech's 18.

Sheridan slashed through left guard to reach the Scot 10 yard line where he fumbled. The ball bounced forward and Willie Kerr, sub end, pounced upon it on the seven yard stripe. On the next play Kerr, on an end around, received the ball and dashed over the Carnegie goal line. Morrison, another third stringer, added the extra point with a perfect boot.

That was Notre Dame's one and only scoring chance. For the previous periods Carnegie repulsed Notre Dame's running attack with vicious tackles. Notre Dame relied on power and drive all the way and heaved only one forward pass.

Carnegie Tech, chalking up six first downs to four for Notre Dame, was in scoring position twice. In the opening period, Reith, a Tech guard, pounced on the ball when Simonich fumbled on the Notre Dame 19. The invaders failed on three running plays and also on Condit's attempt to score on a pass to Striegel.

Carnegie missed a second scoring chance in the third, when Simonich again fumbled on Notre Dame's 43. He was charged so viciously that the ball rolled off his hands as he lay unconscious. Carnelly heaved a 14 yard pass to Condit, who was downed on Notre Dame's 24. The Techs' backs gained six yards on two smashes and then Carnelly went to the air only to have the Irish knock a pass down.

The lineups:

Carnegie Tech	Pos.	Notre Dame
Striegel	LE	Brown
Bobru	LT	Bienor
Dominy	LG	McGoldrick
Schmidt	C	Longhi
Reith	RG	Bossu
Campbell	RT	Keil
Fisher	RE	J. Kelly
Carnelly	QB	Sitko
Condit	LH	Stevenson
Muha	RH	Zontini
Ingalls	FB	Tonelli

Score by periods:

Notre Dame	0	0	0	7	7—7

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdown—Kerr. Point after touchdown—Morrison (place-kick).

Referee: John Getchell, St. Thomas; umpire, R. W. Finsterwald, Syracuse; head linesman, J. J. Lipp, Chicago; field judge, Dick Miller, Indianapolis.

CHOCTAWS WALLOP PETRELS, 33 TO 6

CLINTON, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mississippi college scored four times in the final period today to clinch a victory over an outclassed Oglethorpe team, 33 to 6.

The Petrels from Atlanta, Ga., gamely held back the Choctaws during the first half, except for a quick touchdown pass just after the game opened, and held their ground in the third period.

In the final quarter the Choctaws offensive began to click, with dazzling passing and running plays turned in by Charles Armstrong, sophomore fullback, who scored two touchdowns.

Forkner, Schwabe and Maman led Oglethorpe in drives toward the Mississippi college goal stripe, and Forkner scored the Petrel touchdown late in the fourth period on a 71-yard run down the sidelines.

The Chocs made seven first downs to three for the Georgians, and completed seven out of 23 passing attempts for 158 yards. Oglethorpe failed in five pass attempts. Mississippi college gained 155 yards from scrimmage to 62 for the Petrels. Each team was penalized a total of 20 yards.

URGED TO GET TICKETS BEFORE TRIP TO GAME

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Louisiana State university followers who plan to go to Knoxville, Tenn., for the Tennessee game were urged today by T. P. Heard, athletic director, to get their tickets before leaving.

"It is my understanding that by Saturday of next week the game will be a complete sellout," Heard said. "We will have no tickets ourselves to sell at Knoxville so I especially urge all L. S. U. followers to have their tickets before they leave for the game."

DELTA STATE BEATS ALABAMA TEACHERS

CLEVELAND, Miss., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Sophomore Charlie "Hoss" Barber crashed seven yards to a touchdown in the last five minutes of play today to give Delta State Teachers college a 6 to 0 victory over Alabama State Teachers college.

Barber's tally followed three dashes by Preston Shows, who advanced the ball to scoring position from the Alabama 40-yard line. The team from Troy threatened in the final two minutes as a desperate passing attack carried them from their own 20 to the Statesmen's 22. Sherill Busby shone for the Trojans. A homecoming crowd of 1,000 saw the game.

RUSTON FAVORED TO BEAT NEVILLE

Both Teams Undefeated In Class A; Bearcats Have Better Record

The Tigers of Neville High school, after repeated setbacks by non-conference foes, will pin their Class A championship hopes on the outcome of next Friday's engagement with the strong Ruston Bearcats at Ruston. Neither eleven has been beaten in their division, but the Bearcats have been turning in some impressive work and will be favored to eliminate the Bengals from the title race.

In addition to having an important bearing on the Class A conference race, the battle will also be the "rubber game" of Bengal-Bearcat rivalry. In the past nine seasons, since the city school system had put out elevens independent of the parish system, the Tigers have won four games and lost four to Ruston. One game, in 1936, resulted in a 6-to-6 tie.

The Bearcats have always been a tough team for the Tigers to beat, although the Bengals have had the better of the going in the past four years, but Ruston has its most powerful team in years available this season and are touted to win.

Some Bearcat performances this year have included the holding of Haynesville's Golden Tornado, which swamped Neville Thursday night, to a 6-to-0 victory, playing the defending Class A championship Homer aggregation to a 7-to-7 tie, holding the strong Class AA Fair Park Indians to a scoreless tie, and the trimming of Arcadia's defending northwest Louisiana Class B champions, 14 to 0.

The difference in scores of their respective games with Haynesville rates the Bearcats over the Tigers who bowed to the Tornado, 32 to 7.

But the Tigers, who entered the Haynesville game in a crippled condition with two regulars out of the backfield and a pair of ailing linemen, expect to be in better shape to engage Ruston. Bilbo Duke, jinxed by injuries all season, and "Red" Rivers, who was hurt a week ago, hope to be in better shape and prepared to take over their halfback posts. Hurlan Beaumann, slowed down with malaria the past week, and Ben Downing, who has been nursing a foot injury, expect to be better able to care for their end and tackle positions Friday.

But it is likely that Neville will have to depend almost entirely on the punting, passing and running of Vaughan Payne, quarterback, for offensive power. Payne's running, however, has been hampered by lack of sufficiently effective blocking, his punts are average, and his passing is outstanding. Although Neville's passing attack has not been usually effective, it is no fault of Payne's. The Tiger field general is exceptionally accurate with his bullet passes, but his receivers have been guilty of dropping tosses that should have been completed.

The game with Ruston will be Neville's second conference game of the season, the locals having stopped Bastrop, 27 to 12, in their Class A opener.

MUSICAL MUDCATS PLAY EVERYTHING EXCEPTING FLOOR

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Pull up chairs, boys, and listen to the story of how Ole Pepper Martin and his Musical Mudcats of National Baseball league fame got "stage struck" and hit into six weeks in vaudeville.

Martin's 'Cats—with James "The Ripper" Collins, Bill McGee, Bob Weiland and Stanley "Frenchy" Bordagaray—made their stage debut at a theater here.

The boys brought what they said was music from "git-tars," washboards, castoff automobile horns, whistles—in fact, they played on nearly everything but the floor.

The Mudcats came into national prominence a few years back when the St. Looey Gashouse Gang was cleaning up in the senior circuit.

For their stage premiere, the gang had to call on the Chicago Cubs for First Baseman Collins to do "straight stuff."

The spotlight is thrown on "The Ripper," who introduces Pepper and the rest of the band. They pull some gags, too.

"Say, Rip," one of them asks, "what was your greatest World Series thrill?"

"Why," Collins replies, "I got my greatest thrill today."

"Today. How come?"

"I just got my check," Rip replies.

The band is booked for five weeks after a week's stand here.

"I don't believe we'll be able to stand any more than that," Pepper said.

VOLS OUTCLASS CITADEL, 44 TO 0

Tennessee Uses Veterans Only Short Time; Neyland Drills Them After Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The University of Tennessee's undefeated powerhouse toyed with The Citadel today to win a listless football game 44 to 0 before 8,000 spectators.

Major Bob Neyland used his varsity about five minutes in the second quarter and, apparently deciding they hadn't worked up a good sweat, kept his first and second string elevens out on the field for a signal drill long after the smoke of the battle had cleared.

The Vols got off to a slow start, but once they hit their stride, they ran the Cadets ragged. Only one touchdown was registered in the first quarter, Fullback Joe Wallen plunging over after a march from The Citadel's 40-yard stripe.

At the start of the second period, Tennessee's great George Cafego and the varsity took the field and scored in four plays,

TIGERS BACK IN SOUTHEASTERN TITLE PICTURE

Tennessee Now Remains Only Undefeated Team In Conference

ATLANTA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Georgia Tech nosed out Auburn, its Southeastern conference rival, 7 to 6, today in the 42nd renewal of their gridiron feud, while the University of Georgia fell from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten and untied football teams by taking a 6-to-29 drubbing from Holy Cross in an intersectional game.

Louisiana State university strode back into the conference championship picture by toppling previously unbeaten Vanderbilt 7 to 0, tonight at Baton Rouge, driving to a touchdown with only six minutes left to play.

Tennessee now remains the only team undefeated in the conference.

A revived Florida team snapped into action and trounced the University of Tampa, 33 to 0, at Tampa.

Flashing speed and power, Holy Cross romped to touchdowns in each of the four periods before 24,000 spectators at Worcester, Mass.

After Tech's Yellow Jackets scored on a pass in the second period, Auburn marched 80 yards to a touchdown in the final period, but was unable to convert the extra point to tie the game.

In other intersectional games, Mississippi State conquered Duquesne, 12 to 7, Friday, and Kentucky's Wildcats were smothered today by a strong Xavier college eleven at Cincinnati, 27 to 7.

Four conference powerhouses—Tennessee, Alabama, Tulane and the University of Mississippi—came through with crushing victories over lighter opponents.

Tennessee's Volunteers, who grabbed the conference spotlight last week with a 13 to 0 victory over Alabama's Crimson Tide, trounced The Citadel, Southern conference foe, 44 to 0, in a listless game at Knoxville. The Cadets got past midfield only twice.

Alabama had little trouble in turning back Sewanee, a conference opponent, 32 to 0. Tulane turned on its power and devastated Mercer university of Macon, Ga., 51 to 0, at New Orleans, while Ole Miss ran over Centenary's Gentlemen 47 to 14, at University, Miss., in the final half after the visitors led 14 to 13 at halftime.

ALABAMA TROUNCES SEWANEE, 32 TO 0

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A gallant band of Sewanee Tigers failed in their role of giant-killers today as Alabama overwhelmed them, 32 to 0, but their game first-half fight won them the plaudits of a partisan Alabama crowd of 5,000.

It was late in the third period before Alabama, upset 13-0 last week by Tennessee, could generate enough power to put across a second score, but the touchdowns came rapidly in the closing minutes as Sewanee's obviously tired eleven came to pieces.

Charley Boswell, substitute Alabama left halfback, ran for two touchdowns and tossed a perfect pass to Tut Warren for another.

Sewanee's attack was virtually nonexistent, although Cochrane completed several passes and once got his team beyond midfield by this method, gaining 4 yards for Sewanee's two first downs. Alabama made 18 first downs, gaining 34 yards running and 45 passing.

BAYLOR, A. AND M. PLAY TO 6-6 TIE

WACO, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Battered, unbeaten Baylor twice reared up on its one-foot line today to muzzle Texas A. and M. and escaped with a 6-6 tie.

Back from a sudden Baylor surge in the first five minutes that netted their score came a Cadet team to outrush and outplay Baylor, rolling up 290 yards from rushing to Baylor's 35 and earning 16 first downs to five.

W. J. Wimpee, who missed a perfect peg across the goal line, atoned for that mistake in the first period, jumping between two Aggie pass defenders to spear Patterson's throw from the 23-yard line for the Baylor score.

Two minutes before half-time the Aggies got their score. Todd started it with a 12-yard jaunt, Owen Rogers and John Kimbrough followed with smashes to the Baylor 23. Todd wiggled 22 yards to the one-yard stripe and Kimbrough went over. Todd's conversion attempt was blocked.

TROJANS TROUNCE STANFORD, 13 TO 2

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Southern California had to come from behind to defeat Stanford, 13 to 2, this afternoon but when the Trojan horse started galloping there was nothing the Indians could do about it.

The game was only three minutes old when Oliver Day, starting Southern California quarterback, played hide-and-seek with a long high Stanford punt, getting his hands on and off the ball and finally recovering it under a pile of Stanford tacklers behind his goal line.

Midway in the third quarter the Trojans got on their winning way. A pass put the ball on the Stanford 31, and Lansdell followed with another pass to Halfback Bill Hoffman for a first down on the 18-yard line. Then, after two passes miscued, Lansdell flipped a short pass to Fullback Bill Sangster, who ran 14 yards for the touchdown. Phil Gaspar added the extra point with a kick from placement.

The final Southern California score came in the last quarter and was counted by Quarterback Mickey Andersen. He needed only three plays to score from the 10-yard line.

"This is the detective chief; I guess you won't want any service." Thus did Louisville's Chief Joseph Stuart, seated among a battery of bell boxes, answer incoming bookies' calls when he raided and stopped operations at the Cumberland News Service, which supplied information for 600 Louisville book makers. Acting in a reform drive, Stuart forced officials of the service to turn over the keys to their office and then made arrangements with the telephone company to curtail phone service.

T. C. U. SMOTHERS MARQUETTE, 21-0

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Texas Christian, led by Davey O'Brien, a great little quarterback who tossed passes all over the field, smothered Marquette's football team today, 21 to 0, before 14,000 fans.

The T. C. U. quarterback threw seven straight completed tosses which figured in two touchdowns before he retired at the end of the first quarter.

After the opening thrust, T. C. U. kept Marquette in check until the final quarter, when O'Brien and his mates came back for another marker.

The first score came after an 82 yard march, with O'Brien passing to Clark and Wilkinson. O'Brien scored from the four yard mark.

O'Brien passed to John Hall for the second touchdown. The play, good for 30 yards, culminated a march of 65 yards.

The final score also came on a pass. O'Brien passed from his own 32, Earl Clark catching the ball on the Marquette 29 and outrunning everyone to count. O'Brien place-kicked successfully for points after every touchdown.

PITT WALLOPS S. M. U. ELEVEN

took over the Big Ten headlines by throwing Illinois for a 13-0 loss. Purdue came from behind to stop Wisconsin, 13-7, as Ohio State ran up a 42-7 count on Chicago, Kansas State, from the Big Six, plastered a 13-6 defeat on disappointing Indiana. Sharing Big Six honors with Oklahoma were Iowa State's undefeated Cyclones, who mowed down Kansas, 21-7. Missouri whipped Washington (St. Louis) of the Missouri Valley conference, 13-0.

The south's "off" program was marked by Georgia Tech's narrow 7-6 triumph over Auburn. Tennessee breezed through The Citadel, 44-0, as Alabama stopped Sewanee, 32-0; Mississippi rolled up a 47-14 score on Centenary and Tulane swamped Mercer, 51-0.

North Carolina, which plays Duke in a pivotal Southern conference game next week, ran up a 34-0 score on Davidson as North Carolina State and Furman played a 7-7 draw; Washington and Lee topped Virginia Poly, 6-0, and Virginia Military tripped William and Mary, 14-0. Virginia outscored Maryland in a wild game, 27-19.

Rice chalked up its first victory, winning a Southwest conference tussle from Texas, 13-6, in the last three minutes of play. Baylor and Texas A. and M. played a 6-6 tie.

In the far west, California's undefeated Bears overcame Washington, 14-7, as Southern California came from behind to halt Stanford, 13-2, and Oregon State won from Washington State, 7-6. Santa Clara remained unbeaten in a 21-6 victory over Arkansas. U. C. L. A. surprised by the decisiveness of its 33-0 victory over hitherto unbeaten Idaho.

MICHIGAN RALLIES TO DEFEAT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Michigan's highly touted Wolverines, bewildered by passes that had them beaten by 11 points in the first half, bounced off the grassy floor of the Yale Bowl before 45,000 spectators today to beat Yale's surprising football team, 15 to 13.

The Elis, led by Bud Humphrey, Clint Frank's understudy, led, 13 to 2, at the half. Yale had scored two touchdowns, both on passes from Humphrey to Bill Moody. All Michigan had salvaged was a safety, scored when Don Siegel blocked a Yale punt.

The tide swung suddenly to Michigan midway in the third period. Tom Harmon, brilliant young sophomore, began finding his mark with passes to Norman Purucker and Ed Phillips. Starting from their 42, the Wolverines marched to the one, where Purucker hurdled over.

In the fourth, the Wolverines marched 81 yards, Harmon's fifth pass of the drive nestled in the arms of John Nicholson for the final nine yards and the winning touchdown.

GEORGIA BESTED BY HOLY CROSS

Crusaders Crush Big, Undefeated Bulldogs By Score Of 29 To 6

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Holy Cross' Crusaders crushed a big, unbeaten University of Georgia eleven, 29 to 6, in an intersectional football game here today before 24,000 spectators.

Although Fullback Bill Osmanski and regular Quarterback Henry Ouellette were idle because of injuries, the Crusaders showed a new ball-carrying quartet which had speed, power and precision.

After End Bill Histen started the scoring by blocking Harry Stevens' early punt for a safety, the Crusaders roared 45 yards to their first touchdown. A 23-yard pass from Ronnie Cahill to Jack Reardon started the drive and then Arigo Latanzi and Gus Gerasimas took turns in lugging the ball to the one. Walewski, tackle, fell on the ball for the touchdown after Gerasimas fumbled.

Georgia immediately countered with a 50-yard march for its score, produced by the hard-plunging Jimmy Fordham on a four-down rush from the one-foot line in the second quarter.

Shortly thereafter, Gerasimas recovered Cates' fumble and Holy Cross drove the remaining 30 yards to a touchdown with Hilary Renz driving across from the two.

Then the Bulldogs charged 70 yards to the Purple 10, lost the ball there on downs and then came back 50 more to the 10 again, only to see their passer thrown for a 17-yard loss on the third down, last play of the half.

The Crusaders, with their hard-charging line giving the heavier southerners a bad beating, completely dominated the last half.

CALIFORNIA DUMPS WASHINGTON, 13-7

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—University of California's marauding Bears, heading for a second Pacific Coast conference football championship and the Rose Bowl, dumped a fighting University of Washington eleven, 14-7, before 25,000 spectators today.

After fighting off a Washington attempt at a field goal, and getting nowhere, in the first half, California finally got its tricky reverse functioning in the third period and rambled away for two touchdowns. Vic Bottari sparked the first and Louis Smith, the second. The touchdowns were made in two long, sustained rushes, the first a 41-yard drive and the second 73 yards.

Washington made its score in the fourth quarter after outplaying the Bears during the entire last half.

MEXICANS BEAT TALLULAH, 7 TO 2

Three Thousand Grid Fans Witness Game, Played In Rain, In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The American High school football team of Mexico City defeated Tallulah (La.) High school, 7 to 2, today. A crowd of 3,000 saw the game, played in a rain.

Halfback Amezqua ran 70 yards for the home team's touchdown in the second quarter. Tallulah scored its safety two minutes before the final whistle, when the Mexicans sacrificed the points to get the ball into a better position.

It was the first defeat of the season for Tallulah and the Mexicans second international victory since they have been playing football. They defeated Laredo (Tex.) High two years ago.

XAVIER UNIVERSITY DEFEATS KENTUCKY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Musketeers of Xavier university came from behind today to defeat the Wildcats of Kentucky, 26 to 7.

Taking a 7-0 lead in the first period, the Kentuckians were bottled up thereafter. David Zoeller intercepted an Xavier pass on the Muskies' 35 and advanced to Xavier's 15. Mason ran to the four-yard line and Wilce Carnes scored. A new Xavier backfield in the second period advanced to Kentucky's 19. A pass, Weiler to Kluksa, netted 15 yards and Hogan took it over.

Shepherd's kick from his own 30 was blocked and Sheltz recovered and ran for a touchdown. Nick Weiler broke through for a 82-yard run for the next marker. The Muskies added another in the third, principally on the ball carrying of Weiler and Andy Craffey. Weiler's pass to Keller put the ball over.

FLORIDA COMES TO LIFE AND BEATS TAMPA, 33-0

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A revived Florida football team got its attack in working order tonight and smothered the University of Tampa, 33 to 0.

Playing by far their best game of the season the Gators put on a show for the 10,000 or more persons who crowded into Phillips field.

All the scoring was confined to the second and fourth periods. In between times, the stubborn Tampans managed to hold the superior Gators at bay—and twice threatened the Florida goal.

MODERATE CLIMB IN COTTON NOTED

Week-End Buying Spurs Rise; Market Closes 1 To 14 Points Higher

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Week-end covering and other buying lifted cotton prices to moderate advances here today and at the close the market was steady 1 to 14 points net higher.

Incentives were lacking but selling pressure was light and limited to occasional flurries of hedging and profit taking by recent buyers. Buying came from domestic and foreign sources and persisted throughout the short session.

December contracts closed at 8.57, January at 8.50 bid, March 8.49, May 8.35, July 8.25, October 8.02 and December (new) at 8.06 bid.

Foreign markets were strong and attracted considerable buying during the first hour.

The turnover yesterday was 26,950 bales and open commitments 435,750, an increase of 450 bales over the previous day.

Exports today totalled 4,809 bales.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fourteen new wells in Louisiana oil fields with total initial daily production of 4,650 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation today.

Ten of the new oilers were in south Louisiana fields, four of them east of the Atchafalaya river. One resulted in the discovery of a new distillate field, north Tepetate, in Acadia parish.

Fourteen permits for new operations were issued during the week of which 11 were in south Louisiana.

Daily production of crude petroleum in Louisiana during the week ending October 15 was estimated by the department at 268,351 barrels, of which gulf coast fields produced 191,156 barrels and north Louisiana fields 77,195 barrels.

New wells listed in the report, with date of completion ranging from September 20 to October 15 were:

Bird island, Plaquemines parish, the Gulf Refining company, No. 4-2 Grand Prairie levee district, 150 barrels; Charenton, St. Mary parish, Knisely Oils, Inc., No. 2 W. E. Hertel et al, 27 barrels; Parrish Drilling company, No. 2 Paul LeBlanc, 116 barrels; Choctaw, Iberville parish, Louisiana Crusader Oil company, No. 3 Schwing, 405 barrels.

Cotton Valley, Webster parish, Hunt Oil company, No. 1 Pardee, 128 barrels; Union Producing company, No. 2 Stewart, 130 barrels; Hackberry, east, Cameron parish, Union Sulphur company, No. 9 Doiron, 1,221 barrels; Hackberry, west, Cameron parish, Superior Oil company, No. C-1 Doris Kaough, 284 barrels; LaFitte, Jefferson parish, the Texas company, No. 10 Rigolets, 1,179 barrels.

Quarantine bay, Plaquemines parish, Gulf Refining company, No. 4 State "QQ," 150 barrels; Rodessa, Caddo parish, F. W. Buford, No. 2 H. C. Brown, 332 barrels; South Roanoke, Jefferson Davis parish, Continental Oil company, No. 1 Sturdivant, 330 barrels; Zwolle, Sabine parish, W. L. Posey, No. 2 J. W. Hale, 74 barrels; North Tepetate, Acadia parish, Atlantic Refining company, 125 barrels.

Permits to drill new wells were issued to the following:

Caddo parish, Ben Levy et al, G. W. Gibson; Calcasieu parish, Humble Oil and Refining company; Cameron parish, Federal Royalty company in Calcasieu lake, Pure Oil company; Grant parish, Long and Porter.

Jefferson Davis parish, Union Sulphur company; Lafourche parish, Gulf Refining company (two permits), John Vaccaro; Plaquemines parish, Gulf Refining company (two permits); St. Mary parish, Fifteen Oil company; Vermilion parish, E. L. Buckley.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The rally scored by wheat prices this week was extended fractionally today. Buying credit both to short covering and accumulation by longs helped the market. The outstanding factor was government efforts to bolster farm commodities values.

Opening 1-4 lower to 1-4 higher, December 66 1-2 to 3-4, May 68 1-2 to 1-4, wheat futures later advanced. Corn started off to 1-4 higher, December 46 7-8 to 3-4, May 50 1-4 to 3-8.

Wheat closed 1-4 to 5-8 lower compared with yesterday's finish, December 66 to 66 1-8, May 68 to 68 1-8, and corn was unchanged to 3-8 off, December 46 5-8 to 3-4, May 50 1-8 to 50. Oats lost 1-8 to 1-4.

AIRCRAFTS POINT WAY TO UPSWING

Leaders In Brisk Trade Score Gains Running Up To 3 Or More Points

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Aircrafts pointed the way to a brisk but selective upswing in today's stock market and leaders, at the best scored gains running to three or more points.

The bulge tempted profit takers, however, and top marks were reduced in many cases near the close. Numerous new recovery peaks were touched in the first hour's advance. The ticker tape got behind for a while and transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,300,000 shares.

Steels were next to the airplane group in popularity. Motors followed more leisurely. A few rails and rubbers attracted followings. Utilities held to a somewhat restricted range.

Optimism seemed to have received fresh stimulation by the action of Douglas Aircraft directors, after yesterday's close, in voting a $3 dividend, the first since September, 1935, when 75 cents was declared. The company also announced nine months' net earnings of $3.19 a share, the best in its history, against $1.49 in the comparable 1937 months.

General brightening of the economic firmament imparted strength to other departments, especially the steels.

Poor third quarter earnings, on the whole, were ignored as water over the dam and speculative eyes were centered mainly on the outlook for the concluding quarter and the forepart of 1939.

Oils marked time notwithstanding chances for further production regulations in this field were thought to be much better. Retail store stocks did little as the federal reserve board reported department store sales wre off 18 per cent from last year for the week ended October 15. Merchants blamed unseasonable weather for the recession.

Bonds tilted forward after a hesitant start, commodities were a trifle uneven.

In a generally higher curb market, gainers of fractions to over a point included Lockheed Aircraft, Electric Bond and Share, Jones & Laughlin, American Gas and Electric and Newmont.

TIGERS BACK IN SOUTHEASTERN TITLE PICTURE

Tennessee Now Remains Only Undefeated Team In Conference

ATLANTA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Georgia Tech nosed out Auburn, its Southeastern conference rival, 7 to 6, today in the 42nd renewal of their gridiron feud, while the University of Georgia fell from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten and untied football teams by taking a 6-to-29 drubbing from Holy Cross in an intersectional game.

Louisiana State university strode back into the conference championship picture by toppling previously unbeaten Vanderbilt, 7 to 0, tonight at Baton Rouge, driving to a touchdown with only six minutes left to play.

Tennessee now remains the only team undefeated in the conference.

A revived Florida team snapped into action and trounced the University of Tampa, 33 to 0, at Tampa.

Flashing speed and power, Holy Cross romped to touchdowns in each of the four periods before 24,000 spectators at Worcester, Mass.

After Tech's Yellow Jackets scored on a pass in the second period, Auburn marched 80 yards to a touchdown in the final period, but was unable to convert the extra point to tie the game.

In other intersectional games, Mississippi State conquered Duquesne, 12 to 7, Friday, and Kentucky's Wildcats were smothered today by a strong Xavier college eleven at Cincinnati, 27 to 7.

Four conference powerhouses—Tennessee, Alabama, Tulane and the University of Mississippi—came through with crushing victories over lighter opponents.

Tennessee's Volunteers, who grabbed the conference spotlight last week with a 13 to 0 victory over Alabama's Crimson Tide, trounced The Citadel, Southern conference foe, 44 to 0, in a listless game at Knoxville. The Cadets got past midfield only twice.

Alabama had little trouble in turning back Sewanee, a conference opponent, 32 to 0. Tulane turned on its power and devastated Mercer university of Macon, Ga., 51 to 0, at New Orleans, while Ole Miss ran over Centenary's Gentlemen 47 to 14, at University, Miss., in the final half after the visitors led 14 to 13 at halftime.

"This is the detective chief; I guess you won't want any service." Thus did Louisville's Chief Joseph Stuart, seated among a battery of bell boxes, answer incoming bookies' calls when he raided and stopped operations at the Cumberland News Service, which supplied information for 600 Louisville book makers. Acting in a reform drive, Stuart forced officials of the service to turn over the keys to their office and then made arrangements with the telephone company to curtail phone service.

T. C. U. SMOTHERS MARQUETTE, 21-0

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Texas Christian, led by Davey O'Brien, a great little quarterback who tossed passes all over the field, smothered Marquette's football team today, 21 to 0, before 14,000 fans.

The T. C. U. quarterback threw seven straight completed tosses which figured in two touchdowns before he retired at the end of the first quarter.

After the opening thrust, T. C. U. kept Marquette in check until the final quarter, when O'Brien and his mates came back for another marker.

The first score came after an 82 yard march, with O'Brien passing to Clark and Wilkinson. O'Brien scored from the four yard mark.

O'Brien passed to John Hall for the second touchdown. The play, good for 30 yards, culminated a march of 65 yards.

The final score also came on a pass. O'Brien passed from his own 32, Earl Clark catching the ball on the Marquette 28 and outrunning everyone to count. O'Brien place-kicked successfully for points after every touchdown.

ALABAMA TROUNCES SEWANEE, 32 TO 0

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A gallant band of Sewanee Tigers failed in their role of giant-killers today as Alabama overwhelmed them, 32 to 0, but their game first-half fight won them the plaudits of a partisan Alabama crowd of 5,000.

It was late in the third period before Alabama, upset 13-0 last week by Tennessee, could generate enough power to put across a second score, but the touchdowns came rapidly in the closing minutes as Sewanee's obviously tired eleven came to pieces.

Charley Boswell, substitute Alabama left halfback, ran for two touchdowns and tossed a perfect pass to Tut Warren for another.

Sewanee's attack was virtually nonexistent, although Cochrane completed several passes and once got his team beyond midfield by this method, gaining 4 yards for Sewanee's two first downs. Alabama made 18 first downs, gaining 34 yards running and 45 passing.

BAYLOR, A. AND M. PLAY TO 6-6 TIE

WACO, Tex., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Battered, unbeaten Baylor twice reared up on its one-foot line today to muzzle Texas A. and M. and escaped with a 6-6 tie.

Back from a sudden Baylor surge in the first five minutes that netted their score came a Cadet team to outrush and outplay Baylor, rolling up 290 yards from rushing to Baylor's 35 and earning 16 first downs to five.

W. J. Wimpee, who missed a perfect peg across the goal line, atoned for that mistake in the first period, jumping between two Aggie pass defenders to spear Patterson's throw from the 23-yard line for the Baylor score.

Two minutes before half-time the Aggies got their score. Todd started it with a 12-yard jaunt, Owen Rogers and John Kimbrough followed with smashes to the Baylor 23. Todd wiggled 22 yards to the one-yard stripe and Kimbrough went over. Todd's conversion attempt was blocked.

TROJANS TROUNCE STANFORD, 13 TO 2

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Southern California had to come from behind to defeat Stanford, 13 to 2, this afternoon but when the Trojan horse started galloping there was nothing the Indians could do about it.

The game was only three minutes old when Oliver Day, starting Southern California quarterback, played hide-and-seek with a long high Stanford punt, getting his hands on and off the ball and finally recovering it under a pile of Stanford tacklers behind his goal line.

Midway in the third quarter the Trojans got on their winning way. A pass put the ball on the Stanford 31, and Lansdell followed with another pass to Halfback Bill Hoffman for a first down on the 18-yard line. Then, after two passes miscued, Lansdell flipped a short pass to Fullback Bill Sangster, who ran 14 yards for the touchdown. Phil Gaspar added the extra point with a kick from placement.

The final Southern California score came in the last quarter and was counted by Quarterback Mickey Andersen. He needed only three plays to score from the 10-yard line.

took over the Big Ten headlines by throwing Illinois for a 13-0 loss. Purdue came from behind to stop Wisconsin, 13-7, as Ohio State ran up a 42-7 count on Chicago, Kansas State, from the Big Six, plastered a 13-6 defeat on disappointing Indiana. Sharing Big Six honors with Oklahoma were Iowa State's undefeated Cyclones, who mowed down Kansas, 21-7. Missouri whipped Washington (St. Louis) of the Missouri Valley conference, 13-0.

The south's "off" program was marked by Georgia Tech's narrow 7-6 triumph over Auburn. Tennessee breezed through The Citadel, 44-0, as Alabama stopped Sewanee, 32-0; Mississippi rolled up a 47-14 score on Centenary and Tulane swamped Mercer, 51-0.

North Carolina, which plays Duke in a pivotal Southern conference game next week, ran up a 34-0 score on Davidson as North Carolina State and Furman played a 7-7 draw; Washington and Lee topped Virginia Poly, 6-0, and Virginia Military tripped William and Mary, 14-0. Virginia outscored Maryland in a wild game, 27-19.

Rice chalked up its first victory, winning a Southwest conference tussle from Texas, 13-6, in the last three minutes of play. Baylor and Texas A. and M. played a 6-6 tie.

In the far west, California's undefeated Bears overcame Washington, 14-7, as Southern California came from behind to halt Stanford, 13-2, and Oregon State won from Washington State, 7-6. Santa Clara remained unbeaten in a 21-6 victory over Arkansas. U. C. L. A. surprised by the decisiveness of its 33-0 victory over hitherto unbeaten Idaho.

MICHIGAN RALLIES TO DEFEAT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Michigan's highly touted Wolverines, bewildered by passes that had them beaten by 11 points in the first half, bounced off the grassy floor of the Yale Bowl before 45,000 spectators today to beat Yale's surprising football team, 15 to 13.

The Elis, led by Bud Humphrey, Clint Frank's understudy, led, 13 to 2, at the half. Yale had scored two touchdowns, both on passes from Humphrey to Bill Moody. All Michigan had salvaged was a safety, scored when Don Siegel blocked a Yale punt.

The tide swung suddenly to Michigan midway in the third period. Tom Harmon, brilliant young sophomore, began finding his mark with passes to Norman Purucker and Ed Phillips. Starting from their 42, the Wolverines marched to the one, where Purucker hurdled over.

In the fourth, the Wolverines marched 81 yards. Harmon's fifth pass of the drive nestled in the arms of John Nicholson for the final nine yards and the winning touchdown.

GEORGIA BESTED BY HOLY CROSS

Crusaders Crush Big, Undefeated Bulldogs By Score Of 29 To 6

WORCESTER, Mass, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Holy Cross' Crusaders crushed a big, unbeaten University of Georgia eleven, 29 to 6, in an intersectional football game here today before 24,000 spectators.

Although Fullback Bill Osmanski and regular Quarterback Henry Ouellette were idle because of injuries, the Crusaders showed a new ball-carrying quartet which had speed, power and precision.

After End Bill Histen started the scoring by blocking Harry Stevens' early punt for a safety, the Crusaders roared 45 yards to their first touchdown. A 23-yard pass from Ronnie Cahill to Jack Reardon started the drive and then Arigo Latanzi and Gus Gerasimas took turns in lugging the ball to the one. Walewski, tackle, fell on the ball for the touchdown after Gerasimas fumbled.

Georgia immediately countered with a 50-yard march for its score, produced by the hard-plunging Jimmy Fordham on a four-down rush from the one-foot line in the second quarter.

Shortly thereafter, Gerasimas recovered Cates' fumble and Holy Cross drove the remaining 30 yards to a touchdown with Hilary Renz driving across from the two.

Then the Bulldogs charged 70 yards to the Purple 10, lost the ball there on downs and then came back 50 more to the 10 again, only to see their passer thrown for a 17-yard loss on the third down, last play of the half.

The Crusaders, with their hard-charging line giving the heavier scutherners a bad beating, completely dominated the last half.

CALIFORNIA DUMPS WASHINGTON, 13-7

SEATTLE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—University of California's marauding Bears, heading for a second Pacific Coast conference football championship and the Rose Bowl, dumped a fighting University of Washington eleven, 14-7, before 25,000 spectators today.

After fighting off a Washington attempt at a field goal, and getting nowhere, in the first half, California finally got its tricky reverse functioning in the third period and rambled away for two touchdowns. Vic Bottari sparked the first and Louis Smith, the second. The touchdowns were made in two long, sustained rushes, the first a 41-yard drive and the second 73 yards.

Washington made its score in the fourth quarter after outplaying the Bears during the entire last half.

MEXICANS BEAT TALLULAH, 7 TO 2

Three Thousand Grid Fans Witness Game, Played In Rain, In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The American High school football team of Mexico City defeated Tallulah (La.) High school, 7 to 2, today. A crowd of 3,000 saw the game, played in a rain.

Halfback Amezquita ran 70 yards for the home team's touchdown in the second quarter. Tallulah scored its safety two minutes before the final whistle, when the Mexicans sacrificed the points to get the ball into a better position.

It was the first defeat of the season for Tallulah and the Mexicans second international victory since they have been playing football. They defeated Laredo (Tex.) High two years ago.

XAVIER UNIVERSITY DEFEATS KENTUCKY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Musketeers of Xavier university came from behind today to defeat the Wildcats of Kentucky, 26 to 7.

Taking a 7-0 lead in the first period, the Kentuckians were bottled up thereafter. David Zoeller intercepted an Xavier pass on the Muskies' 35 and advanced to Xavier's 15. Mason ran to the four-yard line and Wilce Carnes scored. A new Xavier backfield in the second period advanced to Kentucky's 19. A pass, Weiler to Kluksa, netted 15 yards and Hogan took it over.

Shepherd's kick from his own 30 was blocked and Sheltz recovered and ran for a touchdown. Nick Weiler broke through for a 82-yard run for the next marker. The Muskies added another in the third, principally on the ball carrying of Weiler and Andy Craffey. Weiler's pass to Keller put the ball over.

FLORIDA COMES TO LIFE AND BEATS TAMPA, 33-0

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A revived Florida football team got its attack in working order tonight and smothered the University of Tampa, 33 to 0.

Playing by far their best game of the season the Gators put on a show for the 10,000 or more persons who crowded into Phillips field.

All the scoring was confined to the second and fourth periods. In between times, the stubborn Tampans managed to hold the superior Gators at bay—and twice threatened the Florida goal.

MODERATE CLIMB IN COTTON NOTED

Week-End Buying Spurs Rise; Market Closes 1 To 14 Points Higher

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Week-end covering and other buying lifted cotton prices to moderate advances here today and at the close the market was steady 1 to 14 points net higher.

Incentives were lacking but selling pressure was light and limited to occasional flurries of hedging and profit taking by recent buyers. Buying came from domestic and foreign sources and persisted throughout the short session.

December contracts closed at 8.57, January at 8.50 bid, March 8.49, May 8.35, July 8.25, October 8.02 and December (new) at 8.06 bid.

Foreign markets were strong and attracted considerable buying during the first hour.

The turnover yesterday was 26,950 bales and open commitments 435,750, an increase of 450 bales over the previous day.

Exports today totalled 4,809 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The rally scored by wheat prices this week was extended fractionally today. Buying credit both to short covering and accumulation by longs helped the market. The outstanding factor was government efforts to bolster farm commodities values.

Opening 1-4 lower to 1-4 higher, December 66 1-2 to 3-4, May 68 1-2 to 1-4, wheat futures later advanced. Corn started off to 1-4 higher, December 46 7-8 to 3-4, May 50 1-4 to 3-8.

Wheat closed 1-4 to 5-8 lower compared with yesterday's finish, December 66 to 66 1-8, May 68 to 68 1-8, and corn was unchanged to 3-8 off, December 46 5-8 to 3-4, May 50 1-8 to 50. Oats lost 1-8 to 1-4.

Oil And Gas News

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fourteen new wells in Louisiana oil fields with total initial daily production of 4,650 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation today.

Ten of the new oilers were in south Louisiana fields, four of them east of the Atchafalaya river. One resulted in the discovery of a new distillate field, north Tepetate, in Acadia parish.

Fourteen permits for new operations were issued during the week of which 11 were in south Louisiana.

Daily production of crude petroleum in Louisiana during the week ending October 15 was estimated by the department at 268,351 barrels, of which gulf coast fields produced 191,156 barrels and north Louisiana fields 77,195 barrels.

New wells listed in the report, with date of completion ranging from September 20 to October 15 were:

Leaders In Brisk Trade Score Gains Running Up To 3 Or More Points

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Aircrafts pointed the way to a brisk but selective upswing in today's stock market and leaders, at the best scored gains running to three or more points.

The bulge tempted profit takers, however, and top marks were reduced in many cases near the close. Numerous new recovery peaks were touched in the first hour's advance. The ticker tape got behind for a while and transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,300,000 shares.

Steels were next to the airplane group in popularity. Motors followed more leisurely. A few rails and rubbers attracted followings. Utilities held to a somewhat restricted range.

Optimism seemed to have received fresh stimulation by the action of Douglas Aircraft directors, after yesterday's close, in voting a $3 dividend, the first since September, 1935, when 75 cents was declared. The company also announced nine months' net earnings of $3.19 a share, the best in its history, against $1.49 in the comparable 1937 months.

General brightening of the economic firmament imparted strength to other departments, especially the steels.

Poor third quarter earnings, on the whole, were ignored as water over the dam and speculative eyes were centered mainly on the outlook for the concluding quarter and the forepart of 1939.

Oils marked time notwithstanding chances for further production regulations in this field were thought to be much better. Retail store stocks did little as the federal reserve board reported department store sales wre off 18 per cent from last year for the week ended October 15. Merchants blamed unseasonable weather for the recession.

Bonds tilted forward after a hesitant start, commodities were a trifle uneven.

In a generally higher curb market, gainers of fractions to over a point included Lockheed Aircraft, Electric Bond and Share, Jones & Laughlin, American Gas and Electric and Newmont.

M. MUNHOLLAND RITES ARE HELD

Funeral For Prominent Merchant Conducted At Residence

The funeral of Marshall M. Munholland, 64, prominent in the furniture business in Monroe for more than 30 years, who died after a lengthy illness at his home, 403 Park avenue, Friday afternoon, was held at the residence Saturday at 2 p.m. Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. Interment was in the old city cemetery.

Pallbearers were Henry Haas, R. W. Germany, D. A. Strickland, R. D. Farr, Roy Cole, Harry Ulrich, Willie Miller and R. Dowes, Jr.

Mr. Munholland was president and general manager of the Munholland-Danwitz Furniture company, was past master of Western Star lodge No. 24, F. and A. M., and also was organizer and first master of Graham Surghnor lodge No. 383. He was also a Knight Templar, a Shrineer, member of the United Spanish War veterans and of the First Methodist church.

He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter, Herbert Munholland and Mrs. Carol Royce, both of Monroe.

PHI THETA KAPPA PLANS FOR YEAR

National Convention Will Be Outstanding Event Next Spring

Phi Theta Kappa at Northeast Center has a big year mapped out as plans are being formulated for the entertaining of the national convention here, probably in the month of May. This is the first time that the convention has been held here and members and the faculty alike are preparing to schedule the best entertainment possible for delegates.

Mrs. Margaret Mosal, national Phi Theta Kappa secretary, has been asked to come to Monroe to arrange for the coming convention.

Numerous other events are planned besides the convention. One of these will comprise a carnival which will be held in the college gymnasium and the funds from which will be used to aid in defraying the expenses of the convention.

On the football trip to Kilgore, members sold identification ribbons for students to wear at the game. Ribbons also will be sold at the homecoming.

Six new members were initiated into the club last Wednesday.

FORD WILL PUT NEW CAR ON THE MARKET

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Confirming rumors which have been in circulation for months, Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, announced today that a new car, bearing its own distinctive name, and selling the lower medium-price range, would be added to the Ford-Lincoln line shortly before the New York automobile show.

The new car will be known as the "Mercury 8." It will have a wheelbase of 118 inches, a V-8 engine more powerful than any hitherto marketed by the Ford company; hydraulic brakes and numerous advanced mechanical features, the announcement said.

Its flowing lines will reflect the modern streamlined styling pioneered three years ago by the Lincoln-Zephyr which, according to current press reports, has inspired to an important degree the design of a number of other new cars now being prepared for the market.

One of the features of the new car is the unusually wide and roomy interior with passenger space equal to that of many cars selling at considerably higher prices. Upholstery and appointments will be luxurious and styled in keeping with the car's modern exterior design.

Mr. Ford said the new car would be priced in the range between the deluxe Ford V-8 and the V-12 Lincoln-Zephyr, and would enable the Ford Motor company, with five lines of cars, which include also the Ford V-8 and V-12 Lincoln, to bracket the market in which more than 90 per cent of all cars today are bought.

BIRD CLUB ORGANIZED AT CLAIBORNE SCHOOL

A class discussion which followed the report from a student that he had seen a cat eating a bird, resulted in a bird club being organized by Mrs. Leo Hartman's class at the Claiborne school. The club will work towards protecting birds. At each meeting of the club, the members will respond to roll call by giving a bird call.

Officers of the club are: Charolet Vernon, president; Vergil Cloyd, vice-president; Ann Thompson, secretary; F. N. Moore, treasurer.

The following committees were appointed:

Bird watchmen: Joyce Greene, June Barr, Joye Butler. This group will plan field trips.

Bird police: Thelma Warren, Harold Farmer, Juanita Stanton, Johnnie Byrd, and Virginia Cloud. They will endeavor to protect birds from enemies.

Bird caterers: Wanda Jean Vancil, Yvonne Wallace, and Annie Lovett. This group will hang lumps of suet on trees, scatter crumbs, and set out pans of water and food for birds.

Bird carpenters: Arnold Vernon, Wilborne Littleton, and Claude Warren. This group will build bird houses.

Landing in Pago-Pago, which is American soil, an American must surrender his passport, just as in entering a foreign country, and must also put up $100 as a guarantee of good behavior.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for the construction of the following project will be received by the Louisiana Highway Commission, Room No. 302, Highway Office Annex, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, until 9:45 A. M. on Wednesday, November 2, 1938. Proposals will not be received after this hour. At 10:00 o'clock A. M. of the same day and date they will be publicly opened and read in the Chamber of the House of Representatives in the State Capitol.

STATE (BOND F. R.) PROJECT NO. 1256; FEDERAL AID SECONDARY PROJECT NO. FAS 25-A-(1); LAMAR-WEST HIGHWAY, Located in FRANKLIN PARISH, Route No. 637 Length: 1.988 miles. Type: GRADING AND SURFACING and other work in connection therewith.

The attention of bidders is directed to the special provisions covering subletting or assigning the contract.

The minimum wage paid to all skilled labor employed on this contract shall be seventy-five (75) cents per hour.

The minimum wage paid to all intermediate labor employed on this contract shall be forty-five (45) cents per hour.

The minimum wage paid to all unskilled labor employed on this contract shall be thirty (30) cents per hour.

Proposal forms will be issued only to "general contractors" licensed by the "Louisiana State Licensing Board for General Contractors," Room 203, Reymond Building, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, or to an authorized representative of a licensed contractor, and in no event will proposal forms be issued later than twenty-four hours prior to the hour and date set for receiving proposals. It will be necessary for the bidder to show evidence of license before a proposal is issued, in accordance with Act No. 397 of the Regular Session of 1938 of the Legislature of Louisiana. The rules and regulations of the Louisiana State Licensing Board for General Contractors, dated February 11, 1937, will apply.

Proposal forms will be issued to non-licensed contractors when the estimated cost of the improvement is less than $10,000.00, but in no event will proposal forms be issued later than twenty-four hours prior to the hour and date set for receiving proposals.

Full information and proposal forms are available at the offices of the Highway Commission at Baton Rouge. Plans and specifications may be inspected at said office or will be furnished upon payment of $3.00 (not to be refunded).

M. MUNHOLLAND RITES ARE HELD

Funeral For Prominent Merchant Conducted At Residence

The funeral of Marshall M. Munholland, 64, prominent in the furniture business in Monroe for more than 30 years, who died after a lengthy illness at his home, 403 Park avenue, Friday afternoon, was held at the residence Saturday at 2 p.m. Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. Interment was in the old city cemetery.

Pallbearers were Henry Haas, R. W. Germany, D. A. Strickland, R. D. Farr, Roy Cole, Harry Ulrich, Willie Miller and R. Dowes, Jr.

Mr. Munholland was president and general manager of the Munholland-Danwitz Furniture company, was past master of Western Star lodge No. 24, F. and A. M., and also was organizer and first master of Graham Surghnor lodge No. 383. He was also a Knight Templar, a Shrineer, member of the United Spanish War veterans and of the First Methodist church.

He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter, Herbert Munholland and Mrs. Carol Royce, both of Monroe.

PHI THETA KAPPA PLANS FOR YEAR

National Convention Will Be Outstanding Event Next Spring

Phi Theta Kappa at Northeast Center has a big year mapped out as plans are being formulated for the entertaining of the national convention here, probably in the month of May. This is the first time that the convention has been held here and members and the faculty alike are preparing to schedule the best entertainment possible for delegates.

Mrs. Margaret Mosal, national Phi Theta Kappa secretary, has been asked to come to Monroe to arrange for the coming convention.

Numerous other events are planned besides the convention. One of these will comprise a carnival which will be held in the college gymnasium and the funds from which will be used to aid in defraying the expenses of the convention.

On the football trip to Kilgore, members sold identification ribbons for students to wear at the game. Ribbons also will be sold at the homecoming.

Six new members were initiated into the club last Wednesday.

FORD WILL PUT NEW CAR ON THE MARKET

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Confirming rumors which have been in circulation for months, Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, announced today that a new car, bearing its own distinctive name, and selling the lower medium-price range, would be added to the Ford-Lincoln line shortly before the New York automobile show.

The new car will be known as the "Mercury 8." It will have a wheelbase of 116 inches, a V-8 engine more powerful than any hitherto marketed by the Ford company; hydraulic brakes and numerous advanced mechanical features, the announcement said.

Its flowing lines will reflect the modern streamlined styling pioneered three years ago by the Lincoln-Zephyr which, according to current press reports, has inspired to an important degree the design of a number of other new cars now being prepared for the market.

One of the features of the new car is the unusually wide and roomy interior with passenger space equal to that of many cars selling at considerably higher prices. Upholstery and appointments will be luxurious and styled in keeping with the car's modern exterior design.

Mr. Ford said the new car would be priced in the range between the deluxe Ford V-8 and the V-12 Lincoln-Zephyr, and would enable the Ford Motor company, with five lines of cars, which include also the Ford V-8 and V-12 Lincoln, to bracket the market in which more than 90 per cent of all cars today are bought.

BIRD CLUB ORGANIZED AT CLAIBORNE SCHOOL

A class discussion which followed the report from a student that he had seen a cat eating a bird, resulted in a bird club being organized by Mrs. Leo Hartman's class at the Claiborne school. The club will work towards protecting birds. At each meeting of the club, the members will respond to roll call by giving a bird call.

Officers of the club are: Charolet Vernon, president; Vergil Cloyd, vice-president; Ann Thompson, secretary; F. N. Moore, treasurer.

The following committees were appointed:

Bird watchmen: Joyce Greene, June Barr, Joye Butler. This group will plan field trips.

Bird police: Thelma Warren, Harold Farmer, Juanita Stanton, Johnnie Byrd, and Virginia Cloud. They will endeavor to protect birds from enemies.

Bird caterers: Wanda Jean Vancil, Yvonne Wallace, and Annie Lovett. This group will hang lumps of suet on trees, scatter crumbs, and set out pans of water and food for birds.

Bird carpenters: Arnold Vernon, Wilborne Littleton, and Claude Warren. This group will build bird houses.

Landing in Pago-Pago, which is American soil, an American must surrender his passport, just as in entering a foreign country, and must also put up $100 as a guarantee of good behavior.

R. C. WHITE IS GUEST SPEAKER

Missouri Pacific Railroad Official Participates In Booster Club Program

R. C White, St. Louis, Mo., assistant general manager of the Missouri Pacific railroad, was a surprise guest speaker at the regular meeting of the road's Booster club meeting held at the clubhouse Friday night. Mr. White, next in authority to President L. W. Baldwin, chanced to be in ' Monroe area and attended the meeting.

When called upon by Chief Booster S. A. Moss, who presided, Mr. White made an interesting talk on railroading. He said that in early times railroads were operated largely by their owners and rugged individualism was to be found everywhere. Now, he said, groups have taken the place of individuals. Rugged individualism is gone.

Today, he said, employes, rather than owners, operate the railroads and that each employe is an operator of the road to some extent. Even President Baldwin is an employe of the road. Thus, with the employes as operators, he said, the road and all other roads are just what the employes make them.

Community singing was led by Dallas Goss of Northeast Center. The invocation was by Rev. Ernest D. Holloway and Joe Lowe gave two well-received solos. Ed Miller, talented pianist, rendered several selections that were heartily applauded.

Mrs. Dallas Goss presented two songs, one of which was her original composition and which was well received by the large audience.

Thomas Davenport, local attorney, gave a short talk in which he urged popular support for the Community Chest drive, which opens tomorrow, declaring it is a civic prob' . that comprises both a duty and privilege to support.

Mr. Goss highly recommended Kryl and his symphony orchestra, which will appear here next month in concert. He said he knew this director personally and that too high praise cannot be accorded hi. for his wonderful art and technique.

The principal address of the occasion was by H. D. Reeves, assistant general freight agent of Little Rock, Ark. He discussed various phases of railroading and its outlook in entertaining manner.

Dance numbers were executed by pupils of Miss Armandine Renaud. Prizes were aw ded at the close of the program.

The program was arranged by W. R. Huhner, division freight and passenger agent, and the transportation department of the road was in charge of the night's entertainment.

DRAG DUNES FOR 'ALLIGATOR' MAN'S VICTIMS

The hunt for victims of "Bluebeard" Joe Ball goes on as Texas Rangers use highway department equipment, as pictured above, to search the sand dunes near Ingleside, Tex. Parts of the bodies of two of the roadhouse proprietor's victims already have been found in these dunes. Ball killed himself after he was questioned by police concerning disappearance of several women employes over a six-year period. Police were told by a man who said he helped Ball slay one woman that Ball fed parts of his victims to pet alligators.

WPA TOY SHOP INVITES PUBLIC

Visits Will Show Importance Of Contributing Scrap Materials

In requesting, for its Christmas toy program, contributions of used or b n toys, parts of broken toys and any scrap materials which may be used in making new toys, the WPA toy shop, 137 South Grand street, invites the public to visit the shop, inspect the toys already prepared for Christmas distribution, and see their attractiveness and new appearance.

Officials of the toy shop are aware that in Ouachita parish homes where fortunate circumstances prevail, there are many odd bits of scrap materials which can be used in making toys that will delight the fancy of children in homes where unfortunate circumstances prevail. But unless the public realizes that these scrap materials would have an important value in the toy shop program, and would be sincerely appreciated by the toy shop sponsors and children who are to receive toys from the shop, the scrap materials may never find their way to the shop.

An inspection visit at the toy shop, its officials believe, will convince anyone that an empty wooden or cardboard box, a piece of bright-colored string, a spool, a piece of scrap cloth, a leg of a broken chair and innumerable other scrap items can be used to remarkable advantage in making toys at the Christmas shop.

Persons who cannot deliver their contributions to the workshop are requested to telephone No. 1082. A truck will be sent to pick up their contributions.

The toy shop is open from Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Among the toys which may be seen at the shop are dolls, doll beds, cradles, chairs and other doll furniture, children's play furniture, tractors and trailers, stick horses, walking ducks and parrots, wheelbarrows, tool chests, bean bags and target boards and a variety of other games.

Most of the wooden toys are made by two veteran cabinet makers employed in the project from waste materials contributed by lumber companies and picked up about freight receiving platforms of downtown firms. These toys have the appearance of being turned out from factories which specialize in making toys.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S UNIT WILL ASSEMBLE

The Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Society for Crippled children will hold a session in the assembly room of B. M. I., in the Bernhardt building Tuesday at 8 p.m.

At this meeting officers for the coming year will be elected and other important matters will be discussed. All members are urged to attend as well as all others interested in the giving of aid to crippled children.

CHORAL CLUB FORMED, JOE LOWE PRESIDENT

The Choral club recently organized at Northeast Center is said to mark an interesting venture in the music field at the college. The group, sponsored by Dallas Goss, instructor in voice, comprises mixed voices from the women's and men's glee clubs.

Officers recently elected are: Joe Lowe, president; Melba Busby, vice-president; Bernice Bernstein, secretary-treasurer; and Anna Nichols, reporter.

TAX COLLECTIONS AUDIT COMPLETED

Lincoln Parish Record For Past Fiscal Year Found Almost Perfect

RUSTON, La., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Tax collections in Lincoln parish for the past fiscal ·ear lacked but sixteen hundredths of one er cent of being perfect, according to Bryan Thigpen, sheriff and tax collector.

An audit of the sheriff's records, extended through October 11, has just been completed by W. A. Cooper, supervisor of publi· funds at Baton Rouge, who wrote Sheriff Thigpen that "we are glad to advise you that your roll was found in excellent condition."

Out of a total of $38,723.30 for distribution to the state, there were deductions totaling $234.84, but actual loss amounted to but $64.73, which was due to errors, insolvencies and no property being found, according to the sheriff's report. Other deductions were as follows: Taxes reduced by court decree, $70.86; reductions by the Louisiana tax commission, $56.64; taxes on property sold to the state, 1937, $39.62, and taxes on property sold to the state, 1936, $2.99.

In his report of his examination Mr. Cooper pointed out that the audit was extended through October 11, during which period "collections had been made in the amount of $14,511.97. This amount, too, has been settled with the proper tax authorities, except for $161, representing collections on hunting and angling licenses and fines for October, which was found to be on hand in the cash drawer."

Total collections for the year amouted to $271,473.90, including about $34,000 in licenses. Distribution of the taxes included $109,579.55 to parish agencies, $88,810.07 to the school board and $38,723.30 to the state. An unused sum of $2,506.89 was prorated among the parish agencies, school board and the state.

ODD FELLOWS WILL FORM NEW LODGE

The Ouachita Valley lodge of Odd Fellows met for open house and a spaghetti supper in their rooms Friday night. More than 100 members and their wives and sweethearts attended. There were also visitors present from Jonesboro and Van Buren, Ark. The principal speaker of the occasion was J. M. Shows, deputy grand master of Louisiana.

Announcement was made that the sister lodge of Odd Fellows, the Rebekah lodge will be organized in Monroe on the night of October 29, with Mrs. M. Davis, present. Cedar Grove and Shreveport lodge members will institute the new lodge for women here.

The Monroe Odd Fellows lodge is but six months old, yet it has already a membership of 65. Odd Fellows have 65 children's homes in operation. At the Louisiana home for Odd Fellows' children located at Crowley, there are at this time but seven children enrolled.

'DEATH TAKES HOLIDAY' WILL BE GIVEN SOON

The cast for the first major production of the Northeast Center Speech club this fall was announced on Saturday.

The play will be an outstanding Broadway hit, "Death Takes a Holiday," by Alberto Cassella, and will be directed by Dr. Grace Ingledue.

Those who will participate are the following: Cora, Evelyn Bales; Fedele, Fred Gwin; Duke Lambert, DeWitt Chandler; Duchess Stephanie, Marian Smith; Corrado, Jack Hunter; Grazia, Jane McMullen; Princess of San Luca, Doris Dietrich; Alda, Barbara Butler; Erla Tenton, Lorain Armstrong; Rhoda Tenton, Marcelena Hill; His Serene Highness Prince Sirki of Vitalba Alexandri, J. W. Sanders; Baron Cesarea, Roy Coulter; Major Whitread, Paul Karlowitz.

The production date will be announced shortly.

3 NOTED ARTISTS TO APPEAR HERE

Civic Music Association Announces Recitals Planned For Season

Three of America's favorite radio and concert stars will be heard in recital during the coming winter season under the auspices of the Monroe Civic Music association, it was announced Saturday by E. C. Gibson, the president, who stated that Margaret Speaks, celebrated soprano; Levitzki, the noted pianist, and Benno Rabinoff, the violinist, are the artists who have been obtained for the season's concerts.

No dates have yet been assigned for the appearance of the artists, Mr. Gibson stated, although it is probable the first will be given some time in November, the others later in the season.

"Officers of the Monroe Civic Music association feel that the coming of these three outstanding musical celebrities to Monroe this season will be a source of great gratification to the membership," Mr. Gibson said. "Each of them is a leader in his or her own particular field, and each has achieved nationwide fame, both through their appearances in public concert work and in radio programs of the National Broadcasting company."

The Civic Music president stressed the fact that the three artists had been chosen by the association's talent committee in response to preferences expressed by a large proportion of the membership obtained in the recent campaign, and voiced his own pleasure in being able to obtain their booking for Monroe.

Each of the artists has a deserved reputation for personality and charm, as well as distinguished ability in the musical world, he said, and members of the association who will be privileged to hear them will be accorded a rare treat.

FARM YOUTHS MAY PAY WAY AT TECH WITH FOODSTUFFS

RUSTON, La., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Farm boys who want t. attend Louisiana Tech, but who cannot afford the price of a college education in hard, cold cash, might pay part of their way with home-cured hams, vegetables, potatoes or any other farm products which can be used on the tables in the new farm dining hall now being constructed, according to R. L. Reese of the agriculture department.

Work on the new dining hall, a frame building, began this week. It will be erected behind the new boys' dormitory on the Tech farm, Mr. Reese said. The structure will be 50 feet long and 20 feet wide and will accommodate 50 boys, the same number that will eventually be housed in the new dormitory, now nearing completion. Two carpenters, regularly employed by the college, are working on the new dining hall.

The dining room will be 26x20 feet. The kitchen, a 12x20-foot room, will be situated next to the dining room. At the other end of the building, there will be another 12x20-foot room which will be used as a storeroom and cook's quarters.

The dining hall will be ready to feed NYA agriculture students when they move into the new quarters in about six weeks, according to Mr. Reese. Two plasterers are working full time on the walls of the dormitory, and the plumbing and electrical equipment has already been installed. A septic tank, large enough to take care of the sewage needs of the farm, is being connected.

Materials with which to make cabinets, study tables and chairs have arrived at the Monroe NYA shops, Mr. Reese learned early this week. These room furnishings should be ready within six weeks, he said.

A large amount of the food consumed by the student farmers in the new dining hall will come from the Tech farm eventually, Mr. Reese pointed out. The farm is daily being improved and rejuvenated. More heads of cattle have been added, fences erected, drainage cut and terraces built. It is the hope of the agriculture staff at Tech that the farm may become self-sustaining within the next few years.

Preparations are being made for a program dedicating the buildings.

SMITH SCORES SUCCESS IN DRAMA COLLEGE PLAY

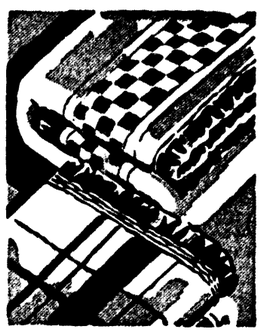

Lorenzo Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith, of West Monroe, scored a success in a play in Chicago the past week entitled, "Singapore Spider," according to word received here. The play was presented at the Women's club theater by Columbia players, professional stock company composed of students in the Columbia College of Drama and Radio.

The Columbia College of Drama and Radio is one of the oldest of the kind. It plans to produce three one-act plays monthly, similar to the "Singapore Spider" which was the initial production of the fall season.

Factories in India are trying to produce sugar equal to that of Java.

The hunt for victims of "Bluebeard" Joe Ball goes on as Texas Rangers use highway department equipment, as pictured above, to search the sand dunes near Ingleside, Tex. Parts of the bodies of two of the roadhouse proprietor's victims already have been found in these dunes. Ball killed himself after he was questioned by police concerning disappearance of several women employes over a six-year period. Police were told by a man who said he helped Ball slay one woman that Ball fed parts of his victims to pet alligators.

WPA TOY SHOP INVITES PUBLIC

Visits Will Show Importance Of Contributing Scrap Materials

In requesting, for its Christmas toy program, contributions of used or b n toys, parts of broken toys and any scrap materials which may be used in making new toys, the WPA toy shop, 137 South Grand street, invites the public to visit the shop, inspect the toys already prepared for Christmas distribution, and see their attractiveness and new appearance.

Officials of the toy shop are aware that in Ouachita parish homes where fortunate circumstances prevail, there are many odd bits of scrap materials which can be used in making toys that will delight the fancy of children in homes where unfortunate circumstances prevail. But unless the public realizes that these scrap materials would have an important value in the toy shop program, and would be sincerely appreciated by the toy shop sponsors and children who are to receive toys from the shop, the scrap materials may never find their way to the shop.

An inspection visit at the toy shop, its officials believe, will convince anyone that an empty wooden or cardboard box, a piece of bright-colored string, a spool, a piece of scrap cloth, a leg of a broken chair and innumerable other scrap items can be used to remarkable advantage in making toys at the Christmas shop.

Persons who cannot deliver their contributions to the workshop are requested to telephone No. 1082. A truck will be sent to pick up their contributions.

The toy shop is open from Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Among the toys which may be seen at the shop are dolls, doll beds, cradles, chairs and other doll furniture, children's play furniture, tractors and trailers, stick horses, walking ducks and parrots, wheelbarrows, tool chests, bean bags and target boards and a variety of other games.

Most of the wooden toys are made by two veteran cabinet makers employed in the project from waste materials contributed by lumber companies and picked up about freight receiving platforms of downtown firms. These toys have the appearance of being turned out from factories which specialize in making toys.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S UNIT WILL ASSEMBLE

The Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Society for Crippled children will hold a session in the assembly room of B. M. I., in the Bernhardt building Tuesday at 8 p.m.

At this meeting officers for the coming year will be elected and other important matters will be discussed. All members are urged to attend as well as all others interested in the giving of aid to crippled children.

CHORAL CLUB FORMED, JOE LOWE PRESIDENT

The Choral club recently organized at Northeast Center is said to mark an interesting venture in the music field at the college. The group, sponsored by Dallas Goss, instructor in voice, comprises mixed voices from the women's and men's glee clubs.

Officers recently elected are: Joe Lowe, president; Melba Busby, vice-president; Bernice Bernstein, secretary-treasurer; and Anna Nichols, reporter.

TAX COLLECTIONS AUDIT COMPLETED

Lincoln Parish Record For Past Fiscal Year Found Almost Perfect

RUSTON, La., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Tax collections in Lincoln parish for the past fiscal ear lacked but sixteen hundredths of one er cent of being perfect, according to Bryan Thigpen, sheriff and tax collector.

An audit of the sheriff's records, extended through October 11, has just been completed by W. A. Cooper, supervisor of publ funds at Baton Rouge, who wrote Sheriff Thigpen that "we are glad to advise you that your roll was found in excellent condition."

Out of a total of $38,723.30 for distribution to the state, there were deductions totaling $234.84, but actual loss amounted to but $64.73, which was due to errors, insolvencies and no property being found, according to the sheriff's report. Other deductions were as follows: Taxes reduced by court decree, $70.86; reductions by the Louisiana tax commission, $56.64; taxes on property sold to the state, 1937, $39.62, and taxes on property sold to the state, 1936, $2.99.

In his report of his examination Mr. Cooper pointed out that the audit was extended through October 11, during which period "collections had been made in the amount of $14,511.97. This amount, too, has been settled with the proper tax authorities, except for $161, representing collections on hunting and angling licenses and fines for October, which was found to be on hand in the cash drawer."

Total collections for the year amouted to $271,473.90, including about $34,000 in licenses. Distribution of the taxes included $109,579.55 to parish agencies, $88,810.07 to the school board and $38,723.30 to the state. An unused sum of $2,508.89 was prorated among the parish agencies, school board and the state.

ODD FELLOWS WILL FORM NEW LODGE

The Ouachita Valley lodge of Odd Fellows met for open house and a spaghetti supper in their rooms Friday night. More than 100 members and their wives and sweethearts attended. There were also visitors present from Jonesboro and Van Buren, Ark. The principal speaker of the occasion was J. M. Shows, deputy grand master of Louisiana.

Announcement was made that the sister lodge of Odd Fellows, the Rebekah lodge will be organized in Monroe on the night of October 29, with Mrs. M. Davis, present. Cedar Grove and Shreveport lodge members will institute the new lodge for women here.

The Monroe Odd Fellows lodge is but six months old, yet it has already a membership of 65. Odd Fellows have 65 children's homes in operation. At the Louisiana home for Odd Fellows' children located at Crowley, there are at this time but seven children enrolled.

'DEATH TAKES HOLIDAY' WILL BE GIVEN SOON

The cast for the first major production of the Northeast Center Speech club this fall was announced on Saturday.

The play will be an outstanding Broadway hit, "Death Takes a Holiday," by Alberto Cassella, and will be directed by Dr. Grace Ingledue.

Those who will participate are the following: Cora, Evelyn Bales; Fedele, Fred Gwin; Duke Lambert, DeWitt Chandler; Duchess Stephanie, Marian Smith; Corrado, Jack Hunter; Grazia, Jane McMullen; Princess of San Luca, Doris Dietrich; Alda, Barbara Butler; Erle Tenton, Lorain Armstrong; Rhoda Tenton, Marcelena Hill; His Serene Highness Prince Sirki of Vitalba Alexandri, J. W. Sanders; Baron Cesarea, Roy Coulter; Major Whitread, Paul Karlowitz.

The production date will be announced shortly.

Civic Music Association Announces Recitals Planned For Season

Three of America's favorite radio and concert stars will be heard in recital during the coming winter season under the auspices of the Monroe Civic Music association, it was announced Saturday by E. C. Gibson, the president, who stated that Margaret Speaks, celebrated soprano; Levitzki, the noted pianist, and Benno Rabinoff, the violinist, are the artists who have been obtained for the season's concerts.

No dates have yet been assigned for the appearance of the artists, Mr. Gibson stated, although it is probable the first will be given some time in November, the others later in the season.

"Officers of the Monroe Civic Music association feel that the coming of these three outstanding musical celebrities to Monroe this season will be a source of great gratification to the membership," Mr. Gibson said. "Each of them is a leader in his or her own particular field, and each has achieved nationwide fame, both through their appearances in public concert work and in radio programs of the National Broadcasting company."

The Civic Music president stressed the fact that the three artists had been chosen by the association's talent committee in response to preferences expressed by a large proportion of the membership obtained in the recent campaign, and voiced his own pleasure in being able to obtain their booking for Monroe.

Each of the artists has a deserved reputation for personality and charm, as well as distinguished ability in the musical world, he said, and members of the association who will be privileged to hear them will be accorded a rare treat.

FARM YOUTHS MAY PAY WAY AT TECH WITH FOODSTUFFS

RUSTON, La., Oct. 22.—(Special)—Farm boys who want to attend Louisiana Tech, but who cannot afford the price of a college education in hard, cold cash, might pay part of their way with home-cured hams, vegetables, potatoes or any other farm products which can be used on the tables in the new farm dining hall now being constructed, according to R. L. Reese of the agriculture department.

Work on the new dining hall, a frame building, began this week. It will be erected behind the new boys' dormitory on the Tech farm, Mr. Reese said. The structure will be 50 feet long and 20 feet wide and will accommodate 50 boys, the same number that will eventually be housed in the new dormitory, now nearing completion. Two carpenters, regularly employed by the college, are working on the new dining hall.

The dining room will be 26x20 feet. The kitchen, a 12x20-foot room, will be situated next to the dining room. At the other end of the building, there will be another 12x20-foot room which will be used as a storeroom and cook's quarters.

The dining hall will be ready to feed NYA agriculture students when they move into the new quarters in about six weeks, according to Mr. Reese. Two plasterers are working full time on the walls of the dormitory, and the plumbing and electrical equipment has already been installed. A septic tank, large enough to take care of the sewage needs of the farm, is being connected.

Materials with which to make cabinets, study tables and chairs have arrived at the Monroe NYA shops, Mr. Reese learned early this week. These room furnishings should be ready within six weeks, he said.

A large amount of the food consumed by the student farmers in the new dining hall will come from the Tech farm eventually, Mr. Reese pointed out. The farm is daily being improved and rejuvenated. More heads of cattle have been added, fences erected, drainage cut and terraces built. It is the hope of the agriculture staff at Tech that the farm may become self-sustaining within the next few years.

Preparations are being made for a program dedicating the buildings.

SMITH SCORES SUCCESS IN DRAMA COLLEGE PLAY

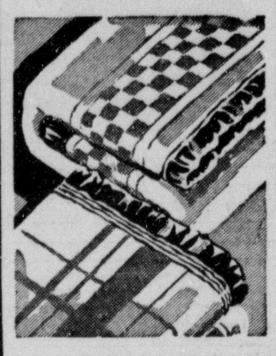

Lorenzo Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith, of West Monroe, scored a success in a play in Chicago the past week entitled, "Singapore Spider," according to word received here. The play was presented at the Women's club theater by Columbia players, professional stock company composed of students in the Columbia College of Drama and Radio.

The Columbia College of Drama and Radio is one of the oldest of the kind. It plans to produce three one-act plays monthly, similar to the "Singapore Spider" which was the initial production of the fall season.

Miss Francis Pettiss Becomes Bride Of Ernest Williams Fudickar At Bastrop

Nuptials Solemnized At Episcopal Church

Marriage Unites Two Prominent Northeast Louisiana Families; Informal Reception Held

Claiming prominence among the season's notable weddings was that of Miss Francis Pettiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Pettiss of Bastrop, and Mr. Ernest Williams Fudickar of Monroe, son of Mrs. Paul Fudickar and the late Mr. Fudickar, at Christ Episcopal church, Bastrop, on Tuesday, October 11, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with Rev. L. K. Young, rector, performing the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. W. E. Vann of Mansfield, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents and was privileged to baptize their two daughters.

The church was beautifully decorated. Southern smilax was massed in the background with graceful tendrils entwining the lattice work in the rear of the sanctuary. Cathedral tapers gleamed in stately candelabra flanking the altar where superb white chrysanthemums were massed. Two immense urns overflowing with pink gladioli were placed in the background. The railing, enclosing the sanctuary, was banked with pink roses and entwined with woodwardia fern.

The pews reserved for members of the family and intimate friends were designated by sprays of salmon pink gladioli, tied with bridal tulle.

A brilliant pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Miss Alma Goss, organist, and Miss Dean McKoin, violinist. Mrs. Lloyd O'Neal, soloist, sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because." For the processional Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered and for the recessional the wedding march from 'Lohengrin" by Wagner.

Wearing bouffant gowns of poudre blue taffeta, the flower girls, Nina Joe Pettiss of Baton Rouge and Lou Rachel Kern of Bastrop, scattered rose petals as they walked down the white-carpeted aisle. They both wore cunning poke bonnets encircled with rose buds.

The bridesmaids, Miss Douglass Pettiss, sister of the bride, Miss Mary Hayward and Miss Annette Murchie, wore blue taffeta models fashioned along princess lines with blue velvet bows at the waistline and scattered over the bouffant skirts. The necklines were heart-shaped with short sleeves puffed at the shoulders. They wore chaplets of roses and chrysanthemums in their hair and carried fan-shaped bouquets of pink gladioli and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Arthur McMeans, matron of honor, wore a deep rose-colored taffeta model, an exact replica of the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. She wore a chaplet of blue delphinium and roses in her hair and carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and Token roses.

The ringbearer, Walter Pettiss, of Collinston, wore a navy blue Fauntleroy suit with a white satin blouse and pleated collar and cuffs.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin model with heart-shaped neckline. The long, leg-o-mutton sleeves were buttoned to the elbow. Real lace was caught at the neck and sleeves. A row of tiny, self-covered buttons ended below the waistline in the back. The exquisite floor-length veil, the same worn by Mrs. Jake Kern at her wedding, was caught with white orchids. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Fudickar was attended by his brother, Mr. Paul Fudickar. The ushers were Mr. Lloyd Barham of Bastrop, Mr. Jerry Pettiss of Collinston, Mr. Raymond John and Mr. L. Kusin of Monroe.

The bride's mother was attired in a black velvet gown with a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Fudickar wore a teal blue velvet frock and a corsage of Briercliff roses.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a handsome brooch set with diamonds. The bride's gift was a gold belt buckle and tie clasp.

An informal reception was held at the Pettiss home immediately following the ceremony for members of the bridal party and relatives.

Before departing on the honeymoon, the bride cut the beautiful three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake, centering the lace-draped table in the dining room. Iced frappe and a variety of confections were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Fudickar are spending their honeymoon in Florida and upon their return they will be at home to their friends on West Madison, Bastrop, where Mr. Fudickar is manager of the Bastrop Ice and Storage company.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Pettiss and three children of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Wagner; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Williams, Mrs. Anna Hannah and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kellar of Monroe, grandparents of the bride.

Review Club Meets With Mrs. Colvert

The regular meeting of the Review club was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Colvert. Mrs. Walter Rhodes, president, presided over the business session. Delegates to the state convention were appointed at this time.

An unusually interesting program on "The Mississippi River and Its Unique Delta" was presented by Mrs. Fred Fudickar and Mrs. C. V. McGimsey, excerpts of which follow:

Louisiana has been called the land of perpetual romance, but the major romance of Louisiana is to be found in the progenitor of the entire state, the Father of Waters.

The length of the Mississippi is 2,500 miles. The mean velocity of the lower Mississippi is a little more than two miles per hour. The yearly discharge into the Gulf of Mexico is nearly 145 cubic miles. At the mouth of the Mississippi a large delta has been formed. The area of the delta is about 12,300 square miles, a third of which is seamarsh. The annual deposit of soil by the river would cover an area of about 280 square miles, one foot thick.

With its long fingers of silt thrust far out into the Gulf of Mexico, the "bird's foot" delta of the Mississippi is unlike that of any other major river on the globe.

Vast deposits and constant changes caused by floods tend to obstruct the entrance to the great river. Ninety years ago the federal government made the first appropriation for deepening these channels, and in the next forty years it succeeded, by means of crude dredging process, increasing the depth from 12 to 20 feet. In time of flood the Mississippi brings down for deposit at its mouth more than two million tons of sand a day. One can realize that this was a costly and disheartening battle.

During the year 1870 vessels had so increased in size and draft that a deeper channel became necessary. At this time there appeared before congress an engineering genius who persuaded that body to permit him, on a basis of "no cure, no pay" to attempt to provide and maintain a deep channel in his own way.

But when congress finally accepted this "can't lose" proposition of James B. Eads, the engineer was not permitted to use the southwest pass for his experiment as he had specified. This was the best of the three main passes and the government was taking no chances with Mr. Eads and his "fantastic" proposition.

The Eads contract called not only for a channel 25 feet deep and 200 feet wide at the bottom, but for maintaining that depth for 20 years.

With tremendous energy and rare organizing ability, the engineer set to work, and in less than five years his jetties had done the work. Furthermore, he maintained the depth for 20 years, that period expiring in 1901.

The Eads jetty system is now used effectively in the three main passes into which the great river divides.

Those privileged to enjoy this program were Mesdames C. B. Braun, B. J. Breard, C. C. Colvert, Henry Colbert, E. P. Cudd, DeWitt Henry, W. Hatchell, Fred Fudickar, D. M. Moore, A. R. Holloway, C. V. McGimsey, B. W. Leigh, Walter Rhodes, W. J. Vessey, D. A. Tisdale.

Interest is centered in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Joseph Kathan of Waverly, La., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Harriet Kathan, to Mr. Emmett Cox Craig of Tallulah.

The wedding will take place November 19 at the Tallulah Methodist church at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Vance of Tallulah announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Katye Mai, to Mr. Tom Stanley Waters of Tallulah. The wedding will take place at the Tallulah Baptist church November 12.

Literary Guild Meets At Dickard Residence

The Literary Guild met on Monday in the home of Mrs. Herbert Dickard. The subject for the afternoon was "French Period Furniture."

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. J. G. Durrett gave interesting reports from the club institute in Ruston on October 12. Delegates to the state convention in Baton Rouge were appointed at this time. After the business meeting the program for the afternoon on French period furniture was especially enjoyed by the members.

Mrs. J. P. Brown gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on "Provincial and Empire Furniture." Mrs. Durrett reviewed Louis XV and XVI period furniture.

She said: "After Louis XIV died and went to his particular heaven (all mirrors) in 1715, and the succession devolved upon his little gr '-grandson, aged five. This little chap reigned at first under the regency of Philippe d'Orleans. The particular regency of this man Philippe, a corrupt and profligate fellow, following as it did the extravagances of Louis XIV (that at any rate were clothed in dignity), brought about a change in social customs that is generally called 'Regence' of French regency.

"The feminine influence began to dominate. Furniture became less formal and heavy; the ladies liked curves, so the cabriole leg on table and chairs was introduced from Flanders, and the curved lines repeated in ornament and paneling. Colors and textiles were lighter and more dainty, and the most delightful whims and caprices began to appear in design. It was the climax in French decorative styles, the complete expression of the exquisite, fastidious, delicately sensuous, always captivating and usually refined feminine French soul.

"The lengths to which the ladies went to attract the royal attention are delightfully apparent in the decorative devices of the time; in flower baskets and garlands, garden hats and dainty garden tools, in musical instruments and shepherds' crooks, ribbons, cupids, quivers and darts. These seductive appeals were carved, appliqued, cast in metal, woven, embroidered, painted plastered and printed on everything in sight.

"Toward the end of the reign of Louis XV (he reigned for 59 years), the increasing effort to attract attention finally ran through the more subtle mediums, and ornament was piled on ornament, curve on curve, until the period deteriorated into an orgy of ostentation known as Rococo—an expressive word for it. It is a shame that this should have happened, but it did, and by the time this monarch died, in 1774, the fashionable world was thoroughly sick of Rococo.

"When the world is weary of its follies in decoration as in everything else, it invariably turns back to the cooling sanity of the classic era. It did now. Nothing could have been more auspicious for the good of the exhausted nation—exhausted in purse as well as in decorative ideas—than the ascent to the throne of the grandson of Louis XV. He was a young man of mild and kindly temper with no particular notions of personal grandeur. Louis XVI's well-meaning decency brought about a marked change in decorative symbols. Curlicues and bandy legs were wiped out of fashion; classic simplicity of straight lines for paneling and furniture took their place, and beadings, reeding and formal scrolls outlined the perfectly proportioned rectangular forms. Designs for fabrics, especially noticeable in toile de Jouy, returned to the old motifs of goddesses, tripods, urns and pillars.

"It perfectly expresses the obvious intention of the young monarch to straighten things out. But he had a young queen beside him, a lovely, ambitious and extravagant creature named Marie Antoinette, to whom the charming foibles of the preceding reign were vastly more entertaining than straightening out the affairs of state. Therefore she picked out the best of these ideas and imbued them with her own delightful and pleasure-loving personality.

"It is interesting to note the difference in the designs (so often confused) in the periods of Louis XV and Louis XVI. Both are definitely feminine, but in the first instance they expressed femininity, and in the second they expressed Marie Antoinette. The change in furniture form to classic outline combined with the spontaneous gaiety and daintiness of the queen's favorite symbols brought about a decorative style that, while thoroughly French, is less dramatic and therefore more easily adapted to average use than the earlier periods. One can attempt the Marie Antoinette background because it endures simplification without loss of character, but, like all French styles, it must be carefully done. These styles express an artistry in living in which few of us are familiar, and we are apt, therefore, to dismiss them or treat them as frivolous. Nothing could be further from the truth. French decoration is about as frivolous as ballet dancing.

Club Discusses 'Birds Of America'

John Audubon's "Birds of America" was the interesting subject presented by Mrs. V. S. Garnett to the members of the Current Literature club when Mrs. G. D. Holland was the charming hostess last Wednesday.

Following the business session the club was inspired by an enthusiastic talk on "General Federation" by Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the fifth district of Louisiana Federated Current clubs.

Mrs. Dudley Stone also presented a well-developed talk on "Conservation in Louisiana" to the club which was received with much interest.

In her criticism of "Birds of America," Mrs. Garnett stated that Audubon was the greatest naturalist that ever lived. The author is said to be born in the late eighteenth century. His exact birthplace varies with many authorities. He was thought by a famous Louisiana writer to be the lost Dauphin of the French revolution.

Mrs. Garnett presented illustrations with interesting descriptions of the birds painted by this great naturalist, whose aide, Joseph Mason, painted most of the colorful background. Audubon was many years accomplishing his work. About a century ago his first book was published which cost $1,000. There has never been any greater naturalist before his time or since as great as Audubon.

Members present were: Mesdames John Best, R. L. Conway, Jr., V. S. Garnett, G. D. Holland, Mike John, Jr., J. E. Kersh, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Dudley Stone, Seiler, E. R. Whitaker, William Whitfield and the honored guest, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

By Eve C. Bradford

THESE glorious autumn days, as bright as bittersweet, will soon merge into early winter. Wild geese flying farther southward are nightly silhouetted against the harvest moon. Soon the hunter's moon will sail high in the heavens and the "old women's summer," deriving its name from a folklorish figure of speech based on the spider web filaments and seed fibers that float through the air in autumn, suggesting threads from an old woman's spinning wheel, will give place to cozy days before the fire.

Afternoon tea with its plates of intriguing little sandwiches, toothsome cakes, and a pot of steaming, fragrant orange pekoe and a gracious, unhurried hostess is something to think about when cool weather drives one indoors.

Bradley and Bernie Waelder are now facing a winter of great content in their country home on the West Side. They will be trotting out the silver tea service for friends who drop in to view their new abode. City dwellers who have a yen for the country will no doubt entertain an envious thought when they see Bradley and Bernie exuding contentment in their country home overlooking a peaceful hillside from which blows the keen sweetness of autumn air. The silence and the loneliness of the country is good for the soul.

Frank and Nellie Walke of Shreveport breezed into town the other day with a surprise for Nellie's mother, Mrs. T. T. Webb, who celebrated her birthday anniversary. The surprise was a birthday cake—a most unusual and most artistic confection in the shape of an open book with the name "Florence" inscribed across the open page. It was strictly a family affair but there was plenty of fun and laughter and a great manifestation of love. A beautiful devotion exists between Nellie and her mother.

We didn't think there was a woman that breathed who didn't entertain a pet superstition. We discovered that Grace Ingledue is absolutely without superstitions. She is directing a play, "Death Takes a Holiday," with a cast of thirteen. They meet in her room at the Frances hotel, where she is now making her home, for rehearsals. These thirteen face one another nightly without fear of the old superstition most of us are wary of. We know any number of people who positively cringe when they find there will be thirteen seated at a table.

Robert Layton's pet superstition is a black cat. One crossed his path when he was leaving the city for an automobile trip to Colorado several years ago. He postponed his trip until the next day.

Alice Briggs and Janet Powell fairly steeped themselves in the glamour of the circus last week. Not content to view the circus from a seat during the regular performance, they were on the grounds at 8 o'clock in the morning. They peeked in tents where the great army of workers were being fed—they petted the elephants and stroked the silky hair of the beautiful horses—they rubbed elbows with animal trainers and kicked the sawdust under their feet. They saw the lions consuming great hunks of raw meat, watched the gorilla groom its baby, and all but wept in sympathy for the freaks who were preparing themselves for the hordes who came to stare at them. The glamour of the circus is found by those who view the acts from the sidelines but the great heart of the circus is found only by those who prick below the surface.

We knew that Lelia Dean Frazier would be received with open arms by classmates when the time came for college. She is typically collegiate—just the type of girl sororities clamor for and campus societies welcome in their midst. She is a freshman at L. S. U., yet in this short space of time has been made a member of the Players' guild and is being featured in two plays. A lovely likeness of Lelia Dean appeared in the paper edited by the student body.

Who but Tom Sandridge would think to give a group of boys a week-end outing and plan ahead for their comfort and pleasure? He packed six boys in his automobile and motored over to Lake Bruin where three blissful days were spent fishing, boating and swimming and spinning yarns before an open fire. Tom took along his colored man to take care of the culinary end of things. It was the appetizing odor of bacon and coffee that awakened the boys each morning.

Three loves has Sadye Lou Peters—one is black and white which she wears to perfection, one is badminton and the other, of course, is her fiance, Credille Calhoun, whom she will wed next month. We thought that Sadye Lou looked best in black and white but we changed our mind last week when we glimpsed her in a hunter's green outfit with enormous kolinsky collar and a chic little green hat with a flowing green veil. Another color she wears to perfection is Caribbean blue. She has a tulle evening frock of this angelic shade that reminds one of moonlit, tropical nights. There is still another gown in her trousseau, one of robin's egg blue velvet that is simply stunning.

Enola Rogers was out of town last week, so Suzanne Kellogg was privileged to exercise Dan, her handsome saddle horse. Walter will simply have to find Suzanne a horse of her own—she is a fearless rider as well as an accomplished one.

Don't ever fool yourself into thinking that women dress for men. We can say without fear of contradiction that women dress for women. We knew it to be a fact last week when business and professional women attended their annual banquet in beautiful evening attire. There was Bernice Wright in white evening gown with crimson roses at her throat; there was Maible Hood in dubonnet evening model with a huge dubonnet flower on her head; Daisy Terzia was lovely in a black chiffon model with diamond clip; Johnnie Smith Elbert was wearing a lovely creation of white crepe and deep white fringe; Ida Kaplan was wearing black chiffon and pearls; Mabel Fisher wore a black velvet evening gown with multi-colored corsage. In fact, everyone looked lovely, and everyone was being told how charming she looked and how becoming was her gown. Such compliments rarely come from men.

An excellent thought is contained in "An Everyday Man's Prayer." We take pleasure in passing it on to others. Here it is: 'Teach me that sixty minutes make an hour, sixteen ounces one pound and one hundred cents one dollar. Help me to so live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal-ticket on the square and that in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts; blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at my dear wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with little children, and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades, and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard—make the ceremony short and the inscription on the tombstone simply: 'Here Lies a Man'."

Girl Scouts Are Entertained

Mrs. E. F. Kenny, chairman of the recently organized Girl Scout troop, entertained the members with a Halloween party at her suburban home on the Winnsboro road.

The garden was festooned with colored lights and games suggestive of the mystic season were introduced during the evening. Prizes were won by Theo Belle McClain, Margie Lolly, Thelma Shaw and Peggy Rasbury.

Refreshments were served during the evening by Mrs. Kenny, assisted by Mrs. E. L. Whittington, troop captain, and Mrs. A. Dougherty, Mrs. T. H. Elliott, Mrs. G. Vallery, Mrs. L. Gonzales, Mrs. W. S. Kenny, Miss Catheryn Whittington, Mrs. J. N. Tally and Miss Sophie Knox.

Troop members present were Margie Lolley, Margie Rushing, Ann Bradley, Hilda Bond, Lucille Gonzales, Francis McGee, Pauline Whittington, Elsie Whittington, Barbara Jean Whittington, Katie Lee Elliott, Dorothy Jane Elliott, Elsie Bryant, Althea Burkett, Patsy Joe Burkett, Cathryn Burkett, Mary Charles Burkett, Mary Goodwin, Rema Jane Farr, Virginia Snowden, Jessie Marie Finch, Thomasene Farmer, Thelma Shaw, Anita Shaw, Barbara Martin, Carolyn Barton, Marlyn Barton, Peggy Rasbury, Pauline Gallion, Joyce Griffin, Mary Catherine Boyce, Billy Sheppard, Charlotte Pettit, Doris Marie Brandon, Audrey Eastman, Ruth Kenderson, Leta Mae Bond, Eunice Bond, Betty Jean Talley, Gloria Young Green, Glenn Dora Green, Fesie Mae Kirkland, Inez Kirkland, Doris Carr, Lois Carr, Theo Belle McClain, Angelina Correro, Thomasine Dupree, Dorothy McCoy, Norma DeGry, Jewel Mae Kenny and Erline Isabelle Kenny.

Miss Dunn Marries Wilson Rogillio

Affectionate interest of friends in this section of the state is centered in the wedding of Miss Ruth Dunn, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Dunn of Clarks, and Mr. Wilson Rogillio, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rogillio, Friday night, October 14, at the country home of the bride's brother, Mr. Holmes Dunn, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The spacious living room was banked with beautiful autumn flowers for the ceremony, performed by Rev. Paul Jones.

The bride wore a handsome tailleur of teal blue wool material with chianti colored accessories. A corsage of bride's roses and valley lilies was worn.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were hosts at an informal supper party. The table, beautifully appointed, had for central decor a three-tiered wedding cake. The supper embraced several specialties including delicious confections served with the coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogillio will be at home to their friends with Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Dunn until their own home, now under construction, is completed. Mr. Dunn is associated with the Louisiana Central Lumber company of Clarks.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dunn of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dunn of Grayson; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Womack, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rogillio, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunn, Mrs. W. A. Smith, the Misses Chlotield and Myrtis Dunn, Miss Elsie Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Dunn.

Northeast Center To Present Play

Rehearsals for "Death Takes a Holiday," the first major production of Northeast Center of L. S. U., are now being held under the direction of Dr. Grace Ingledue, head of the department of speech.

Members of the cast were entertained Wednesday night by Dr. Ingledue in her suite at the Frances hotel. A social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served to J. W. Sanders, DeWitt Chandler, Roy Colter, Jack Hunter, Lorain Armstrong, Paul Karlowitz, Fred Gwin, Barbara Butler, Jane McMullen, Evelyn Bales, Marcelena Hill, Doris Deitrich and Martha Cook.

"Death Takes a Holiday," presented by this cast of talented students, promises to be one of the most dramatic presentations of the season at Northeast Center. Several members of the cast are majoring in speech and all have had considerable experience in amateur theatricals.

Nuptial Affairs Are Claiming Attention

Miss Helen Randle And Miss Sadye Lou Peters Are Central Figures At Several Charming Parties

Brown October ale is the drink of the month, but champagne is most definitely the vintage to drink a toast to the lovely brides who are claiming this month's spotlight. Pre-nuptial parties are taking place daily with the charming guests of honor in distinctive trousseau models, the central figures in a gay company of guests.

Miss Helen Randle, whose marriage to Mr. Hirschie Johnson of San Antonio, Tex., will take place Wednesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Robert O. Randle, of West Monroe, at 6:30 o'clock, is being feted daily.

Miss Sue Kilgore and Miss Helen Grant entertained at bridge in honor of Miss Randle. Superb orchid colored dahlias were used in extravagant array in the reception suite, where the interesting games of bridge were enjoyed.

The refreshment trays were centrally adorned with small baskets containing yellow chrysanthemums. A delicious salad course was served and trays of yellow embossed gateaux passed among the guests.

Miss Randle received from her hostesses a piece of silver in the Chantilly pattern.

The guests numbered: Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, Mrs. Robert Randle, Mrs. Albert Hill, Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mrs. R. E. Hendricks, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. George Guier, Mrs. Robert Hinton and Miss Dean McKoin.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell's bridge last Wednesday morning was a distinctive affair with pink Radiance and orchid ageratum effectively arranged in the living room and dining room.

Miss Randle received from her hostess a piece of silver in the pattern selected for her wedding silver.

Artistry was portrayed in the serving of the wedding bell ices and the heart-shaped cakes and wedding ring mints. A miniature bride, fashioned of crystallized candy, centered the table occupied by the guest of honor.

Thursday's compliment to Miss Randle was a bridge affair with Mrs. Robert Hinton as hostess.

Miss Randle was a charming figure in teal blue model with claret colored accessories.

Yellow chrysanthemums overflowng from urns formed a decorative background for the guests occupying the bridge tables in the reception suite.

Mrs. Hinton served her guests a luscious salad course and pastries embossed in blue and yellow. Her gift to Miss Randle was a beautiful pottery cream and sugar set.

Miss Sadye Lou Peters is another much feted bride-to-be.

One of the most charming compliments bestowed upon Miss Peters was Mrs. Augustus B. Calhoun's tea at her home in Bastrop.

Mrs. Shelby Calhoun, a bride of recent date, shared the honors with Miss Peters on this occasion.

The reception suite, flower-banked, was thronging with beautifully gowned guests, outstanding being Miss Peters in Caribbean blue taffeta model and Mrs. Calhoun in her wedding gown of ice-blue satin. The hostess was wearing hyacinth blue chiffon and Mrs. A. L. Peters, member of the receiving party, was wearing a Parma violet colored taffeta model.

It was a twilight tea, so candlelight was used in the dining room, where the tea table, covered with handsome Renaissance lace, was presided over by Mrs. Irving Wolff and Mrs. R. L. Credelle. The central decor was a graceful pergola entwined with pink roses beneath which stood a miniature bride and bridegroom in full wedding regalia.

Delicious patries, open-faced sandwiches and a variety of sweet confections were passed among the guests by Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Miss Jerry Trichell, Mrs. J. B. Rawlingston and Mrs. Jack Rawls.

Motoring to Bastrop from this city in addition to Miss Peters and her mother, Mrs. A. L. Peters, were Mrs. R. W. O'Donnell, Mrs. T. C. Drew, Miss Snow Drew, Miss Carrie D. Drew, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Miss Ella Rose Crawford, Miss Maible Hood, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Frances Thompson, Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Miss Jerry Trichell, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Joseph Anders, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. Fred Hanna, Miss Mamie Ober, Miss Mable Hunt and Mrs. John Coates.

Mrs. Charles S[illegible]n's coffee hour Friday morning was charming, with Miss Peters, in a smart black velvet tailleur with corsage of Talisman roses, the central figure.

The coffee table in the dining room, where beautiful flowers banked the buffet and side tables, was overlaid with Irish linen and lace. An immense silver basket overflowing with Talisman roses and russet hued dahlias, formed the central decor. Mrs. A. L. Peters and Mrs. C. R. Tidwell presided over the coffee urns.

Trays passed among the guests were laden with pastries, open-faced sandwiches, petit fours and wedding ring mints.

Mrs. Swain was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. Barlow Inabnet, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. H. Black, Mrs. Ezelle Smith, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. R. F. McCook and Mrs. H. Suret.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Gives 'Tacky' Party

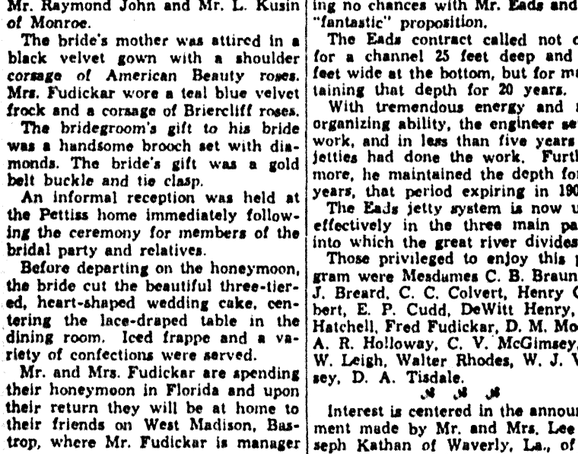

The "tacky" party given by Mrs. H. L. Logan for the benefit of the hospital fund of the auxiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was a merry one.

The guests were greeted with laughter as they arrived in their grotesque costumes. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Elmdorff and Mrs. Hunt. Refreshments were served to 30 guests. A "hobo" party is being planned for Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Christine G. Brown, 100 Ludwig, West Monroe. Each guest is asked to bring a tin plate, tin cup and spoon and to be dressed for the occasion.

Members are asked to remember the regular meeting of the auxiliary Thursday night.

Miss Francis Pettiss Becomes Bride Of Ernest Williams Fudickar At Bastrop

Nuptials Solemnized At Episcopal Church

Marriage Unites Two Prominent Northeast Louisiana Families; Informal Reception Held

Claiming prominence among the season's notable weddings was that of Miss Francis Pettiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Pettiss of Bastrop, and Mr. Ernest Williams Fudickar of Monroe, son of Mrs. Paul Fudickar and the late Mr. Fudickar, at Christ Episcopal church, Bastrop, on Tuesday, October 11, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with Rev. L. K. Young, rector, performing the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. W. E. Vann of Mansfield, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents and was privileged to baptize their two daughters.

The church was beautifully decorated. Southern smilax was massed in the background with graceful tendrils entwining the lattice work in the rear of the sanctuary. Cathedral tapers gleamed in stately candelabra flanking the altar where superb white chrysanthemums were massed. Two immense urns overflowing with pink gladioli were placed in the background. The railing, enclosing the sanctuary, was banked with pink roses and entwined with woodwardia fern.

The pews reserved for members of the family and intimate friends were designated by sprays of salmon pink gladioli, tied with bridal tulle.

A brilliant pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Miss Alma Goss, organist, and Miss Dean McKoin, violinist. Mrs. Lloyd O'Neal, soloist, sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because." For the processional Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered and for the recessional the wedding march from "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

Wearing bouffant gowns of poudre blue taffeta, the flower girls, Nina Joe Pettiss of Baton Rouge and Lou Rachel Kern of Bastrop, scattered rose petals as they walked down the white-carpeted aisle. They both wore cunning poke bonnets encircled with rose buds.

The bridesmaids, Miss Douglass Pettiss, sister of the bride, Miss Mary Hayward and Miss Annette Murchie, wore blue taffeta models fashioned along princess lines with blue velvet bows at the waistline and scattered over the bouffant skirts. The necklines were heart-shaped with short sleeves puffed at the shoulders. They wore chaplets of roses and chrysanthemums in their hair and carried fan-shaped bouquets of pink gladioli and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Arthur McMeans, matron of honor, wore a deep rose-colored taffeta model, an exact replica of the gowns worn by the bridesmaids. She wore a chaplet of blue delphinium and roses in her hair and carried a bouquet of blue delphinium and Token roses.

The ringbearer, Walter Pettiss, of Collinston, wore a navy blue Fauntleroy suit with a white satin blouse and pleated collar and cuffs.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin model with heart-shaped neckline. The long, leg-'o-mutton sleeves were buttoned to the elbow. Real lace was caught at the neck and sleeves. A row of tiny, self-covered buttons ended below the waistline in the back. The exquisite floor-length veil, the same worn by Mrs. Jake Kern at her wedding was caught with white orchids. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Fudickar was attended by his brother, Mr. Paul Fudickar. The ushers were Mr. Lloyd Barham of Bastrop, Mr. Jerry Pettiss of Collinston, Mr. Raymond John and Mr. L. Kusin of Monroe.

The bride's mother was attired in a black velvet gown with a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Fudickar wore a teal blue velvet frock and a corsage of Briercliff roses.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a handsome brooch set with diamonds. The bride's gift was a gold belt buckle and tie clasp.

An informal reception was held at the Pettiss home immediately following the ceremony for members of the bridal party and relatives.

Before departing on the honeymoon, the bride cut the beautiful three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake, centering the lace-draped table in the dining room. Iced frappe and a variety of confections were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Fudickar are spending their honeymoon in Florida and upon their return they will be at home to their friends on West Madison, Bastrop, where Mr. Fudickar is manager of the Bastrop Ice and Storage company.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Pettiss and three children of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Henry Wagner; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Williams, Mrs. Anna Hannah and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kellar of Monroe, grandparents of the bride.

Review Club Meets With Mrs. Colvert

The regular meeting of the Review club was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Colvert. Mrs. Walter Rhodes, president, presided over the business session. Delegates to the state convention were appointed at this time.

An unusually interesting program on "The Mississippi River and Its Unique Delta" was presented by Mrs. Fred Fudickar and Mrs. C. V. McGimsey, excerpts of which follow:

Louisiana has been called the land of perpetual romance, but the major romance of Louisiana is to be found in the progenitor of the entire state, the Father of Waters.

The length of the Mississippi is 2,500 miles. The mean velocity of the lower Mississippi is a little more than two miles per hour. The yearly discharge into the Gulf of Mexico is nearly 145 cubic miles. At the mouth of the Mississippi a large delta has been formed. The area of the delta is about 12,300 square miles, a third of which is seamarsh. The annual deposit of soil by the river would cover an area of about 280 square miles, one foot thick.

With its long fingers of silt thrust far out into the Gulf of Mexico, the "bird's foot" delta of the Mississippi is unlike that of any other major river on the globe.

Vast deposits and constant changes caused by floods tend to obstruct the entrance to the great river. Ninety years ago the federal government made the first appropriation for deepening these channels, and in the next forty years it succeeded, by means of crude dredging process, increasing the depth from 12 to 20 feet. In time of flood the Mississippi brings down for deposit at its mouth more than two million tons of sand a day. One can realize that this was a costly and disheartening battle.

During the year 1870 vessels had so increased in size and draft that a deeper channel became necessary. At this time there appeared before congress an engineering genius who persuaded that body to permit him, on a basis of "no cure, no pay" to attempt to provide and maintain a deep channel in his own way.

But when congress finally accepted this "can't lose" proposition of James B. Eads, the engineer was not permitted to use the southwest pass for his experiment as he had specified. This was the best of the three main passes and the government was taking no chances with Mr. Eads and his "fantastic" proposition.

The Eads contract called not only for a channel 25 feet deep and 200 feet wide at the bottom, but for maintaining that depth for 20 years.

With tremendous energy and rare organizing ability, the engineer set to work, and in less than five years his jetties had done the work. Furthermore, he maintained the depth for 20 years, that period expiring in 1901.

The Eads jetty system is now used effectively in the three main passes into which the great river divides.

Those privileged to enjoy this program were Mesdames C. B. Braun, B. J. Breard, C. C. Colvert, Henry Colbert, E. P. Cudd, DeWitt Henry, W. Hatchell, Fred Fudickar, D. M. Moore, A. R. Holloway, C. V. McGimsey, B. W. Leigh, Walter Rhodes, W. J. Vessey, D. A. Tisdale.

Literary Guild Meets At Dickard Residence

The Literary Guild met on Monday in the home of Mrs. Herbert Dickard. The subject for the afternoon was "French Period Furniture."

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. J. G. Durrett gave interesting reports from the club institute in Ruston on October 12. Delegates to the state convention in Baton Rouge were appointed at this time. After the business meeting the program for the afternoon on French period furniture was especially enjoyed by the members.

Mrs. J. P. Brown gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on "Provincial and Empire Furniture." Mrs. Durrett reviewed Louis XV and XVI period furniture.

She said: "After Louis XIV died and went to his particular heaven (all mirrors) in 1715, and the succession devolved upon his little gr '-grandson, aged five. This little chap reigned at first under the regency of Philippe d'Orleans. The particular regency of this man Philippe, a corrupt and profligate fellow, following as it did the extravagances of Louis XIV (that at any rate were clothed in dignity), brought about a change in social customs that is generally called 'Regence' of French regency.

"The feminine influence began to dominate. Furniture became less formal and heavy; the ladies liked curves, so the cabriole leg on table and chairs was introduced from Flanders, and the curved lines repeated in ornament and paneling. Colors and textiles were lighter and more dainty, and the most delightful whims and caprices began to appear in design. It was the climax in French decorative styles, the complete expression of the exquisite, fastidious, delicately senuous, always captivating and usually refined feminine French soul.

"The lengths to which the ladies went to attract the royal attention are delightfully apparent in the decorative devices of the time: in flower baskets and garlands, garden hats and dainty garden tools, in musical instruments and shepherds' crooks, ribbons, cupids, quivers and darts. These seductive appeals were carved, appliqued, cast in metal, woven, embroidered, painted plastered and printed on everything in sight.

"Toward the end of the reign of Louis XV (he reigned for 59 years), the increasing effort to attract attention finally ran through the more subtle mediums, and ornament was piled on ornament, curve on curve, until the period deteriorated into an orgy of ostentation known as Rococo—an expressive word for it. It is a shame that this should have happened, but it did, and by the time this monarch died, in 1774, the fashionable world was thoroughly sick of Rococo.

"When the world is weary of its follies in decoration as in everything else, it invariably turns back to the cooling sanity of the classic era. It did now. Nothing could have been more auspicious for the good of the exhausted nation—exhausted in purse as well as in decorative ideas—than the ascent to the throne of the grandson of Louis XV. He was a young man of mild and kindly temper with no particular notions of personal grandeur. Louis XVI's well-meaning decency brought about a marked change in decorative symbols. Curlicues and bandy legs were wiped out of fashion; classic simplicity of straight lines for paneling and furniture took their place, and beadings, reeding and formal scrolls outlined the perfectly proportioned rectangular forms. Designs for fabrics, especially noticeable in toile de Jouy, returned to the old motifs of goddesses, tripods, urns and pillars.

"It perfectly expresses the obvious intention of the young monarch to straighten things out. But he had a young queen beside him, a lovely, ambitious and extravagant creature named Marie Antoinette, to whom the charming foibles of the preceding reign were vastly more entertaining than straightening out the affairs of state. Therefore she picked out the best of these ideas and imbued them with her own delightful and pleasure-loving personality.

"It is interesting to note the difference in the designs (so often confused) in the periods of Louis XV and Louis XVI. Both are definitely feminine, but in the first instance they expressed femininity, and in the second they expressed Marie Antoinette. The change in furniture form to classic outline combined with the spontaneous gaiety and daintiness of the queen's favorite symbols brought about a decorative style that, while thoroughly French, is less dramatic and therefore more easily adapted to average use than the earlier periods. One can attempt the Marie Antoinette background because it endures simplification without loss of character, but, like all French styles, it must be carefully done. These styles express an artistry in living in which few of us are familiar, and we are apt, therefore, to dismiss them or treat them as frivolous. Nothing could be further from the truth. French decoration is about as frivolous as ballet dancing.

Club Discusses 'Birds Of America'

John Audubon's "Birds of America" was the interesting subject presented by Mrs. V. S. Garnett to the members of the Current Literature club when Mrs. G. D. Holland was the charming hostess last Wednesday.

Following the business session the club was inspired by an enthusiastic talk on "General Federation" by Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the fifth district of Louisiana Federated Current clubs.

Mrs. Dudley Stone also presented a well-developed talk on "Conservation in Louisiana" to the club which was received with much interest.

In her criticism of "Birds of America," Mrs. Garnett stated that Audubon was the greatest naturalist that ever lived. The author is said to be born in the late eighteenth century. His exact birthplace varies with many authorities. He was thought by a famous Louisiana writer to be the lost Dauphin of the French revolution.

Mrs. Garnett presented illustrations with interesting descriptions of the birds painted by this great naturalist, whose aide, Joseph Mason, painted most of the colorful background. Audubon was many years accomplishing his work. About a century ago his first book was published which cost $1,000. There has never been any greater naturalist before his time or since as great as Audubon.

Members present were: Mesdames John Best, R. L. Conway, Jr., V. S. Garnett, G. D. Holland, Mike John, Jr., J. E. Kersh, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Dudley Stone, Seiler, E. R. Whitaker, William Whitfield and the honored guest, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

By Eve C. Bradford

THESE glorious autumn days, as bright as bittersweet, will soon merge into early winter. Wild geese flying farther southward are nightly silhouetted against the harvest moon. Soon the hunter's moon will sail high in the heavens and the "old women's summer," deriving its name from a folklorish figure of speech based on the spider web filaments and seed fibers that float through the air in autumn, suggesting threads from an old woman's spinning wheel, will give place to cozy days before the fire.

Afternoon tea with its plates of intriguing little sandwiches, toothsome cakes, and a pot of steaming, fragrant orange pekoe and a gracious, unhurried hostess is something to think about when cool weather drives one indoors.

Bradley and Bernie Waelder are now facing a winter of great content in their country home on the West Side. They will be trotting out the silver tea service for friends who drop in to view their new abode. City dwellers who have a yen for the country will no doubt entertain an envious thought when they see Bradley and Bernie exuding contentment in their country home overlooking a peaceful hillside from which blows the keen sweetness of autumn air. The silence and the loneliness of the country is good for the soul.

Frank and Nellie Walke of Shreveport breezed into town the other day with a surprise for Nellie's mother, Mrs. T. T. Webb, who celebrated her birthday anniversary. The surprise was a birthday cake—a most unusual and most artistic confection in the shape of an open book with the name "Florence" inscribed across the open page. It was strictly a family affair but there was plenty of fun and laughter and a great manifestation of love. A beautiful devotion exists between Nellie and her mother.

We didn't think there was a woman that breathed who didn't entertain a pet superstition. We discovered that Grace Ingledue is absolutely without superstitions. She is directing a play, "Death Takes a Holiday," with a cast of thirteen. They meet in her room at the Frances hotel, where she is now making her home, for rehearsals. These thirteen face one another nightly without fear of the old superstition most of us are wary of. We know any number of people who positively cringe when they find there will be thirteen seated at a table.

Robert Layton's pet superstition is a black cat. One crossed his path when he was leaving the city for an automobile trip to Colorado several years ago. He postponed his trip until the next day.

Alice Briggs and Janet Powell fairly steeped themselves in the glamour of the circus last week. Not content to view the circus from a seat during the regular performance, they were on the grounds at 8 o'clock in the morning. They peeked in tents where the great army of workers were being fed—they petted the elephants and stroked the silky hair of the beautiful horses—they rubbed elbows with animal trainers and kicked the sawdust under their feet. They saw the lions consuming great hunks of raw meat, watched the gorilla groom its baby, and all but wept in sympathy for the freaks who were preparing themselves for the hordes who came to stare at them. The glamour of the circus is found by those who view the acts from the sidelines but the great heart of the circus is found only by those who prick below the surface.

We knew that Lelia Dean Frazier would be received with open arms by classmates when the time came for college. She is typically collegiate —just the type of girl sororities clamor for and campus societies welcome in their midst. She is a freshman at L. S. U., yet in this short space of time has been made a member of the Players' guild and is being featured in two plays. A lovely likeness of Lelia Dean appeared in the paper edited by the student body.

Who but Tom Sandridge would think to give a group of boys a week-end outing and plan ahead for their comfort and pleasure? He packed six boys in his automobile and motored over to Lake Bruin where three blissful days were spent fishing, boating and swimming and spinning yarns before an open fire. Tom took along his colored man to take care of the culinary end of things. It was the appetizing odor of bacon and coffee that awakened the boys each morning.

Three loves has Sadye Lou Peters—one is black and white which she wears to perfection, one is badminton and the other, of course, is her fiance, Credille Calhoun, whom she will wed next month. We thought that Sadye Lou looked best in black and white but we changed our mind last week when we glimpsed her in a hunter's green outfit with enormous kolinsky collar and a chic little green hat with a flowing green veil. Another color she wears to perfection is Caribbean blue. She has a tulle evening frock of this angelic shade that reminds one of moonlit, tropical nights. There is still another gown in her trousseau, one of robin's egg blue velvet that is simply stunning.

Enola Rogers was out of town last week, so Suzanne Kellogg was privileged to exercise Dan, her handsome saddle horse. Walter will simply have to find Suzanne a horse of her own—she is a fearless rider as well as an accomplished one.

Don't ever fool yourself into thinking that women dress for men. We can say without fear of contradiction that women dress for women. We knew it to be a fact last week when business and professional women attended their annual banquet in beautiful evening attire. There was Bernice Wright in white evening gown with crimson roses at her throat; there was Maible Hood in dubonnet evening model with a huge dubonnet flower on her head; Daisy Terzia was lovely in a black chiffon model with diamond clip; Johnnie Smith Elbert was wearing a lovely creation of white crepe and deep white fringe; Ida Kaplan was wearing black chiffon and pearls; Mabel Fisher wore a black velvet evening gown with multi-colored corsage. In fact, everyone looked lovely, and everyone was being told how charming she looked and how becoming was her gown. Such compliments rarely come from men.

An excellent thought is contained in "An Everyday Man's Prayer." We take pleasure in passing it on to others. Here it is: "Teach me that sixty minutes make an hour, sixteen ounces one pound and one hundred cents one dollar. Help me to so live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal-ticket on the square and that in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts; blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the dinner table at my dear wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with little children, and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades, and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard—make the ceremony short and the inscription on the tombstone simply: 'Here Lies a Man'."

Girl Scouts Are Entertained

Mrs. E. F. Kenny, chairman of the recently organized Girl Scout troop, entertained the members with a Halloween party at her suburban home on the Winnsboro road.

The garden was festooned with colored lights and games suggestive of the mystic season were introduced during the evening. Prizes were won by Theo Belle McClain, Margie Lolly, Thelma Shaw and Peggy Rasbury.

Refreshments were served during the evening by Mrs. Kenny, assisted by Mrs. E. L. Whittington, troop captain, and Mrs. A. Dougherty, Mrs. T. H. Elliott, Mrs. G. Vallery, Mrs. L. Gonzales, Mrs. W. S. Kenny, Miss Catheryn Whittington, Mrs. J. N. Tally and Miss Sophie Knox.

Troop members present were Margie Lolley, Margie Rushing, Ann Bradley, Hilda Bond, Lucille Gonzales, Francis McGee, Pauline Whittington, Elsie Whittington, Barbara Jean Whittington, Katie Lee Elliott, Dorothy Jane Elliott, Elsie Bryant, Althea Burkett, Patsy Joe Burkett, Cathryn Burkett, Mary Charles Burkett, Mary Goodwin, Rema Jane Farr, Virginia Snowden, Jessie Marie Finch, Thomasene Farmer, Thelma Shaw, Anita Shaw, Barbara Martin, Carolyn Barton, Marlyn Barton, Peggy Rasbury, Pauline Gallion, Joyce Griffin, Mary Catherine Boyce, Billy Sheppard, Charlotte Pettit, Doris Marie Brandon, Audrey Eastman, Ruth Kenderson, Leta Mae Bond, Eunice Bond, Betty Jean Talley, Gloria Young Green, Glenn Dora Green, Essie Mae Kirkland, Inez Kirkland, Doris Carr, Lois Carr, Theo Belle McClain, Angelina Correro, Thomasine Dupree, Dorothy McCoy, Norma DeGry, Jewel Mae Kenny and Erline Isabelle Kenny.

Miss Dunn Marries Wilson Rogillio

Affectionate interest of friends in this section of the state is centered in the wedding of Miss Ruth Dunn, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Dunn of Clarks, and Mr. Wilson Rogillio, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rogillio, Friday night, October 14, at the country home of the bride's brother, Mr. Holmes Dunn, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The spacious living room was banked with beautiful autumn flowers for the ceremony, performed by Rev. Paul Jones.

The bride wore a handsome tailleur of teal blue wool material with chianti colored accessories. A corsage of bride's roses and valley lilies was worn.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dunn were hosts at an informal supper party. The table, beautifully appointed, had for central decor a three-tiered wedding cake. The supper embraced several specialties including delicious confections served with the coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogillio will be at home to their friends with Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Dunn until their own home, now under construction, is completed. Mr. Dunn is associated with the Louisiana Central Lumber company of Clarks.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dunn of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dunn of Grayson; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Womack, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rogillio, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunn, Mrs. W. A. Smith, the Misses Chlotield and Myrtis Dunn, Miss Elsie Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Dunn.

Nuptial Affairs Are Claiming Attention

Miss Helen Randle And Miss Sadye Lou Peters Are Central Figures At Several Charming Parties

Brown October ale is the drink of the month, but champagne is most definitely the vintage to drink a toast to the lovely brides who are claiming this month's spotlight. Pre-nuptial parties are taking place daily with the charming guests of honor in distinctive trousseau models, the central figures in a gay company of guests.

Miss Helen Randle, whose marriage to Mr. Hirschie Johnson of San Antonio, Tex., will take place Wednesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Robert O. Randle, of West Monroe, at 6:30 o'clock, is being feted daily.

Miss Sue Kilgore and Miss Helen Grant entertained at bridge in honor of Miss Randle. Superb orchid colored dahlias were used in extravagant array in the reception suite, where the interesting games of bridge were enjoyed.

The refreshment trays were centrally adorned with small baskets containing yellow chrysanthemums. A delicious salad course was served and trays of yellow embossed gateaux passed among the guests.

Miss Randle received from her hostesses a piece of silver in the Chantilly pattern.

The guests numbered: Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, Mrs. Robert Randle, Mrs. Albert Hill, Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mrs. R. E. Hendricks, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. George Guler, Mrs. Robert Hinton and Miss Dean McKoin.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell's bridge last Wednesday morning was a distinctive affair with pink Radiance and orchid ageratum effectively arranged in the living room and dining room.

Miss Randle received from her hostess a piece of silver in the pattern selected for her wedding silver.

Artistry was portrayed in the serving of the wedding bell ices and the heart-shaped cakes and wedding ring mints. A miniature bride, fashioned of crystallized candy, centered the table occupied by the guest of honor.

Thursday's compliment to Miss Randle was a bridge affair with Mrs. Robert Hinton as hostess.

Miss Randle was a charming figure in teal blue model with claret colored accessories.

Yellow chrysanthemums overflowng from urns formed a decorative background for the guests occupying the bridge tables in the reception suite.

Mrs. Hinton served her guests a luscious salad course and pastries embossed in blue and yellow. Her gift to Miss Randle was a beautiful pottery cream and sugar set.

Miss Sadye Lou Peters is another much feted bride-to-be.

One of the most charming compliments bestowed upon Miss Peters was Mrs. Augustus B. Calhoun's tea at her home in Bastrop.

Mrs. Shelby Calhoun, a bride of recent date, shared the honors with Miss Peters on this occasion.

The reception suite, flower-banked, was thronging with beautifully gowned guests, outstanding being Miss Peters in Caribbean blue taffeta model and Mrs. Calhoun in her wedding gown of ice-blue satin. The hostess was wearing hyacinth blue chiffon and Mrs. A. L. Peters, member of the receiving party, was wearing a Parma violet colored taffeta model.

It was a twilight tea, so candlelight was used in the dining room, where the tea table, covered with handsome Renaissance lace, was presided over by Mrs. Irving Wolff and Mrs. R. L. Credelle. The central decor was a graceful pergola entwined with pink roses beneath which stood a miniature bride and bridegroom in full wedding regalia.

Delicious patries, open-faced sandwiches and a variety of sweet confections were passed among the guests by Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Miss Jerry Trichell, Mrs. J. B. Rawlingston and Mrs. Jack Rawls.

Motoring to Bastrop from this city in addition to Miss Peters and her mother, Mrs. A. L. Peters, were Mrs. R. W. O'Donnell, Mrs. T. C. Drew, Miss Snow Drew, Miss Carrie D. Drew, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Miss Ella Rose Crawford, Miss Maible Hood, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Miss Frances Thompson, Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Miss Jerry Trichell, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Joseph Anders, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. Fred Hanna, Miss Mamie Ober, Miss Mable Hunt and Mrs. John Coates.

Mrs. Charles S. ...in's coffee hour Friday morning was charming, with Miss Peters, in a smart black velvet tailleur with corsage of Talisman roses, the central figure.

The coffee table in the dining room, where beautiful flowers banked the buffet and side tables, was overlaid with Irish linen and lace. An immense silver basket overflowing with Talisman roses and russet hued dahlias, formed the central decor. Mrs. A. L. Peters and Mrs. C. R. Tidwell presided over the coffee urns.

Trays passed among the guests were laden with pastries, open-faced sandwiches, petit fours and wedding ring mints.

Mrs. Swain was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. Barlow Inabnet, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. H. Black, Mrs. Ezelle Smith, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. R. F. McCook and Mrs. H. Suret.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Gives 'Tacky' Party

The "tacky" party given by Mrs. H. L. Logan for the benefit of the hospital fund of the auxiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was a merry one.

The guests were greeted with laughter as they arrived in their grotesque costumes. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Elmdorff and Mrs. Hunt. Refreshments were served to 30 guests. A "hobo" party is being planned for Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Christine G. Brown, 100 Ludwig, West Monroe. Each guest is asked to bring a tin plate, tin cup and spoon and to be dressed for the occasion.

Members are asked to remember the regular meeting of the auxiliary Thursday night.

Presidents Of Local Women's Organizations Rapidly Becoming Expert Speakers

Difficult Places Of Leadership Mastered

Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Miss Julia Wossman, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale Are Among Capable Club Leaders

The speechmaking season is here again. New club presidents, embryo women politicians, brave or timid creatures who hope to say the right thing when the big moment arrives, are spending anxious moments wondering which words will be the most appropriate for stirring up the emotions of their audience and at the same time really do themselves proud.

Perhaps the greatest responsibility falls on the woman who has just been made president of a society. It will be necessary for her to make impromptu speeches, addresses of introduction, welcome, response, presentation, acceptance, farewell, eulogy and dedication. Some women, of course, are natural-born, silver-tongued orators but the vast majority suffer from a severe attack of stage fright when they face a large audience for the first time. The speaker is supposed to deliver a talk in an unassuming, intimate, natural, delightful manner, but this is a talent few are born with. It can be acquired, however, as manifested by club women of this city who have learned not to commence their speech by apologizing and to eliminate words.

Monroe boasts of one speaker in particular, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, who never disappoints an audience. She no doubt was as nervous and as timid as the average club president who makes her first speech before a large assemblage, when she was first introduced as a speaker, but much water has passed under the bridge since then.

Mrs. Mitchell has served in the capacity of president for numerous clubs and has occupied high state offices, being especially active in American Legion auxiliary work, having served for a term as state president. She is one of the outstanding figures in Camp Fire work and recently accepted the office of president of the Ouachita Valley Historical society. As the head of various committees it has been necessary for her to address vast assemblies and to deliver campaign speeches, to give addresses of welcome and presentation. Mrs. Mitchell is one of the most dependable speakers in the city and is ready at a minute's notice to stand and has learned after years of experience how to make club sisters proud of her platform performance.

Miss Julia Wossman is another dependable speaker. She possesses the faculty of saying the right thing at the right time and talks in the most natural, unassuming manner.

Dr. Julia Hunter, who served as president of American Association of University Women last year, is a forceful speaker. Her successor, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, is in the same category. She is capable of delivering a speech in delightful manner on any occasion.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Club women, is one of the most forceful speakers in local clubdom. For the past year she has been addressing women's clubs throughout the Fifth district and has learned to eliminate words and to stick to the point. Much of her own charming personality is injected into her talks. Her address before the Business and Professional Women's club at its annual banquet last week was clear and concise, serious at time with flashes of wit to relieve the dry facts.

Mrs. Bernice Wright, new president of the Business and Professional Women's club, made her first appearance in the capacity of president. She conducted the program with dignity and assurance and without manifestation of timidity.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson, the new president of the auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical society, had occasion to face a large assemblage when the state association convened in Monroe. She conducted the program with dignity and charm and won the admiration of all who were seated around the long banquet tables, including distinguished physicians and surgeons from various sections of the country. Mrs. Joseph P. Brown, president of the auxiliary at that time, presided and gave a charming address of welcome. She put the visitors in a friendly mood and proved how wise the members were in making her president of a group of intellectuals.

Claiming prominence among the speeches recently delivered in Fort Miro D. A. R. circles was that of Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson, who talked on the subject of "Americanism."

She said: "Americanism defined by Noah Webster, is 'attachment or loyalty to the United States, its traditions, interests or ideals.'

"Loyalty has ever been regarded as a prime requisite of an American. Our literature abounds with songs that emphasize the desire that our flag may long wave 'o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.' Philip Frenau, whose verse has won for him the title of 'father of American poetry,' voices this sentiment in the following lines:

"'In this our western world
Be freedom's flag unfurl'd
May freedom's fabric last
While time endures.'

"St. John de Crevecoeur in his 'Letters from an American Farmer,' George Washington in his 'Farewell Address,' and Thomas Jefferson in his 'First Inaugural Address,' reiterated the idea of loyalty to our country. To quote from Washington, 'The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism, more than any appellation derived from local discrimination.'

"Citizenship entails responsibility. Even today we need a clearer understanding of those eternal and unchanging values that secure the strong things of character. This kind of character is not affected by adversity or prosperity; its loyalties are fixed and unvarying. It is only citizens of such sterling qualities that can preserve to us the treasures we most desire. A nation is no greater than its individuals. A democracy can exist only as its citizens serve the ideals upon which it is established.

"Americanism more than any other 'ism should be taught in our schools. The history of our country is as rich in character and incident as any like period in the world's history. It has written within its annals names worthy to stand with the great men of all time. Let us endeavor to inspire each American citizen to become familiar with American history, American literature, American music and American government and ever to be loyal to American ideals."

Miss Alexander And Harold M. Case Wed

A wedding of interest in this section was solemnized Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the residence of the Most Rev. Bishop Richard O. Gerow in Natchez, Miss., when Miss Ora Angeline Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peter Alexander, Sr., became the bride of Mr. Harold Martin Case of Ferriday.

The double ring ceremony was performed quietly due to illness in the bride's family. Father Michael J. McCarthy, pastor of St. Mary's cathedral at Natchez, performed the ceremony. Attendants were Mrs. J. Y. White, Jr., sister of the bride, and Mr. Hoskins L. Deterly, both of Natchez.

Mrs. Case is a graduate of the Natchez High school, and later attended Mississippi State College for Women in Columbus, Miss. She is a popular member of the younger social set in Natchez and Ferriday, where she often visits.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. Martin Alexander Case and Mrs. Lottie Dora Case, and has been employed by newspapers in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama for the past 15 years. He is the correspondent at Ferriday for several newspapers and press associations and associate editor of the Concordia Sentinel of Ferriday.

Following the wedding the young couple departed for Baton Rouge to attend the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt game Saturday night, and from there they motored to New Orleans and the Mississippi gulf coast, where they will spend several days before returning home.

Much of her own charming personality is injected into her talks. Her address before the Business and Professional Women's club at its annual banquet last week was clear and concise, serious at time with flashes of wit to relieve the dry facts.

Mrs. Bernice Wright, new president of the Business and Professional Women's club, made her first appearance in the capacity of president. She conducted the program with dignity and assurance and without manifestation of timidity.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson, the new president of the auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical society, had occasion to face a large assemblage when the state association convened in Monroe. She conducted the program with dignity and charm and won the admiration of all who were seated around the long banquet tables, including distinguished physicians and surgeons from various sections of the country. Mrs. Joseph P. Brown, president of the auxiliary at that time, presided and gave a charming address of welcome. She put the visitors in a friendly mood and proved how wise the members were in making her president of a group of intellectuals.

Claiming prominence among the speeches recently delivered in Fort Miro D. A. R. circles was that of Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson, who talked on the subject of "Americanism."

She said: "Americanism defined by Noah Webster, is 'attachment or loyalty to the United States, its traditions, interests or ideals.'

"Loyalty has ever been regarded as a prime requisite of an American. Our literature abounds with songs that emphasize the desire that our flag may long wave 'o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.' Philip Frenau, whose verse has won for him the title of 'father of American poetry,' voices this sentiment in the following lines:

"'In this our western world
Be freedom's flag unfurl'd
May freedom's fabric last
While time endures.'

"St. John de Crevecoeur in his 'Letters from an American Farmer,' George Washington in his 'Farewell Address,' and Thomas Jefferson in his 'First Inaugural Address,' reiterated the idea of loyalty to our country. To quote from Washington, 'The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism, more than any appellation derived from local discrimination.'

"Citizenship entails responsibility. Even today we need a clearer understanding of those eternal and unchanging values that secure the strong things of character. This kind of character is not affected by adversity or prosperity; its loyalties are fixed and unvarying. It is only citizens of such sterling qualities that can preserve to us the treasures we most desire. A nation is no greater than its individuals. A democracy can exist only as its citizens serve the ideals upon which it is established.

"Americanism more than any other 'ism should be taught in our schools. The history of our country is as rich in character and incident as any like period in the world's history. It has written within its annals names worthy to stand with the great men of all time. Let us endeavor to inspire each American citizen to become familiar with American history, American literature, American music and American government and ever to be loyal to American ideals."

Miss Alexander And Harold M. Case Wed

A wedding of interest in this section was solemnized Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the residence of the Most Rev. Bishop Richard O. Gerow in Natchez, Miss., when Miss Ora Angeline Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peter Alexander, Sr., became the bride of Mr. Harold Martin Case of Ferriday.

The double ring ceremony was performed quietly due to illness in the bride's family. Father Michael J. McCarthy, pastor of St. Mary's cathedral at Natchez, performed the ceremony. Attendants were Mrs. J. Y. White, Jr., sister of the bride, and Mr. Hoskins L. Deterly, both of Natchez.

Mrs. Case is a graduate of the Natchez High school, and later attended Mississippi State College for Women in Columbus, Miss. She is a popular member of the younger social set in Natchez and Ferriday, where she often visits.

The groom is the son of the late Mr. Martin Alexander Case and Mrs. Lore Diers Case, and has been employed by newspapers in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama for the past 15 years. He is the correspondent at Ferriday for several newspapers and press associations and associate editor of the Concordia Sentinel of Ferriday.

Following the wedding, the young couple departed for Baton Rouge to attend the L. S. U.-Vanderbilt game Saturday night, and from there they motored to New Orleans and the Mississippi gulf coast, where they will spend several days before returning home.

Course In Modern Drama Available

A graduate course in modern drama is being organized through the general extension division of L. S. U. Dr. Grace Ingledue, head of the department of speech of Northeast Center of L. S. U., will teach the course. The course may be taken for non-credit by undergraduates or three hours of graduate credit will be granted to those eligible for credit. The course will include a study of dramatic literature of England, America and translations of Norwegian, German, French, Spanish, Russian, and Italian drama. Aspects of acting and production will be considered also. Those interested in the course will please meet with Dr. Ingledue at the Frances hotel.

University Women Hold Meeting

The American Association of University Women met Thursday evening with Mrs. C. C. Colvert.

The president, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, who presided during the evening, introduced the guest speaker, Dr. G. Douglas Williams, of the Ouachita parish health unit. Dr. Williams discussed "The Development of the Malaria Parasite," in a most interesting and forceful manner.

Reports from the following various committee chairmen were heard at this time: Fellowship, Mrs. Elmer Slagle; social studies, Mrs. W. C. Oliver; legislature chairman, Mrs. Fred Williamson; education, Miss Mary Hester; membership, Mrs. George Holland; international relations, Mrs. C. C. Colvert. Miss Clara Wood was elected to serve as publicity chairman.

Mrs. Colvert served her guests delicious refreshments during the social hour.

Present were Miss Myrtle Rodgers, Miss Lucyle Godwin, Miss Frances Flanders, Miss Catherine Wolfe, Mrs. John, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. George Holland, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Miss Clara Wood, Miss Dorothy Fluke, Miss Florence Gangstad, Miss Edwynne Joseph, Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. J. Noble White, Miss Dean McKoin, Miss Zelda Moss, Mrs. Fred Williamson, Miss Mary Wilson, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. W. R. Hammond and Miss Mary Hester.

P.-T. A. President To Attend Area Meetings

Mrs. Paul Blanchard Of Baton Rouge Will Include Fifth And Tenth Districts In Itinerary

Mrs. Paul Blanchard, Baton Rouge, state president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, who is making a tour of the state this month, will include both Fifth and Tenth districts in her itinerary this week.

October 25, according to Mrs. E. Fay Walter, acting director, is the date of the fall meeting of the Tenth district P.-T. A., which will be held in the Sicily Island High school auditorium, Sicily Island. The meeting will open promptly at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Blanchard will discuss "The Relation of the Local Unit to the National Congress."

Other speakers are Mrs. Allen L. Price, past district director, and Mrs. W. B. Glover, state chairman of goals. Mrs. Price will speak on parent education and Mrs. Glover will explain the goals as set up by the state.

The units of the Tenth district are urged to send a representation and a cordial invitation is extended to visitors.

Luncheon will be served by the Sicily Island P.-T. A.

Wednesday, October 26, Mrs. Blanchard will address the members of the Fifth district at their meeting in Lake Providence, which will be held in the Lake Providence High school, with Mrs. Carl Couch, district director presiding.

The following program will be given:

9:30-9:55—Assembly singing. Mrs. Herman Schwartz, pianist, Mrs. R. E. McClendon leading vocalist.

9:55-10—Invocation, Rev. George A. Nelson, Baptist minister.

10-10:15—Address of welcome, Dr. T. G. Biggs, mayor of Lake Providence.

10:15-10:20—Response, Mrs. Jack Castle, welfare chairman Ouachita Parish High school.

10:20-10 Business.

10:30-10:45—Introduction of state officers, Mrs. C. L. Couch.

10:45-11:00—Local unit presidents' reports.

11:30-11:45—"Publications," Mrs. G. A. Aden, president, Neville P.-T. A.

11:45-12:00—"Safety," Mrs. G. B. Wilson of Monroe, state safety chairman.

12-1—Luncheon at municipal auditorium.

1-1:15—Playlet on "Membership," Epps P.-T. A.

1:15-1:30 — "Publicity," Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Monroe, state publicity chairman.

1:30-2:30—Question box, conducted by state officers.

Scrap Book Rules

The following announcement of rules governing the compilation of parent-teacher publicity scrap books, is made by the state publicity chairman of the Louisiana P.-T. A.:

1. All scrap books must be entered at the district meeting held preceding the state convention, which will be held in April in Monroe. The three best books will be selected by a committee appointed by the district director. These three books will then be sent on to the state convention.

2. The books will be judged for good publicity, neatness and methodical arrangement. The points to be considered will be:

a. Number of stories of P.-T. A. activities, including advance stories of meetings, follow up stories, projects of association, social affairs of P.-T. A. and activities of committees. All stories must pertain strictly to P.-T. A. affairs.

b. Each clipping must have date of publication and name of paper in which it appeared.

3. The first few pages of the scrap book should contain the following information:

a. Name of association.
b. Name of school and picture.
c. Number of teachers in school and number of pupils.
d. Population of town.
e. Names of newspapers in which publicity appeared.
f. Names of officers of P.-T. A.
g. Names of publicity chairman and person who compiled book.

4. The book must have an index.

5. A section may be devoted to inside publicity which will include mimeographed programs used in meetings, posters, invitations issued by P.-T. A. and pictures of P.-T. A. activities.

6. The regulation scrap book will be used and may be secured from the Peerless Printing company, 305 Chartres street, New Orleans.

Lida Benton

Mrs. C. L. Couch, president of the Fifth district Parent-Teacher association, addressed the membership of the Lida Benton P.-T. A. on the afternoon of October 20. Her remarks were based on the organizaton of a P.-T. A. principally concerning the duties of the general officers and chairmen of committees. She gave an interesting report of work made possible by the dues sent to the state and national offices. A dramatic illustration was the activity of the extension department in organizing and fostering P.-T. A. units in the rural sections.

Her audience was impressed by her vision of the possibilities of a local organization when it has well-planned programs and a definite goal of service.

The same afternoon Mrs. Joe Durrett presided over the first session of a course in home-making. She chose as her subject, "The Family in a Democracy," comparing the family of today with that of three generations ago. Religious training in the home and the interest in education for every member of the family were discussed with a sincerity that charmed her hearers. Since political and economic affairs influence family life, the scope of the lessons will be broadened to cover events of the present day.

Mrs. Durrett announced that her next subject will be "The Citizen in the Nursery," and will be presented at the regular P.-T. A. meeting in November.

Central Grammar

"Partners in Progress" was the theme of Mrs. Carl Couch, Fifth district P.-T. A. leader, in a talk made Thursday before the P.-T. A. of the Central Grammar school, which is the subject for the month adopted by the organization.

Mrs. Couch described the functions of the national, state and district groups as efforts exerted for the welfare and upbuilding of childhood and paying dividends in the upbuilding of happy homes. She cited Theodore Roosevelt when he said that the most constructive force in the world is the P.-T. A. She said that each and every school should have an active P.-T. A. to become completely helpful.

The parent-teacher organization is interested in promoting child welfare; in seeing that adequate laws are passed; that medical and dental aid are obtainable when required; that children are kept in school; that mental, social and spiritual uplifts are given and that strong, developed minds are created in healthy bodies.

She said that six new units were organized in the district last year and that good progress was made.

Room mothers were asked to serve on the membership committee and it was urged that every home represented in each room be paid visits.

Reports were rendered by the various officers and the theme for next month was given as "The School's Part in Progress." At the suggestion of Miss Katherine Key, principal, a welfare chairman was named, Mrs. Dortez being selected.

Mrs. E. G. Courtney, Sr., president, who presided at the meeting, announced that municipal buses will take delegations to Lake Providence to attend the district meeting there. Attention was called to the milk fund drive which was held Saturday for the benefit of the Twin City council of P.-T. A., a tag day being held.

The mother singers will again be active this year, it is planned, and will be trained free of charge by Roger Frisbie of Northeast Center.

Mrs. Courtney announced that she will donate a Victrola to the Central school. The instrument is a beautiful one and the gift will be much appreciated.

Sherrouse

Sherrouse P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the school auditorium. The president, Mrs. E. J. Brown, presided over the business session. The following committee chairmen were appointed: Membership, Mrs. W. W. Stevens; finance, Mrs. P. A. Bennett; hospitality, Mrs. John Calhoun; program, Mrs. C. C. Lindley; publications, Mrs. W. S. Vincent; publicity, Mrs. Paul J. Lochbaum; safety, Mrs. Arch Parker; goals, Mrs. G. A. Aden.

The following program was presented by Mrs. C. C. Lindley; theme, "State and National as Partners in Progress," assembly singing, scripture, Psalm 15, Parent-Teacher prayer, by Mrs. John Calhoun, the president's message, by Mrs. M. Heidenreich.

The school pupils presented a "Child Activity Display." "The State and National Congress," a talk by Mrs. C. L. Couch, Fifth district director, concluded a well-planned program. Members of the Sherrouse P.-T. A. will participate in the Twin City milk fund tag day sale Saturday. The membership chairman, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, reported a successful membership drive. The president urges as many members as possible to attend the Fifth district meeting to be held in Lake Providence, Wednesday, October 26.

St. Matthew's

The executive committee of St. Matthew's P.-T. A. met Wednesday. The president, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, presided. The P.-T. A. will sponsor a Halloween party Thursday night. There will be a cakewalk and Mrs. Stanley Hodges will direct a floor show. St. Matthew's P.-T. A. will sell tags Saturday for the Twin City council milk fund drive. Members are urged to attend the fall district meeting Wednesday, October 26, at Lake Providence.

Ouachita Parish

The Ouachita Parish Parent-Teacher association held its regular meeting in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon.

The meeting opened with invocation by Rev. H. L. Johns. The program committee distributed attractive yearbooks, containing valuable reference, the officers and standing committees, activities and planned programs for the entire year. The membership committee reported a large number of paid-up members and asked to extend the campaign another month. The student aid committee read a report of work being done for underprivileged students. Looking toward convention, "Mother Singers" were urged to report to Mrs. Fred W. Keller, chairman.

The program was delightful. The senior band, in its colorful uniforms, directed by Mr. Walter Minnicar, rendered "Washington Post," by Sousa; "In the Hall of a Mountain King," by Grieg, and "In a Chinese Temple Garden," by Ketelby. Miss Sue Hefley, librarian, Northeast Center, L. S. U., met the parents and teachers on a common meeting ground with history of literature of young people. Beginning with "Mother Goose," Miss Hefley covered books not written for, but generally read to children: "Aesop Fables," "Arabian Nights," "Pilgrim's Progress" and so on through the list. Next, Miss Hefley gave the development of books written for children, at first tiny in size, colorful and attractive. Mentioning authors, Miss Hefley traced this great creative force to the highly specialized Newberry prize books.

Tallulah

The Tallulah Parent-Teacher association met in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Neal T. Holt, the new president, presiding, and Mrs. Paul Schwartz serving as secretary. Rev. H. N. Alexander offered the invocation.

Mrs. Charles Coltharp gave a report of the work of the summer roundup committee and the eye clinics held during the vacation period. The organization voted to revise the by-laws to conform with the state, to arrange for securing year books for all members and for the formation of a study group and a choral gorup.

The president read a paper on "Goals," setting forth the objectives of the new year's work. Mrs. Lucien Farr's room of the elementary grades and the 11th grade received the awards for the highest percentage of parents present.

Sterlington

At a meeting of the Sterlington P.-T. A. recently held at the A. L. Smith school, the following program was presented:

Scripture reading, Mrs. Cooper.

"Partners in Progress," the annual theme of the Parent-Teacher association.

"Parents as Partners in Progress," theme for October.

Story, second grade.

"The Parent and Child in School," Mrs. J. H. Young.

Poem, "Patience," Mrs. Rose Perry.

A large number of the members was in attendance. The second grade won the room prize, also the prize for P.-T. A. membership. Refreshments were served during the social period.

The president, Mrs. H. D. Matkins, announced the November meeting would be held at night at 7:30, thus enabling as many fathers as possible to attend.

Jonesboro Elementary

The Jonesboro Elementary P.-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. John McBride of the Tuberculosis and Health association of the state addressed the group. Dr. C. S. McDonald, president of the Jackson parish organization, also addressed the meeting.

After this meeting, a short business session was held, presided over by Mrs. Percy Dunn. Mrs. Neil Thomas presented the safety poster plan and the membership committee made a glowing report. Mrs. Henry Stovall, president of the local organization, will attend the ninth district meeting held in Simsboro on Thursday.

MYSTERY AT THE LAZY R

BY CLARKE NEWLON

CHAPTER I

Noisy, impatient Grand Central station lowered its voice and consciously paused to make a path for Nikki as she walked across the concourse between the two tall men. It was a tribute to lissome youth and loveliness with golden lights, a figure that men wanted to paint or possess. At the gate she paused and spoke to her father.

"Goodby dear, I'll wire you when we arrive. Steve will take good care of me." She smiled at the young man standing hat in hand, kissed her father and patted him lightly on the shoulder. "Don't worry so much about your old diamonds. I wish you were coming with us."

Peter Jerome smiled back at his only daughter. "Have a good time and give my love to Uncle Jim and Aunt Amy," he said. "Have your bags gone on down?"

"The redcap took them on to the train," said Steve. "We'd better go too." He grinned. "I'll keep Nikki away from wild horses and tame cowboys. Goodby sir."

Nikki's father followed the course of his daughter and the man she was engaged to marry down the ramp and then he turned away to take a cab. But as he turned his eye caught a figure going through the gate, and he halted, startled.

He raised his arm in an involuntary gesture as though to call the man he had seen. Then he paused thoughtfully, wrote hurriedly in a notebook, tore out the sheet and gave it to a redcap with a dollar and careful directions. That done, Peter Jerome continued on his way, a worried line creasing his forehead.

In her stateroom Nikki removed the tiny jacket of her tailored bolero suit, untied the wisp of a veil and laid aside her straw sailor. Then she turned to the bags the porter had placed in her stateroom before she arrived. Nikki thought about the trip ahead with a feeling of anticipation. She hadn't seen her aunt and uncle for five years, which seemed suddenly a long, long time, because previously she had spent at least part of every summer on the Lazy R ranch and Aunt Amy had really taken the place of a mother in her affections since her own mother had died.

Nikki supposed that Uncle Jim was busier now that he had turned the Lazy R into a dude ranch. She remembered him writing that "you easterners will always pay a good price to be entertained, but I can't tell anymore what I'll get for a carload of steers at Chicago." He had been very successful, Nikki knew.

Five years away. And during those five years she had finished school, made her debut, spent a year in Europe and become engaged to Steve Mallory, the young attorney who was this moment arranging his own luggage in another stateroom. He would join her in a few moments for Stephen Mallory was impatient of things which kept Nikki away from him as he was impatient with details and monotony and dullness. She had known Steve less than a year but he had a way of brushing aside opposition.

Nikki glanced at her own profile in the mirror, a slightly imperious profile if she had recognized it as such, and pressed the release snaps on her dressing case.

She raised the lid and stood staring with sharply indrawn breath. She touched the case with one finger. It was an unconscious movement.

For in the case, instead of her own neat array of toilet articles, Nikki saw bundle upon bundle of green and gold currency heaped in fascinating disorder.

There were packets of ten dollar bills, twenties and fifties, precisely bound and each labeled "$1,000." They had evidently been packed in stacks of denominations, but in movement the bundles had been mixed and confused.

The first thought Nikki had was that the interior of the case looked like a bank teller's cage after an earthquake. Letting her breath out slowly she touched the money gingerly as though expecting to see it fade away and be replaced by the familiar golden tops of the jars in her toilet case. But the money remained.

There must be at least a hundred of the bundles, Nikki thought. Whose money was it and why was it in her bag? Nikki thought back. The maid had packed for her. Well, the maid certainly hadn't put $100,000 in her bag. Nor had anyone else. It was impossible. But there it was, impossible or not.

A dozen thoughts started through her head. She should call the conductor. No, better call Steve. Maybe the money was stolen. Maybe it was counterfeit. They might be involved in some long investigation and have to return to New York. They might even be suspected of something, heavens knows what.

Then Nikki saw a brown morocco edge among the piles of green and yellow, and she lifted out a man's wallet that apparently had been tossed into the case with the money. It was an ordinary enough wallet. Nikki had seen others like it in the hands of escorts who had leafed out bills to settle countless checks for countless dinners and lunches.

She opened the billfold and across the inside flap read in plain gold lettering:

"Charles Dillon."

Nikki repeated the name to herself and she held the wallet a moment and then dropped it back into the bag. As she did there was a movement at the door. The lock clicked. Nikki turned half in panic her right hand making an involuntary gesture to close the bag.

"That's right," said the man standing in the opened door. "Close it back up. And then just forget that you ever saw it." His eyes were on the case.

The voice wasn't unpleasant. It was low and rather smooth, the voice of a man very sure of himself and very sure of the situation. Nor was the man unpleasant. His medium height fitted compactly into a dark suit. His age was indeterminate—maybe 35, maybe 40. A little too well barbered, thought Nikki.

She let the lid of the dressing case drop and glanced back at the owner of the voice. He wasn't looking at the bag now. He was looking at her. He saw the blond hair and the wide gray eyes that were even wider now as they stared at him. He saw the smooth column of her throat, the firm chin and the lower lip whose fullness was a perfect foil for the curving line of the upper. He saw the slimly curving figure with its deceptive suggestion of fragile delicacy.

Then he spoke again, but his eyes hadn't ceased their covetous admiration. His voice was still smooth, low.

The voice and the eyes don't fit, thought Nikki. The eyes are his. The voice he has stolen from someone else. It doesn't belong. She fought off a feeling that she was standing half-dressed. She heard him saying:

"I am very sorry. The bags were together and the porter made a mistake. Not a very serious mistake, although I really haven't much use for the things in this." He held out a dressing case and Nikki saw then that the bag in his hand and the one which held the money were identical.

He stepped over to her and set the bag in his hand down, fastening the case which held the packets of bills.

"I think you will find all of your things in good order. His eyes were still upon her as he bowed slightly at the door and was gone.

It was only seconds after he left that a knock sounded on her stateroom. Nikki hadn't moved.

The second rap was followed by "Redcap" and Nikki opened the door to take a note from the colored boy. She felt the train jerk and slowly glide into motion as it left the station. The note was from her father and read:

"Be on your guard but under no circumstances antagonize Charles Dillon who is on the same train. This extremely confidential. Will explain later."

Nikki turned half in panic. . . . "That's right," said the man standing in the opened door. "Close it back up and then just forget that you ever saw it."

THE MISERY OF COLDS BEGINS TO GO
When you just do this:
Massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. (No dosing, no stomach upsets.)

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors released by the body warmth are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.
This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.
Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder 3 out of 5 mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!

P.-T. A. President To Attend Area Meetings

Mrs. Paul Blanchard Of Baton Rouge Will Include Fifth And Tenth Districts In Itinerary

Mrs. Paul Blanchard, Baton Rouge, state president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, who is making a tour of the state this month, will include both Fifth and Tenth districts in her itinerary this week.

October 25, according to Mrs. E. Fay Walter, acting director, is the date of the fall meeting of the Tenth district P.-T. A., which will be held in the Sicily Island High school auditorium, Sicily Island. The meeting will open promptly at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Blanchard will discuss "The Relation of the Local Unit to the National Congress."

Other speakers are Mrs. Allen L. Price, past district director, and Mrs. W. B. Glover, state chairman of goals. Mrs. Price will speak on parent education and Mrs. Glover will explain the goals as set up by the state.

The units of the Tenth district are urged to send a representation and a cordial invitation is extended to visitors.

Luncheon will be served by the Sicily Island P.-T. A.

Wednesday, October 26, Mrs. Blanchard will address the members of the Fifth district at their meeting in Lake Providence, which will be held in the Lake Providence High school, with Mrs. Carl Couch, district director presiding.

The following program will be given:

9:30-9:55—Assembly singing. Mrs. Herman Schwartz, pianist, Mrs. R. E. McClendon leading vocalist.

9:55-10—Invocation, Rev. George A. Nelson, Baptist minister.

10-10:15—Address of welcome, Dr. T. G. Biggs, mayor of Lake Providence.

10:15-10:20—Response. Mrs. Jack Castle, welfare chairman Ouachita Parish High school.

10:20-10:30—Business.

10:30-10:45—Introduction of state officers, Mrs. C. L. Couch.

10:45-11:00—Local unit presidents' reports.

11:00-11:30—"Partners in Progress," Mrs. Paul A. Blanchard, president Louisiana Congress of Parent-Teachers, Baton Rouge.

11:30-11:45—"Publications," Mrs. G. A. Aden, president, Neville P.-T. A.

11:45-12:00—"Safety," Mrs. G. B. Wilson of Monroe, state safety chairman.

12-1—Luncheon at municipal auditorium.

1-1:15—Playlet on "Membership," Epps P.-T. A.

1:15-1:30 — "Publicity." Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Monroe, state publicity chairman.

1:30-2:30—Question box, conducted by state officers.

Scrap Book Rules

The following announcement of rules governing the compilation of parent-teacher publicity scrap books, is made by the state publicity chairman of the Louisiana P.-T. A.:

1. All scrap books must be entered at the district meeting held preceding the state convention, which will be held in April in Monroe. The three best books will be selected by a committee appointed by the district director. These three books will then be sent on to the state convention.

2. The books will be judged for good publicity, neatness and methodical arrangement. The points to be considered will be:

a. Number of stories of P.-T. A. activities, including advance stories of meetings, follow up stories, projects of association, social affairs of P.-T. A. and activities of committees. All stories must pertain strictly to P.-T. A. affairs.

b. Each clipping must have date of publication and name of paper in which it appeared.

3. The first few pages of the scrap book should contain the following information:

a. Name of association.

b. Name of school and picture.

c. Number of teachers in school and number of pupils.

d. Population of town.

e. Names of newspapers in which publicity appeared.

f. Names of officers of P.-T. A.

g. Names of publicity chairman and person who compiled book.

4. The book must have an index.

5. A section may be devoted to inside publicity which will include mimeographed programs used in meetings, posters, invitations issued by P.-T. A. and pictures of P.-T. A. activities.

6. The regulation scrap book will be used and may be secured from the Peerless Printing company, 305 Chartres street, New Orleans.

Lida Benton

Mrs. C. L. Couch, president of the Fifth district Parent-Teacher association, addressed the membership of the Lida Benton P.-T. A. on the afternoon of October 20. Her remarks were based on the organizaton of a P.-T. A. principally concerning the duties of the general officers and chairmen of committees. She gave an interesting report of work made possible by the dues sent to the state and national offices. A dramatic illustration was the activity of the extension department in organizing and fostering P.-T. A. units in the rural sections.

Her audience was impressed by her vision of the possibilities of a local organization when it has well-planned programs and a definite goal of service.

The same afternoon Mrs. Joe Durrett presided over the first session of a course in home-making. She chose as her subject, "The Family in a Democracy," comparing the family of today with that of three generations ago. Religious training in the home and the interest in education for every member of the family were discussed with a sincerity that charmed her hearers. Since political and economic affairs influence family life, the scope of the lessons will be broadened to cover events of the present day.

Mrs. Durrett announced that her next subject will be "The Citizen in the Nursery," and will be presented at the regular P.-T. A. meeting in November.

Central Grammar

"Partners in Progress" was the theme of Mrs. Carl Couch, Fifth district P.-T. A. leader, in a talk made Thursday before the P.-T. A. of the Central Grammar school, which is the subject for the month adopted by the organization.

Mrs. Couch described the functions of the national, state and district groups as efforts exerted for the welfare and upbuilding of childhood and paying dividends in the upbuilding of happy homes. She cited Theodore Roosevelt when he said that the most constructive force in the world is the P.-T. A. She said that each and every school should have an active P.-T. A. to become completely helpful.

The parent-teacher organization is interested in promoting child welfare; in seeing that adequate laws are passed; that medical and dental aid are obtainable when required; that children are kept in school; that mental, social and spiritual uplifts are given and that strong, developed minds are created in healthy bodies.

She said that six new units were organized in the district last year and that good progress was made.

Room mothers were asked to serve on the membership committee and it was urged that every home represented in each room be paid visits.

Reports were rendered by the various officers and the theme for next month was given as "The School's Part in Progress." At the suggestion of Miss Katherine Key, principal, a welfare chairman was named, Mrs. Dortez being selected.

Mrs. E. G. Courtney, Sr., president, who presided at the meeting, announced that municipal buses will take delegations to Lake Providence to attend the district meeting there. Attention was called to the milk fund drive which was held Saturday for the benefit of the Twin City council of P.-T. A., a tag day being held.

The mother singers will again be active this year, it is planned, and will be trained free of charge by Roger Frisbie of Northeast Center.

Mrs. Courtney announced that she will donate a Victrola to the Central school. The instrument is a beautiful one and the gift will be much appreciated.

Sherrouse

Sherrouse P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the school auditorium. The president, Mrs. E. J. Brown, presided over the business session. The following committee chairmen were appointed: Membership, Mrs. W. W. Stevens; finance, Mrs. P. A. Bennett; hospitality, Mrs. John Calhoun; program, Mrs. C. C. Lindley; publications, Mrs. W. S. Vincent; publicity, Mrs. Paul J. Lochbaum; safety, Mrs. Arch Parker; goals, Mrs. G. A. Aden.

The following program was presented by Mrs. C. C. Lindley; theme, "State and National as Partners in Progress," assembly singing, scripture, Psalm 15, Parent-Teacher prayer, by Mrs. John Calhoun, the president's message, by Mrs. M. Heidenreich.

The school pupils presented a "Child Activity Display." "The State and National Congress," a talk by Mrs. C. L. Couch, Fifth district director, concluded a well-planned program. Members of the Sherrouse P.-T. A. will participate in the Twin City milk fund tag day sale Saturday. The membership chairman, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, reported a successful membership drive. The president urges as many members as possible to attend the Fifth district meeting to be held in Lake Providence, Wednesday, October 26.

St. Matthew's

The executive committee of St. Matthew's P.-T. A. met Wednesday. The president, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, presided. The P.-T. A. will sponsor a Halloween party Thursday night. There will be a cakewalk and Mrs. Stanley Hodges will direct a floor show. St. Matthew's P.-T. A. will sell tags Saturday for the Twin City council milk fund drive. Members are urged to attend the fall district meeting Wednesday, October 26, at Lake Providence.

Ouachita Parish

The Ouachita Parish Parent-Teacher association held its regular meeting in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon.

The meeting opened with invocation by Rev. H. L. Johns. The program committee distributed attractive yearbooks, containing valuable reference, the officers and standing committees, activities and planned programs for the entire year. The membership committee reported a large number of paid-up members and asked to extend the campaign another month. The student aid committee read a report of work being done for underprivileged students. Looking toward convention, "Mother Singers" were urged to report to Mrs. Fred W. Keller, chairman.

The program was delightful. The senior band, in its colorful uniforms, directed by Mr. Walter Minniear, rendered "Washington Post," by Sousa; "In the Hall of a Mountain King," by Grieg, and "In a Chinese Temple Garden," by Ketelby. Miss Sue Hefley, librarian, Northeast Center, L. S. U., met the parents and teachers on a common meeting ground with history of literature of young people. Beginning with "Mother Goose," Miss Hefley covered books not written for, but generally read to children: "Aesop Fables," "Arabian Nights," "Pilgrim's Progress" and so on through the list. Next, Miss Hefley gave the development of books written for children, at first tiny in size, colorful and attractive. Mentioning authors, Miss Hefley traced this great creative force to the highly specialized Newberry prize books.

Tallulah

The Tallulah Parent-Teacher association met in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Neal T. Holt, the new president, presiding, and Mrs. Paul Schwartz serving as secretary. Rev. H. N. Alexander offered the invocation.

Mrs. Charles Coltharp gave a report of the work of the summer roundup committee and the eye clinics held during the vacation period. The organization voted to revise the by-laws to conform with the state, to arrange for securing year books for all members and for the formation of a study group and a choral gorup.

The president read a paper on "Goals," setting forth the objectives of the new year's work. Mrs. Lucien Farr's room of the elementary grades and the 11th grade received the awards for the highest percentage of parents present.

Sterlington

At a meeting of the Sterlington P.-T. A. recently held at the A. L. Smith school, the following program was presented:

Scripture reading, Mrs. Cooper.

"Partners in Progress," the annual theme of the Parent-Teacher association.

"Parents as Partners in Progress," theme for October.

Story, second grade.

Songs, second grade.

"The Parent and Child in School," Mrs. J. H. Young.

Poem, "Patience," Mrs. Rose Perry.

A large number of the members was in attendance. The second grade won the room prize, also the prize for P.-T. A. membership. Refreshments were served during the social period.

The president, Mrs. H. D. Matkins, announced the November meeting would be held at night at 7:30, thus enabling as many fathers as possible to attend.

Jonesboro Elementary

The Jonesboro Elementary P.-T. A. met Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. John McBride of the Tuberculosis and Health association of the state addressed the group. Dr. C. S. McDonald, president of the Jackson parish organization, also addressed the meeting.

After this meeting, a short business session was held, presided over by Mrs. Percy Dunn. Mrs. Neil Thomas presented the safety poster plan and the membership committee made a glowing report. Mrs. Henry Stovall, president of the local organization, will attend the ninth district meeting held in Simsboro on Thursday.

MYSTERY AT THE LAZY R

BY CLARKE NEWLON

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER 1

Noisy, impatient Grand Central station lowered its voice and consciously paused to make a path for Nikki as she walked across the concourse between the two tall men. It was a tribute to lissome youth and loveliness with golden lights, a figure that men wanted to paint or possess. At the gate she paused and spoke to her father.

"Goodby dear, I'll wire you when we arrive. Steve will take good care of me." She smiled at the young man standing hat in hand, kissed her father and patted him lightly on the shoulder, "Don't worry so much about your old diamonds. I wish you were coming with us."

Peter Jerome smiled back at his only daughter. "Have a good time and give my love to Uncle Jim and Aunt Amy," he said. "Have your bags gone on down?"

"The redcap took them on to the train," said Steve. "We'd better go too." He grinned. "I'll keep Nikki away from wild horses and tame cowboys. Goodby sir."

Nikki's father followed the course of his daughter and the man she was engaged to marry down the ramp and then he turned away to take a cab. But as he turned his eye caught a figure going through the gate, and he halted, startled.

He raised his arm in an involuntary gesture as though to call the man he had seen. Then he paused thoughtfully, wrote hurriedly in a notebook, tore out the sheet and gave it to a redcap with a dollar and careful directions. That done, Peter Jerome continued on his way, a worried line creasing his forehead.

In her stateroom Nikki removed the tiny jacket of her tailored bolero suit, untied the wisp of a veil and laid aside her straw sailor. Then she turned to the bags the porter had placed in her stateroom before she arrived. Nikki thought about the trip ahead with a feeling of anticipation. She hadn't seen her aunt and uncle for five years, which seemed suddenly a long, long time, because previously she had spent at least part of every summer on the Lazy R ranch and Aunt Amy had really taken the place of a mother in her affections since her own mother had died.

Nikki supposed that Uncle Jim was busier now that he had turned the Lazy R into a dude ranch. She remembered him writing that "you easterners will always pay a good price to be entertained, but I can't tell anymore what I'll get for a carload of steers at Chicago." He had been very successful, Nikki knew.

Five years away. And during those five years she had finished school, made her debut, spent a year in Europe and become engaged to Steve Mallory, the young attorney who was this moment arranging his own luggage in another stateroom. He would join her in a few moments for Stephen Mallory was impatient of things which kept Nikki away from him as he was impatient with details and monotony and dullness. She had known Steve less than a year but he had a way of brushing aside opposition.

Nikki glanced at her own profile in the mirror, a slightly imperious profile if she had recognized it as such, and pressed the release snaps on her dressing case.

She raised the lid and stood staring with sharply indrawn breath. She touched the case with one finger. It was an unconscious movement.

For in the case, instead of her own neat array of toilet articles, Nikki saw bundle upon bundle of green and gold currency heaped in fascinating disorder.

There were packets of ten dollar bills, twenties and fifties, precisely bound and each labeled "$1,000." They had evidently been packed in stacks of denominations, but in movement the bundles had been mixed and confused.

The first thought Nikki had was that the interior of the case looked like a bank teller's cage after an earthquake. Letting her breath out slowly she touched the money gingerly as though expecting to see it fade away and be replaced by the familiar golden tops of the jars in her toilet case. But the money remained.

There must be at least a hundred of the bundles, Nikki thought. Whose money was it and why was it in her bag? Nikki thought back. The maid had packed for her. Well, the maid certainly hadn't put $100,000 in her bag. Nor had anyone else. It was impossible. But there it was, impossible or not.

A dozen thoughts started through her head. She should call the conductor. No, better call Steve. Maybe the money was stolen. Maybe it was counterfeit. They might be involved in some long investigation and have to return to New York. They might even be suspected of something, heavens knows what.

Then Nikki saw a brown morocco edge among the piles of green and yellow, and she lifted out a man's wallet that apparently had been tossed into the case with the money. It was an ordinary enough wallet. Nikki had seen others like it in the hands of escorts who had leafed out bills to settle countless checks for countless dinners and lunches.

She opened the billfold and across the inside flap read in plain gold lettering:

"Charles Dillon."

Nikki repeated the name to herself and she held the wallet a moment and then dropped it back into the bag. As she did there was a movement at the door. The lock clicked. Nikki turned half in panic her right hand making an involuntary gesture to close the bag.

"That's right," said the man standing in the opened door. "Close it back up. And then just forget that you ever saw it." His eyes were on the case.

The voice wasn't unpleasant. It was low and rather smooth, the voice of a man very sure of himself and very sure of the situation. Nor was the man unpleasant. His medium height fitted compactly into a dark suit. His age was indeterminate—maybe 35, maybe 40. A little too well barbered, thought Nikki.

She let the lid of the dressing case drop and glanced back at the owner of the voice. He wasn't looking at the bag now. He was looking at her. He saw the blond hair and the wide gray eyes that were even wider now as they stared at him. He saw the smooth column of her throat, the firm chin and the lower lip whose fullness was a perfect foil for the curving line of the upper. He saw the slimly curving figure with its deceptive suggestion of fragile delicacy.

Then he spoke again, but his eyes hadn't ceased their covetous admiration. His voice was still smooth, low.

The voice and the eyes don't fit, thought Nikki. The eyes are his. The voice he has stolen from someone else. It doesn't belong. She fought off a feeling that she was standing half-dressed. She heard him saying:

"I am very sorry. The bags were together and the porter made a mistake. Not a very serious mistake, although I really haven't much use for the things in this." He held out a dressing case and Nikki saw then that the bag in his hand and the one which held the money were identical.

He stepped over to her and set the bag in his hand down, fastening the case which held the packets of bills.

"I think you will find all of your things in good order. His eyes were still upon her as he bowed slightly at the door and was gone.

It was only seconds after he left that a knock sounded on her stateroom. Nikki hadn't moved.

The second rap was followed by

Nikki turned half in panic. . . . "That's right," said the man standing in the opened door. "Close it back up and then just forget that you ever saw it."
Illustration by E. H. Gunder

"Redcap" and Nikki opened the door to take a note from the colored boy. She felt the train jerk and slowly glide into motion as it left the station. The note was from her father and read:

"Be on your guard but under no circumstances antagonize Charles Dillon who is on the same train. This extremely confidential. Will explain later."

Miss Richardson And John S. Odom Marry

Impressive Ceremony Held At Winnsboro At Home Of Bride's Sister, Mrs. T. B. McDuff

A wedding claiming interest throughout the state was that of Miss Juanita Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richardson of Winnsboro and Rayville, and Mr. John S. Odom, son of Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Fred M. Odom of New Orleans, which was impressively solemnized October 15 at 6 o'clock in the evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. T. B. McDuff, and Mr. McDuff of Winnsboro. Rev. Dana Terry, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the members of the two families.

The marriage rites were read before an improvised altar banked with ferns and flanked with floor standards of white chrysanthemums. White cathedral candelabra burned in the background.

During the ceremony Mr. Harry Richardson, Jr., of Louisiana Tech, Ruston, played "Liebestraum".

The bride wore a lovely tailleur with black fox collar. Her corsage was of valley lilies and sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The lace-draped bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake embossed in roses and valley lilies. The top tier was surmounted by a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Sam Jones of Monroe, charmingly gowned in black with a corsage of Talisman roses, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. T. B. McDuff wearing an attractive fall model, and Mrs. J. W. McLemore in a beautiful costume of black with a shoulder bouquet of dwarf chrysanthemums, served the wedding cake and confections to the guests.

The bride's mother wore a lovely black crepe and lace model with a shoulder bouquet fashioned of yellow and bronze pompom chrysanthemums. Mrs. Odom, mother of the groom, was attractively attired in a model of teal blue with a shoulder bouquet of roses.

Mrs. Odom attended Hillman college, Clinton, Miss., and business college in Monroe. She is an accomplished musician and has been identified with music circles for several years. She recently took up residence in Shreveport where she held a responsible position.

Mr. Odom attended Tulane university in New Orleans. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is now associated with the engineering department of the Arkansas Natural Gas company in Shreveport, where he and his bride will make their home.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Justice and Mrs. Fred M. Odom of New Orleans; Mr. Fred Odom of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones of Monroe; Mrs. James Sligh and son of Rayville; Mr. Harry Richardson, Jr.; Messers J. W. and Quinten McLemore of Louisiana Tech.

Ruston

Psi chapter of Theta Upsilon at Louisiana Tech entertained its new pledges with a steak fry at Woodland park recently.

After a supper of barbecued steak, the actives were entertained by the varied talents of the new members, with the antics of Cathryn Mullis being featured.

Nancy Orr's interpretations of "Ole Man Mose" threw the crowd into peals of laughter.

The actives made their comeback with Claire Dailey's expressive version of "Sophisticated Lady."

Special guests at this occasion were Katherine Butler, Mrs. R. L. Vining, Lucy Campbell, Varnelle Plastow, Ruth Stewart and Nan Morgan.

Theta Sigma Nu entertained with a picnic at Tech's new park in celebration of the sorority's first anniversary.

Twenty-seven girls gathered close to a bonfire, where kabobs were toasted and cookies and soft drinks were served.

Edith LaBlanche entertained with her well-known "Ole Apple Tree" number and later Barbara Poteet favored the party with a short poem, "Bowling Green."

Active members of Alpha Chi chapter of Kappa Delta sorority have conferred second degrees on the following pledges: Alice Norris, Ellen Gulley, Imogene Maroney, June Mitchell, Martha Marbury, Betty Ruth Barnes, Virginia Montford and Elaine Nelson.

This ceremony is a part of the preparation for initiation as active members, which will take place within the next two weeks.

Friends of Nona Louise Neil of Vienna, La., are delighted to hear of her election as beauty queen at Brenau college for women at Gainesville, Ga.

Another honor recently bestowed upon this popular former Tech co-ed was her election as pledge president of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority at Brenau.

Ninety freshman girls, home economics majors at Louisiana Tech, were formally introduced to the home economics staff of the college at an annual buffet luncheon in their honor Wednesday noon.

The luncheon, which is the fifth to be held at the college, has become traditional in the home economics department. In addition to its social purposes, the banquet serves as a project for the sophomores in food preparation classes who prepare and serve the luncheon.

Records and achievements of each of the 90 first-year students were announced at the luncheon, Miss Graham said. The freshman girls were divided into six groups, each headed by one of the six faculty sponsors.

Tentative plans for the program during Religious Emphasis week at Louisiana Tech December 5-9, have been made by the religious organizations council at a special meeting in the home of Miss Alma Burk.

A copy of the suggested schedule will be presented to the faculty committee on Religious Emphasis week, headed by Dr. W. R. Cline.

After the important business meeting, the group enjoyed delicious refreshments consisting of individual cakes, candies and frozen combination of fruit and vegetable juice.

Ruston

Psi chapter of Theta Upsilon at Louisiana Tech entertained its new pledges with a steak fry at Woodland park recently.

After a supper of barbecued steak, the actives were entertained by the varied talents of the new members, with the antics of Cathryn Mullis being featured.

Nancy Orr's interpretations of "Ole Man Mose" threw the crowd into peals of laughter.

The actives made their comeback with Claire Dailey's expressive version of "Sophisticated Lady."

Special guests at this occasion were Katherine Butler, Mrs. R. L. Vining, Lucy Campbell, Varnelle Plastow, Ruth Stewart and Nan Morgan.

Sunrise breakfasts, picnics and skating parties continue to keep Louisiana Tech's social entertainments out in the open air.

Theta Sigma Nu entertained with a picnic at Tech's new park in celebration of the sorority's first anniversary.

Twenty-seven girls gathered close to a bonfire, where kabobs were toasted and cookies and soft drinks were served.

Edith LaBlanche entertained with her well-known "Ole Apple Tree" number and later Barbara Poteet favored the party with a short poem, "Bowling Green."

Active members of Alpha Chi chapter of Kappa Delta sorority have conferred second degrees on the following pledges: Alice Norris, Ellen Gulley, Imogene Maroney, June Mitchell, Martha Marbury, Betty Ruth Barnes, Virginia Montford and Elaine Nelson.

This ceremony is a part of the preparation for initiation as active members, which will take place within the next two weeks.

Friends of Mona Louise Neill of Vienna, La., are delighted to hear of her election as beauty queen at Brenau college for women at Gainesville, Ga.

Another honor recently bestowed upon this popular former Tech co-ed was her election as pledge president of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority at Brenau.

Ninety freshman girls, home economics majors at Louisiana Tech, were formally introduced to the home economics staff of the college at an annual buffet luncheon in their honor Wednesday noon.

The luncheon, which is the fifth to be held at the college, has become traditional in the home economics department. In addition to its social purposes, the banquet serves as a project for the sophomores in food preparation classes who prepare and serve the luncheon.

Records and achievements of each of the 90 first-year students were announced at the luncheon, Miss Graham said. The freshman girls were divided into six groups, each headed by one of the six faculty sponsors.

Tentative plans for the program during Religious Emphasis week at Louisiana Tech December 5-9, have been made by the religious organizations council at a special meeting in the home of Miss Alma Burk.

A copy of the suggested schedule will be presented to the faculty committee on Religious Emphasis week, headed by Dr. W. R. Cline.

After the important business meeting, the group enjoyed delicious refreshments consisting of individual cakes, candies and frozen combination of fruit and vegetable juice.

Oak Grove

The Woman's Missionary society of the Methodist church met on Tuesday for a program on "Serving in the Heart of Africa," with the opening remarks and others throughout the program being given by the president, Mrs. J. T. Williams, who also conducted the program.

Opening hymn was "Be Strong," with Mrs. J. D. Herring at the piano during the meeting; scripture, Matthew 21, verses 28 to 32, Matthew 25, verses 32 to 46, meditation, both of these were given by Mrs. Eva Cheatham; a few minutes of meditation were held during the playing of the first verse of "We Thank Thee Lord," later this hymn was sung; "Mingo Station" was given by Mrs. Jesse James; prayer, Mrs. J. T. Williams; "The Wembo Nyama Station," Mrs. E. B. Emmerich; "The Tunda Station" and "The Work at Lodja," Mrs. D. M. Copeland; prayer, Mrs. Jesse James, with the dismissal being given by Mrs. E. B. Emmerich.

The next meeting will be held at 2 p.m. on Tuesday instead of the usual hour to allow members of the Woman's Department club to attend this meeting as well as the club's meeting.

Mrs. J. D. Herring complimented her husband recently by inviting several relatives and friends in to a delicious dinner celebrating his birthday, which came as a complete surprise to Mr. Herring. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Perkins and children of Brookhaven, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hobbs and children, Mrs. Annie Birdsong, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Birdsong, Jr., and son and Mr. Sam Birdsong of Jackson, Miss., Mrs. Mayme York and Mr. Albert England of Rayville, Mr. and Mrs. Ardeb B. Smith and children of Oak Grove.

The Woman's Department club of Epps held a meeting recently at the residence of Mrs. T. Y. Wall with 11 members present. The following were appointed as delegates and alternates to the convention in Baton Rouge in November: Mrs. Poole, Mrs. Hurt and Mrs. LeFevre, Mrs. W. L. Gill and Mrs. Parkman, alternates. Mrs. Gilmore read the program for the coming year and the following program was given: "Can Diet Cause Cancer?" Mrs. T. W. LeFevre; "Cancer Not Hereditary," Mrs. E. A. Grice; "A Message of Hope," Mrs. C. M. Jarrell. The hostess served delicious refreshments to those present.

The junior auxiliary of American Legion Catron-Kelly post met at the hut for a meeting under the supervision of the leader, Mrs. W. S. Pollard, and presided over by the president, Miss Mickey Johnson. At this meeting plans were made for a Halloween and a "tacky" party. Barbara Lou Smith and Patricia Jane Copeland were appointed to act on the publicity committee.

SUPPORT THE COMMUNITY CHEST

In the Community Chest Campaign, which begins tomorrow and continues through November 5, Monroe and West Monroe have their greatest opportunity to show that they are the big-hearted, generous community we know them to be. Monroe and West Monroe have always responded liberally to every worthwhile call and undertaking and we know they will in this—a golden opportunity to help those who cannot help themselves, to assist in developing character, to aid in stabilizing future citizenship.

Putting charity and assistance on a business-like basis is not a novelty, but a proven method of handling the situation most efficiently. Nevertheless, it is a need Monroe and West Monroe have long felt. Haphazard giving has never accomplished the proper results. It has always worked to the disadvantage of our charitable and character-building institutions and organizations. "Monroe," according to a Monroe Morning World editorial of several weeks ago, "has been pestered by innumerable and sometimes conflicting 'drives' which have required the time of busy men to complete with painstaking care; they have been oftentimes an imposition, not only on the workers, but on those who were so repeatedly importuned to give to this and that civic agency."

The Community Chest will put an end to this. "The civic chest idea," the editorial continues, "will prove, we believe, the outstanding work of the Chamber of Commerce this year. If it has done no more for the community than this, it has accomplished something that has been desired and needed here for the past few years and was a step forward that required a large degree of forcefulness to initiate and carry into effect."

Under the Community Chest arrangement, there will be but one financial campaign this year for these nine important organizations and welfare agencies: the Boy Scouts of America, the Home of the Good Samaritan, the Monroe Maternity Clinic, the Ouachita Chapter of the Louisiana Society for Crippled Children, the Salvation Army, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Colored Welfare Mission, the Camp Fire Girls and the Social Welfare Exchange. Heretofore, each conducted its separate "drive," until, by the time the last one had been completed, the public felt that it had been "driven" to distraction. The earlier "drives" fared well, but not so the later ones. Consequently, there was an annual race, with unavoidable friction, to be among the first, in order to avoid getting just the leavings.

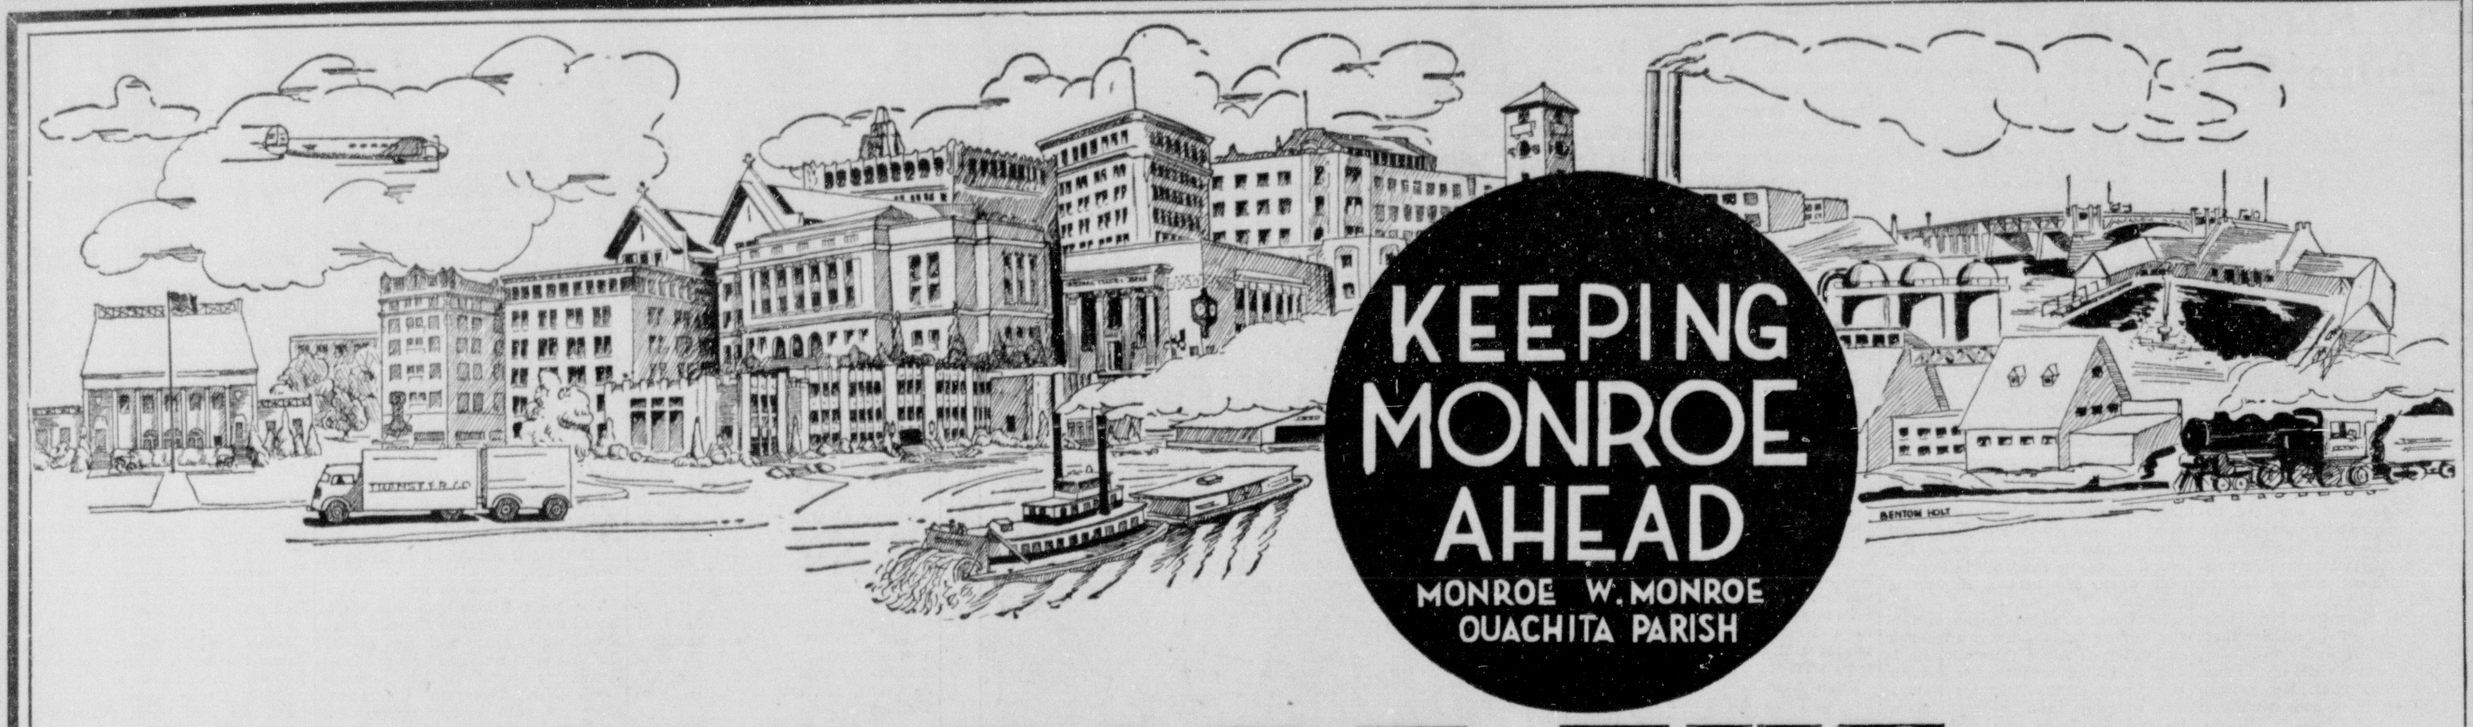

The Community Chest will eliminate constant and embarrassing solicitations. The $20,000 it seeks will be equitably apportioned among the participating organizations and agencies. Under these circumstances, we feel that every resident of Monroe and West Monroe will contribute to the full extent of his ability.

Monroe and West Monroe will not fail in the Community Chest campaign nor any other humanitarian undertaking. They are not that kind of cities. They will line up behind the Community Chest leaders. Their residents will give the workers a pat on the back when they come around and let them know that their efforts are appreciated, that everyone is working for a greater and better Monroe and West Monroe.

Gable And Loy Teamed In New Film Coming Here Friday

Joe E. Brown, mamMouth star, who appears as the all-American clown in the current attraction at the Capitol theater, co-starring June Travis.

John Barrymore is in all his glory as a vote-chasing, co-ed kissing, budget-bouncing governor who goes collegiate. George Murphy, Majorie Weaver, Joan Davis and Jack Haley interrupt their sperking and larking to heed the man who rounds up the best football team money can buy, puts in a female fullback, and parks his bandwagon on the campus! They're all in "Hold That Co-Ed," comedy hit playing Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

Dolores Costello, glamorous star of a few years ago, now returns to the screen as the featured player in "Beloved Brat," with Bonita Granville at the Capitol Tuesday.

'Too Hot To Handle' At Paramount

Thrilling Adventures Of Newsreel Cameraman And Aviatrix Told

FIVE major thrills reminiscent of five great news events, provide the background for the new Clark Gable-Myrna Loy picture, "Too Hot to Handle," coming to the Paramount theater next Friday for three days.

They include the aerial bombing of Shanghai, the crash of a famed aviatrix's plane on a round-the-world flight, the explosion of a mystery munitions ship, the disappearance and rescue of an American flier held as a white god by natives in the South American jungles, and a pitched battle between the New York police and a notorious two-gun gangster barricaded in a tenement flat with a "tommy-gun."

A story of newsreelmen, Clark Gable and Walter Pidgeon play rival newsreel cameramen and Myrna Loy portarys the daring aviatrix. They are supported by Walter Connolly who plays Gable's boss and Leo Carrillo as Gable's sound man.

On a round-the-world flight, Miss Loy crashes her plane in Shanghai.

A keen rivalry begins to obtain her flying services for rival newsreel companies. She joins Gable's company on condition it finances her to find her missing brother, believed to be held prisoner by jungle natives. Meanwhile, Miss Loy and Gable scoop the world with a newsreel of a burning liner. Gable and Pidgeon finance her expedition and the brother is rescued. Back in New York, Miss Loy rushes into Gable's arms during a gun battle.

In France, in 1457, a sow was hanged for murder, and her six pigs were prosecuted as accomplices.

Lloyd C. Douglas' "White Banners," starring Fay Bainter, Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville, returns to the Capitol theater Wednesday.

"Too Hot to Handle," coming to the Paramount theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, reunites Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in a thrill-packed action tale of a death-defying newsreel cameraman and a famous aviatrix. Walter Pidgeon, Walter Connolly and Leo Carrillo head a great supporting cast.

The best of the Hardy series returns to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. "Love Finds Andy Hardy," with Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone and Cecilia Parker. Judy Garland, Fay Holden, Lana Turner and Ann Rutherford are also featured.

Sonja Henie with Richard Greene in "My Lucky Star," plays for the last times today at the Paramount. Joan Davis, Cesar Romero and Buddy Ebsen are in support.

Edward G. Robinson, most dynamic actor on the screen today, brings to the Paramount theater Monday and Tuesday the most powerful characterization he has ever presented. In "I Am the Law," Mr. Robinson is seen as a mild-mannered professor of law who becomes a fighting prosecutor determined to wipe from his city all racketeering. Also in the cast of the new picture are Wendy Barrie, Otto Kruger, John Beal and Barbara O'Neil.

Joe Brown In New Film At Capitol

Joe E. Is Superman In 'The Gladiator,' A Hilariously Funny Film

JOE E. BROWN in "The Gladiator" with June Travis, Robert Kent and Man Mountain Dean, the bearded behemoth of ring fame, will be the feature attraction at the Capitol theater starting today.

Departing from his customary characterizations, the cavern-mounted comedian, in his newest offering, portrays the role of a scientifically-created superman. Those who read Philip Wylie's novel of the same title will remember the humorous circumstances under which "The Gladiator" was launched on his college misadventures.

Brown, returning to Webster college as a sophomore, is beaten and bludgeoned on the football field in the spirit of good clean fun when he attempts to impress Miss Travis, the belle of the campus. That night the professor who owns the boarding house where Brown resides selects Brown as the unwitting subject of an experiment to increase the human normal strength many-fold. The experiment works.

From that point on the story of "The Gladiator" is as amazing as it is amusing, picturing Brown as a virtual one-man Olympic team and a co-ed favorite from coast to coast.

In the secondary male lead is Robert Kent, able young actor who is the rival of Brown for June Travis' affections. In a prominent juvenile role is 12-year-old Dickie Moore, in a poignant portrayal of a runaway orphan befriended by Brown. In the role of the eccentric professor, who evolves the secret of the superman, is Lucien Littlefield. And portaying his fuss-budget, nagging wife, is Ethel Wales.

Man Mountain Dean, the ponderous comic mainstay of the American Wrestling ring, and Brown come to grips in the climactic wrestling match, said to be one of the most spectacular and hilarious sequences ever captured by movie cameras.

"The Gladiator" was directed by Edward Sedgwick, who piloted Brown through two previous successes, "Riding on Air" and "Fit for a King." Charles Melson and Arthur Seekman wrote the screen play.

Gable And Loy Teamed In New Film Coming Here Friday

Joe E. Brown, mamMouth star, who appears as the all-American clown in the current attraction at the Capitol theater, co-starring June Travis.

John Barrymore is in all his glory as a vote-chasing, co-ed kissing, budget-bouncing governor who goes collegiate. George Murphy, Majorie Weaver, Joan Davis and Jack Haley interrupt their sparking and larking to heed the man who rounds up the best football team money can buy, puts in a female fullback, and parks his bandwagon on the campus! They're all in "Hold That Co-Ed," comedy hit playing Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

Dolores Costello, glamorous star of a few years ago, now returns to the screen as the featured player in "Beloved Brant," with Bonita Granville at the Capitol Tuesday.

'Too Hot To Handle' At Paramount

Thrilling Adventures Of Newsreel Cameraman And Aviatrix Told

FIVE major thrills reminiscent of five great news events, provide the background for the new Clark Gable-Myrna Loy picture, "Too Hot to Handle," coming to the Paramount theater next Friday for three days.

They include the aerial bombing of Shanghai, the crash of a famed aviatrix's plane on a round-the-world flight, the explosion of a mystery munitions ship, the disappearance and rescue of an American flier held as a white god by natives in the South American jungles, and a pitched battle between the New York police and a notorious two-gun gangster barricaded in a tenement flat with a "tommy-gun."

A story of newsreelmen, Clark Gable and Walter Pidgeon play rival newsreel cameramen and Myrna Loy portarys the daring aviatrix. They are supported by Walter Connolly who plays Gable's boss and Leo Carrillo as Gable's sound man.

For the picture, a section of bombed Shanghai was recreated, a plane was crashed and burned, a 315-foot liner was burned at sea while two hundred expert swimmers were rescued from the turbulent sea, a New York street was erected for the gun battle, and a picture expedition was sent into the Dutch Guiana jungles to film a tribe of one thousand negroes who had never before seen a white man.

On a round-the-world flight, Miss Loy crashes her plane in Shanghai.

A keen rivalry begins to obtain her flying services for rival newsreel companies. She joins Gable's company on condition it finances her to find her missing brother, believed to be held prisoner by jungle natives. Meanwhile, Miss Loy and Gable scoop the world with a newsreel of a burning liner. Gable and Pidgeon finance her expedition and the brother is rescued. Back in New York, Miss Loy rushes into Gable's arms during a gun battle.

In France, in 1457, a sow was hanged for murder, and her six pigs were prosecuted as accomplices.

Lloyd C. Douglas' "White Banners," starring Fay Bainter, Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville, returns to the Capitol theater Wednesday.

Sonja Henie with Richard Greene in "My Lucky Star," plays for the last times today at the Paramount. Joan Davis, Cesar Romero and Buddy Ebsen are in support.

"Too Hot to Handle," coming to the Paramount theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, reunites Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in a thrill-packed action tale of a death-defying newsreel cameraman and a famous aviatrix. Walter Pidgeon, Walter Connolly and Leo Carrillo head a great supporting cast.

The best of the Hardy series returns to the Capitol theater Thursday and Friday. "Love Finds Andy Hardy," with Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone and Cecilia Parker. Judy Garland, Fay Holden, Lana Turner and Ann Rutherford are also featured.

Edward G. Robinson, most dynamic actor on the screen today, brings to the Paramount theater Monday and Tuesday the most powerful characterization he has ever presented. In "I Am the Law," Mr. Robinson is seen as a mild-mannered professor of law who becomes a fighting prosecutor determined to wipe from his city all racketeering. Joe Brown In New Film At Capitol

Joe E. Is Superman In 'The Gladiator,' A Hilariously Funny Film

JOE E. BROWN in "The Gladiator" with June Travis, Robert Kent and Man Mountain Dean, the bearded behemoth of ring fame, will be the feature attraction at the Capitol theater starting today.

Departing from his customary characterizations, the cavern-mounted comedian, in his newest offering, portrays the role of a scientifically-created superman. Those who read Philip Wylie's novel of the same title will remember the humorous circumstances under which "The Gladiator" was launched on his college misadventures.

Brown, returning to Webster college as a sophomore, is beaten and bludgeoned on the football field in the spirit of good clean fun when he attempts to impress Miss Travis, the belle of the campus. That night the professor who owns the boarding house where Brown resides selects Brown as the unwitting subject of an experiment to increase the human normal strength many-fold. The experiment works.

From that point on the story of "The Gladiator" is as amazing as it is amusing, picturing Brown as a virtual one-man Olympic team and a co-ed favorite from coast to coast.

In the secondary male lead is Robert Kent, able young actor who is the rival of Brown for June Travis' affections. In a prominent juvenile role is 12-year-old Dickie Moore, in a poignant portrayal of a runaway orphan befriended by Brown. In the role of the eccentric professor, who evolves the secret of the superman, is Lucien Littlefield. And portaying his fuss-budget, nagging wife, is Ethel Wales.

Man Mountain Dean, the ponderous comic mainstay of the American Wrestling ring, and Brown come to grips in the climactic wrestling match, said to be one of the most spectacular and hilarious sequences ever captured by movie cameras.

"The Gladiator" was directed by Edward Sedgwick, who piloted Brown through two previous successes, "Riding on Air" and "Fit for a King." Charles Melson and Arthur Seekman wrote the screen play.

Questions And Answers

Q. What is the best location for a light switch in a living room?

A. There should be a switch near the entrance door to the living room, if it is at some distance from the hall doorway, to permit lighting the room without having to cross or pass through the room first. A three-way switch at the enrance door and at he hall door permits switching light on or off at either place without retracing steps.

Q. I want to lay a wooden floor over the concrete one in my basement.

A. The concrete should be dampproofed. Lay 2-inch by 4-inch wood sleepers over concrete, 16 inches on center, and nail the wood floor to the sleepers.

Q. I would like to build a dining alcove in my kitchen if I can afford the space. What is the least amount of space that can be used and still allow for a convenient alcove?

A. It depends on whether the table and chairs are to be portable or built in. In the former type dining alcove the minimum desirable size is 7 feet 6 inches square. In the second type an area 4 feet 6 inches by 5 feet will suffice.

Efficient Small Home

This dwelling, which is situated in New Rochelle, N. Y., was financed by means of a $4,000 mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The property was valued by the FHA at $5,250.

While conventional in treatment the house has dignity and charm that will be enhanced when the effect of the landscaping becomes more pronounced. Each room, it will be noted, has cross-ventilation and affords a maximum of privacy.

IMPROVEMENT OF PROPERTY NOTED

Small Homes Now Are Better Constructed As Result Of FHA

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The small house, long regarded as the soundest of all residential mortgage risks, must now also be as attractive, efficient, livable and durable as more expensive homes in order to be marketed to the careful buyer of today.

The Federal Housing administration's contribution in establishing a set of minimum standards of construction which the small house must meet to be acceptable as security for an insured mortgage has been of such far-reaching importance as to elevate the design, plan and construction of virtually all small homes built today, FHA officials point out. This is in contrast to the neglect of these factors in the building of small homes in the past.

"It is not enough for the home to be valued at a price the average wage earner can afford," Howard Vermilya, director of the FHA's technical division, said. "The house must meet minimum construction standards that are both sensible and consistent with the type of the dwelling. It must be compatible with the needs of the family which will occupy it and, equally important, it must be located in a neighborhood reasonably free from the type of hazards that tend to destroy residential property values.

"Small homes have rarely had the advantage of competent architectural services. For many years past, it has been general practice to build the small single-family dwelling with little thought of usefulness and livability over a long time to come. Despite this, the small house has always been the best of residential mortgage risks.

"The FHA's greatest contribution probably has been to make home owning available to additional thousands of citizens who might not have been able to afford more expensive home financing systems which prevailed before the passage of the national housing act.

"In addition, however, by elevating the quality of design, the plan, construction and the livability and usefulness, the FHA has performed a notable service not only to the individuals who buy today's small homes but to the building industry which must meet the great demand for these homes.

"The Federal Housing administration's program has exerted a great influence in the home building industry in many ways, directly and indirectly. Nearly all small homes are now sold on the monthly payment basis and only a few are marketed on the multiple mortgage plan.

"As a result of the FHA's careful selection of mortgage risks, its insistence on minimum standards for the small house, and its analysis of the borrower's credit and his capacity to meet the mortgage payments, lenders are finding the high percentage mortgage a satisfactory risk, especially when, as in the FHA plan, provision is made for regular monthly payments to retire the mortgage principal.

"Builders are aware today that a tremendous market exists for the small home which can meet the FHA's eligibility requirements, whether the home is ultimately financed under the FHA's insured mortgage system or not. It can hardly be denied that the modern type of small home is better than that of 10 years ago. Today's small home is, in many respects, as complete a dwelling unit as its more elaborate counterpart and, considering the type and quality of standard equipment that now comes with the small home—automatic heating plants, modern cooking ranges, mechanical refrigerators, etc.—it represents a great advance over the small house of even a few years ago."

HAZARDS OF FIRE MAY BE REDUCED

National Housing Act Points Way To Better Construction, Improvement

Declaring that thousands of lives are lost and hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed each year by fire, Chief Frank Roddy of Monroe's fire department, yesterday called attention to the present opportunity to eliminate, or at least reduce this hazard.

Under the national housing act, Chief Roddy recalled, the Federal Housing administration is furthering fire prevention by assisting in the modernization of homes and other buildings, as well as construction of new ones, in accordance with better standards.

"About 50 per cent of the losses from fire, statistics show, are traceable to faulty construction," Chief Roddy said. "Such obvious faults of design as setting structural timbers into chimney walls, installing inadequate-ly protected wiring, and other such hazards contribute their share to this ghastly annual toll.

"While the fire hazard is universal anyone can diminish it in their home by making repairs and improvements under the convenient terms of the property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing administration," Chief Roddy continued. "Any property owner with good credit standing may obtain a loan for this purpose from one of many thousands of financial institutions which are qualified to have these loans insured by the Federal Housing administration. These loans may be repaid in small convenient installments over periods of three to five years."

Chief Roddy made it clear the Federal Housing administration does not lend government money. Instead he said, it merely offers an insurance plan to private financial institutions which permits them to make such loans at lower interest rates, for longer periods and for larger amounts than heretofore customary in this type of installment financing.

Full details of the plan, he said, could be obtained from any qualified lending institution.

HAZARDS OF FIRE MAY BE REDUCED

National Housing Act Points Way To Better Construction, Improvement

Declaring that thousands of lives are lost and hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed each year by fire, Chief Frank Roddy of Monroe's fire department, yesterday called attention to the present opportunity to eliminate, or at least reduce, this hazard.

Under the national housing act, Chief Roddy recalled, the Federal Housing administration is furthering fire prevention by assisting in the modernization of homes and other buildings, as well as construction of new ones, in accordance with better standards.

"About 50 per cent of the losses from fire, statistics show, are traceable to faulty construction," Chief Roddy said. "Such obvious faults of design as setting structural timbers into chimney walls, installing inadequately protected wiring, and other such hazards contribute their share to this ghastly annual bonfire.

"While the fire hazard is universal, anyone can diminish it in their home by making repairs and improvements under the convenient terms of the property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing administration," Chief Roddy continued. "Any property owner with good credit standing may obtain a loan for this purpose from one of many thousands of financial institutions which are qualified to have these loans insured by the Federal Housing administration. The loans may be repaid in small convenient installments over periods of three to five years."

Chief Roddy made it clear the Federal Housing administration does not lend government money. Instead, he said, it merely offers an insurance plan to private financial institutions which permits them to make such loans at lower interest rates, for longer periods and for larger amounts than heretofore customary in this type of installment financing.

Full details of the plan, he said, could be obtained from any qualified lending institution.

FANG'S POWER

NEWS SPREAD THROUGH THE LAND THAT TARZAN WOULD MAKE A LAST DESPERATE THRUST AGAINST THE INVADERS.

AND ALL THE COUNTRYSIDE ROSE TO JOIN HIM--PEASANTS AND ARTISANS; RICH AND POOR; YOUNG AND OLD.

THESE PEOPLE, LONG BECALMED BY PEACE, UNITED NOW IN PATRIOTIC FERVOR TO REPEL THE INVADER

EVEN THE BANDITS OF CHANG-LOON RODE UP TO JOIN THE MOTLEY THRONG.

"I'LL PERMIT NONE BUT MYSELF TO ROB MY COUNTRYMEN," THE CHIEFTAIN CHUCKLED.

NOW TARZAN ORGANIZED THE NONDESCRIPT ARMY, AND MARCHED ON THE CAPTIVE CITY.

SPIES BROUGHT NEWS OF THE ADVANCE TO FANG, AND HE SET ABOUT HIS SECRET PLANS.

TARZAN WAS PUZZLED TO S... ONLY A SMALL FORCE MARCHING OUT TO MEET HIM.

IN THE VANGUARD WERE MEN APPARENTLY UNARMED, BEARING ONLY SLINGS AND SMALL PELLETS.

SUDDENLY FANG BARKED A COMMAND. THE SLINGERS HURLED THE MYSTERIOUS PELLETS

HOGARTH—

THE MISSILES EXPLODED TERRIFICALLY IN THE MIDST OF TARZAN'S ARMY. SCORES PERISHED.

TARZAN HIMSELF WAS DASHED TO THE GROUND--- ----AND LAY STILL!

AFTER FRANTIC MANEUVERING, TRACY AND JIM TRAILER GET THEIR PLANE INTO POSITION AND CUT THE ROPES HOLDING THE WIRE NET.

CHESTER GOULD

THE NET HITS IT'S MARK! THE PROPELLER OF KARPSE'S PLANE IS SHATTERED AND THE MACHINE SWAYS DIZZILY, THEN PLUNGES HEADLONG INTO A HILLTOP OF TREES.

THEY'VE CRASHED THEIR PLANE, TOO. THEY'LL BE HERE ANY MINUTE—WHY ARE YOU FOOLING WITH THOSE WIRES?

WHICH DIRECTION IS THE WIND FROM?

THAT WAY. BUT WHY? HAVE YOU GONE MAD?

IT WAS THE ONLY THING WE COULD DO, JIM. WE KNOW THEY'RE DOWN—OVER THERE—AND WE'VE GOT TO CATCH THEM.

YES! AFTER ALL, CRASHING THE PLANE IS A CHEAP PRICE TO PAY FOR CATCHING THAT FIEND.

LET'S GO!

THERE IT IS, JIM! IT'S BURSTING INTO FLAMES! AND THEY MUST STILL BE IN THERE.

WAIT! FROM THE LOOKS OF THE PLANE, THEY DIDN'T LAND MUCH HARDER THAN WE DID. THEY MUST BE OKAY AND THEY'RE WAITING IN THERE TO DRILL US WHEN WE GET CLOSER.

COME OUT OF THERE YOU TWO—WITH YOUR HANDS UP—OR BURN TO DEATH.

ZING ZING BANG

THEY'RE NOT KIDDING US! THEIR BODIES WILL BE BURNED TO A CRISP. LET'S GET THIS DOOR OPEN!

WAIT A MINUTE, TRACY. WHAT ARE THOSE WIRES?

BOOM

WHAT WAS THAT?

OPENING THAT DOOR EXPLODED A SMALL NITROGLYCERINE BOMB I HAD EQUIPPED THE PLANE WITH TO DESTROY THE GAS DRUMS IN CASE WE WERE CAUGHT. BUT IT WON'T REACH US—WE'RE RUNNING AGAINST THE WIND.
